Kennedy Sees Peril In Berlin Situation

Military Would Accept Goulart As 'Figurehead'

ON WAY HOME — Brazilian Vice President Joao Goulart settles in his car on way to an airport hotel yesterday after his arrival at New York's Idlewild Airport. He flew in from Paris on his way to Brazil where he hopes to assume post of president. He was on Far East trip when Brazilian President Janio Quadros resigned.

Prime Minister Would Be Named To Rule Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — The military high command has backed down and agreed to accept Joao Goulart as president but with establishment of a prime minister who would actually rule the country, a government source said Wednesday.

The proposal by the nation's three top military chiefs was reported to differ from a similar plan submitted by a commission of Congress. The military chiefs want Congress, rather than the president, to name the prime minister. Brazil now has no prime minister; its government has been like that of the United States where the president holds the main executive office.

The new plan raised hopes for a solution to the crisis which has shaken Brazil since Janio Quadros resigned as president Friday.

There was no immediate indication whether Congress or Goulart, the leader of Brazil's Labor party, would accept the idea of a limited presidency. Goulart, as Quadros' vice president, is in line to succeed him. The military chiefs oppose Goulart because of his leftist views. He flew from Paris to New York Wednesday and was reported to have reservations to continue to neighboring Argentina.

Reports on the new proposal sifted out from a meeting called here by the military chiefs faced with staunch defiance from Goulart's home state, Rio Grande do Sul.

Goulart In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Brazilian Vice President Joao Goulart, center of a political upheaval in his homeland, arrived here from Paris Wednesday and said he was going to Brazil as soon as possible.

Goulart said that while he felt he was in fact the president of Brazil his main concern is to maintain "legality and order."

"I do not desire that a civil war occur in my country," he said.

He said that if he is actually established as president he will conduct the government "accord-

Rescue Of 81 From Alpine Lift Completed

CHAMONIX, France (UPI) — One of the great dramas in the history of mountain rescues ended Wednesday when the last of 81 shivering tourists were removed from tiny cable cars dangling in the French Alps.

Mountaineers who worked all night pulled the remaining tourists to safety 18 hours after a French air force jet sliced through an 11,000-foot high cable that moves the cars from the Aiguille du Midi peak near Mont Blanc to Helbronner Point on the Italian side.

The jet returned safely to a field at Luxeuil, France 140 miles to the north, but three of the cars plunged 329 feet and crashed on a glacier below.

Four Germans and two Italians died on the ice and rocks.

The freak accident left the passengers, including two American students, suspended precariously from the aerial railway's main cable over the three mile wide valley. But the jet had cut the operating line.

One hundred rescue workers converged on the cableway's anchoring points. Helicopters dispatched to the scene found the high mountain air too thin to operate in and some of the workers risked their lives to reach the cars hand by hand over the cable.

The accident occurred shortly after noon Tuesday (8:45 a.m. EDT). Seven hours later the first group of frightened, cold and hungry passengers stepped out of their car and were bundled up.

After 15 hours, the two Americans reached safety. "I was awfully glad to get down," said Katherine Blodgett, 19, of Grand Rapids., Mich., when reporters asked her about the ordeal. "I sure wasn't dressed for it."

She attends Radcliffe College. With her was her cousin, Hugh Putnam, 20, of Milton, Mass., a student at Harvard University. Both were uninjured.

Kennedy School Aid Measure Killed By House

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy suffered one of the most stunning defeats of this session of Congress Wednesday when the House voted against considering his aid-to-education bill, even though it was a whittled-down compromise.

Republicans and Southern Democrats formed the bulk of the group that overwhelmed the bill's supporters, 242 to 169. Only six Republicans voted to consider the bill, while 82 Democrats voted against.

The vote came quickly after the House met at noon, and it apparently ended all chances at this session for the administration to establish the principle of federal aid for public school construction. This was the key proposal remaining in the bill, and the one that stuck in the throats of the conservatives.

The other parts of the compromise, extension of federal aid to school districts crowded with children of federal employes, and extension of a college student loan program, are likely to be brought up next week as a new bill.

There is little opposition to these programs. The impacted areas aid benefits districts of more than 300 congressmen. That and the student loans are all that the administration is likely to salvage of the ambitious program it originally submitted.

The original program called for $2.5 billion for public schools, both for construction and salaries. All that remained in the final compromise was a $325-million one-year construction program for the most needy school districts.

Also proposed was a $1.8-billion college aid bill for building college facilities and federal scholarships to students. In the final skirmishing in House committees, the scholarship provisions were dropped. But construction funds are still included in a separate bill which has a chance of passage in the House later.

Discoverer Fired Into Polar Orbit

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) —The United States halted a two-shot "losing streak" Wednesday by firing the 29th Discoverer satellite into orbit.

The 81-foot Discoverer hurtled aloft in a heavy fog with a gold-plated capsule filled with instruments the Air Force hopes to recover from space.

The Air Force announced two hours after the 4 p.m. EDT launch that the 25-foot satellite had entered a polar orbit. Tracking stations in Alaska and Hawaii confirmed the orbit.

Officers said the recovery — near Hawaii by ships and planes —could be tried from one to four days after launching.

Exactly what was inside the capsule was secret.

Charles Coburn, Veteran Actor, Dies At Age Of 84

NEW YORK (UPI) — Veteran character actor Charles Coburn, 84, died Wednesday at Lenox Hill Hospital, bringing to an end one of the longest active careers in show business.

The actor, one of Hollywood's most loved and most renowned oldtimers, succumbed at 3:50 p.m. EDT after undergoing throat surgery Wednesday morning.

The actor was married only a year ago last June to a 41-year-old widow.

The sprightly, octogenarian Coburn — whose professional acting covered 68 of his years — had expressed his hope only recently of living "another 10 years before departing this world." He kept busy almost to the last, enjoying in his jovial, hearty manner everything and everybody within range of his personality.

Coburn, who wore a monocle nearly half a century because— as few people knew — of an astigmatism in his right eye, revisited his hometown at Savannah, Ga., early this year. As outspoken as ever he proposed in an interview that the stirring strains of "Dixie" ought to replace that "frightful piece of music" called the Star Spangled Banner.

He described his own attitude, "I would stand on my head in the middle of the street — if it would sell tickets."

It was thus with his entire personal outlook; he liked people but he liked to shock them, too. He once said he would be "miserable" if he retired.

His versatility, however, was chief asset. He did everything from the classics in opera to the "bumps" in the film, "The More The Merrier." He liked any sport "that's well done," and at the age of 70 took up harness racing actively by driving his own horses in workouts with a sulky.

West's Big 4 Ministers Will Meet Sept. 14

President Appoints Gen. Lucius D. Clay As Envoy In Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy Wednesday described the situation in Berlin as "fraught with peril." He said the United States is determined to convince Russia that the West means to defend its rights there.

Kennedy, at a news conference, announced these measures for dealing with the crisis in Berlin:

1. A meeting of the Western Big Four foreign ministers to begin in Washington Sept. 14. He said this would represent a further step in the process of continuing consultation among the Big Four "in light of the Soviet challenge."

2. The appointment of retired Gen. Lucius Clay as his personal representative in Berlin. He called Clay, who masterminded the 1948-49 airlift which thwarted the Communists' ground blockade of Berlin, a man of outstanding ability and experience. Kennedy said he and Secretary of State Dean Rusk have unusual confidence in Clay.

Kennedy reiterated that the United States would use all available channels to ascertain if a peaceful settlement can be reached on the problems of Europe and in particular Germany.

"I do not see that there could be any solution, which would serve the world, on Berlin by force," Kennedy said.

Peaceful Solution Required

In these days of massive forces and weapons, the President declared, the future of the human race requires that a peaceful solution be sought.

"Neither side should attempt to impose its will by brute force because in that case it would be unsuccessful and disaster would be the common result," Kennedy said.

In response to a question, Kennedy declined to spell out what areas of negotiation he saw on the Berlin question.

Such a discussion, he said, would not be useful at this time.

A newsman told him that former Vice President Richard M. Nixon had termed Kennedy's dispatch of 1,500 additional troops to West Berlin a useless gesture. And, the newsman said, Rep. William Miller of New York, the Republican national chairman, had charged the Kennedy administration with an attitude of appeasement.

Kennedy replied he would not comment on those particular remarks. He said the situation in Germany is fraught with peril and suggested that anyone aware of the destructive power available to both sides in the dispute should "be careful in attempting to take any political advantage out of our present difficulty."

Troops 'Hostage' To U. S. Intent

Kennedy, in apparent relation to Nixon's remarks, then went on to say he was well aware that from a military point of view Berlin could not be held at this time if it were subjected to a direct Soviet attack.

"What we hope will prevent that direct attack is the awareness of the Soviet Union that we mean to defend our position in West Berlin and that American troops who are not numerous there are our hostage to that intent."

He said he believed that West Berliners would benefit from a reminder — in the form of fresh troops — of the West's commitment.

After a pause, he added: "I don't see really how that weakens our commitment. If troops were

Minuteman Rocket Blows Up In Silo

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—An Air Force Minuteman "instant ICBM" blew up in a concrete-lined hole in the ground Wednesday in its first flight attempt from a silo.

The 60-foot rocket, pride and joy of the Air Force's new generation of missiles, exploded in a mass of smoke and flame that boiled over the Cape.

This marked the first attempt to send the Minuteman on a full test flight from an underground silo, although the rocket ran up a string of eight perfect tests in "tethered" launchings from similar holes at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., early in its development.

There was no indication immediately on how much damage was caused by the mishap.

Rights Agency Voted 2-Year Lease On Life

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate voted 70 to 19 Wednesday night for a two-year extension of the controversial federal Civil Rights Commission.

The action came at the end of a day which saw the Senate vote down attempts to give the commission a longer lease on life. Also rejected was an attempt to link civil rights legislation to the extension plan.

Voting against the extension 18 Southern Democrats and GOP Sen. Milton R. Young, N. D.

The extension was hitched as a legislature rider to a money bill for the State and Justice Departments, the Civil Rights Commission and other agencies. The Senate previously voted 72 to 21 to suspend its rules to attach the rider.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., joined his Republican counterpart Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., in heading the drive for the two-year extension.

He disposed of the other proposals by moving to table them — on the grounds that a longer extension or a more elaborate civil rights amendment might provoke a Southern filibuster.

Technically, the Senate's action on the extension was subject to final approval later of the appropriations bill. This appeared all but certain.

The 72-21 margin by which the Senate suspended its rules to clear the way for the showdown votes was 10 votes more than the required two thirds majority.

Injunction Bars Pennsy Strike

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A federal judge issued an injunction Wednesday barring a threatened strike by 11,000 maintenance workers of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

U. S. District Court Judge Harold K. Wood granted the railroad's request for the injunction and said the strike set for midnight Thursday would do "irreparable injury" to the carrier.

The Transport Workers Union last Sunday threatened to "resume" a strike last September which shut down the system for 12 days. The union said the men would walk out Thursday midnight unless an arbitrator's decision on work rule disputes was not handed down by then.

Wood, who heard arguments Tuesday by both sides on the railroad's petition for the injunction, urged that both the union and the PRR "use all reasonable means" to assist in having the arbitrator's report filed "at the earliest possible date."

Show Of U.S. Force Shakes Loose Army Sedan Held By Reds

BERLIN (AP)—The U.S. Army rushed a small armored task force to the border Wednesday when an American military sedan was held up by armed guards inside the sealed-off Soviet sector.

A captain and three enlisted men in a U.S. Army staff car crossed into East Berlin in mid-afternoon and found themselves walled in by two automobiles full of East German police.

Word reached the West that the American military's right to be in East Berlin had been challenged. The U.S. Army raced two extra tanks and five armored cars to the Friedrichstrasse crossing point where all foreign traffic now passes to and from the blockaded East.

From the sidelines, where they have been keeping a constant watch, U.S. troops trundled up still another tank. The three big machines, their gun muzzles lowered on East German border guards, raced their engines. Five personnel carriers bristling with armor, also took up positions.

The four Americans in the sedan, all in uniform, stood their ground and refused to have anything to do with the East German police. They demanded to see a Soviet officer.

A Soviet major arrived and "protested," but it was unclear what he was protesting about. He took action, however, and after 2¼ hours the Army sedan returned over the Friedrichstrasse crossing point to West Berlin.

The Army immediately pulled its tanks and armored cars back, but as Col. Wayne Winder of Sheridan, Ill., said on the scene: "Not too far."

Asked if he would have charged into the Soviet sector to rescue the Americans, the colonel in full battle gear said: "I'd have been happy to do that if I had got the order."

As soon as the problem was solved, the American forces reduced their visible front on the border to a jeep. The East Germans also withdrew a personnel carrier that had suddenly turned up, loaded with about a dozen riflemen. They turned the job back to pistol-packing border guards.

Conferees Give Foreign Aid Bill Final Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate-House conferees voted final approval late Wednesday of a compromise $4.25 billion foreign aid bill authorizing a five-year program of economic development loans abroad.

The measure, signed by all five of the House conferees and six of the eight-member Senate group, is scheduled for passage in the Senate and House Thursday.

President Kennedy told his news conference the compromise bill would give his administration "a very valuable tool." He said he hoped Congress would not cut the funds authorized by the measure, "because any cut would diminish by that much our ability to do the job."

Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate conferees, said the signatures of Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, who was out of town, and Sen. Homer E. Capehart, R-Ind., who hasn't made up his mind on the report, were the only ones missing from the document.

The compromise rejects Kennedy's request for authority to borrow money from the Treasury to finance the loan program, and requires annual appropriations from Congress to fund it. However, the White House called the measure "wholly acceptable" to the President.

Traditional Segregation Barrier Falls In Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A century-old tradition was shattered Wednesday when nine Negroes quietly entered four previously white high schools in this Deep South metropolitan area of more than a million people.

Elaborate security measures nipped any possible trouble. Five persons, including one who said he was a member of the Nazi party, quickly were sentenced to 30 to 60 days on charges of disorderly conduct by interfering with the schools. Three others were questioned and released.

The Atlanta compliance with a federal court order left traditional segregation barriers in force only in Alabama, Mississippi and South Carolina.

Police kept persons moving and prevented crowds from forming at the four widely separated schools in areas representing a cross-section of the city's social and economic levels.

School officials reported attendance was normal or above normal at the four schools despite last minute efforts by a few race extremists to promote a boycott. Total attendance for the four was 4,336 or 150 above the enrollment expected.

One of the eight persons taken into custody at the schools told police he was Bill Cody of Arlington, Va., a member of the Nazi party. He said he came to picket and was hauled off to police headquarters.

Cody was given a 30-day sentence in Municipal Court on a charge of disorderly conduct. When the sentence was pronounced he raised his arm in a Nazi salute and said, "Sieg heil."

Soviet Claims It Pressured Into Renewal

Russ Say Projects For Superpowerful Bombs Worked Out

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced Thursday it will resume experimental explosions of nuclear weapons because of pressure from "imperialist countries."

The Soviet announcement warned that Soviet scientists have "worked out projects of creating a series of superpowerful nuclear bombs" with a yield equivalent of up to 100 million tons of TNT.

And, the announcement added, rockets similar to those used to boost the Soviet Union's two astronauts into orbit around the earth are capable of delivering the new bombs to any point on earth.

(The first foreign governmental reaction came from Britain. A Foreign Office spokesman in London said early Thursday morning Britain had no official notice of the Soviet intentions and added: "We shall be astonished at such a retrograde step." He noted there was no mention of it at the Geneva nuclear test ban talks Wednesday).

The announcement — certain to force the United States to restudy its suspension of nuclear tests since Aug. 22, 1958—was transmitted by the Soviet news agency Tass.

Soviet scientists have taken every measure to minimize the harmful consequences of nuclear fallout on living organisms, Tass said.

The Soviet announcement charged: "It is an open secret that the United States is standing on the threshold of carrying out underground nuclear tests.

"It is obvious that such tests, even if it asserted that they were conducted for peaceful purposes, are nothing else but a concealed form of perfecting the available nuclear weapons or working on its new types."

The Soviet Union announced suspension of nuclear weapons tests March 31, 1958. The then President Dwight D. Eisenhower announced the following Aug. 22 that U.S. tests had been suspended.

The United States, the Soviet Union and Britain have been negotiating a permanent test ban in Geneva since Oct. 31, 1958. Both the United States and the Soviet Union threatened to resume nuclear testing if the negotiations were unsuccessful.

JFK Condemns Russ Action; U.S. Course Undecided

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy Wednesday night accused the Soviet Union of posing a hazard to every human being throughout the world by resuming atomic tests. He ordered Ambassador Arthur Dean recalled from the Geneva test ban talks to see what the United States should do.

In a White House statement issued at 9:50 p.m., Kennedy left open the question of what decision the United States will make about resuming nuclear test explosions, now that the Soviet Union has begun again.

Kennedy declared the Soviet announcement of plans for testing nuclear superbombs equivalent to the size of 100 million tons of TNT are threats which the Soviet Union "must know cannot intimidate the rest of the world."

"The United States, however, continues to believe in the importance of an agreement to end nuclear weapons test," the President said.

He then declared that the Soviet decision to go ahead with testing now "leaves the United States under the necessity of deciding what its own national interests require."

Holiday Auto Traffic May Take 420 Lives

CHICAGO (UPI) — The National Safety Council estimated Wednesday that 420 persons may die in traffic accidents over the Labor Day weekend.

It said 17,000 persons may emerge from the 78-hour holiday weekend with disabling injuries received in highway mishaps.

The council predicted a heavy surge of traffic on the nation's highways. It said most of the 74 million motor vehicles in the country will be on the road sometime between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight next Monday.

Witnesses Clam Up At Gambling Probe

Post Office Dept. Crackdown Requested

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators investigating an intricate network of gambling services ran into another string of balky witnesses Wednesday. Obviously miffed, they asked the Post Office Department to crack down on racing news publishers who plead the Fifth Amendment.

Two witnesses, Stanley Schoemaker of Highland Heights, Ky., and Richard Busker of Cincinnati —identified as gambling partners —refused even to sign their name on pads. Another, Robert C. Cullen of Cincinnati, refused to acknowledge that he knew his own son.

Sens. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., and Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D. —only members of the Senate Investigations subcommittee present—were so nettled by the witnesses that time after time they referred to them as "Fifth Amendment artists."

Mundt spoke of possible contempt of Congress proceedings. He said courts should test whether a witness may make "frivolous or capricious" use of the Fifth Amendment protection against self-incrimination.

McClellan accused the witnesses of "challenging your government" and he declared: "Maybe you folks are bigger than your government. I rather doubt it.'

In turning to the post office for help, Mundt and McClellan voted to ask that the postmaster general revoke the second-class mailing privileges of any racing news publishers who plead the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer questions the subcommittee asks about his business.

This would not bar his publication from the mails—a step McClellan suggested might be taken. But the publisher would have to pay higher first class mailing rates.

Specifically McClellan, the subcommittee chairman, asked the postmaster general to crack down on two witnesses who had refused to answer any questions.

One, who testified Tuesday, was Thomas Kelly Sr., head of a big Illinois sports service that publishes the Green Sheet and other racing publications. The other, who testified Wednesday, was Louis Efkeman, chief of Kelly's Louisville, Ky., subsidiary and editor of Daily Sports in Louisville.

Sewer Gas Kills Meter Reader

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — A meter reader for the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission died Wednesday and two others were hospitalized after being overcome by sewer gas.

Montgomery County Police said Roy Walter, 30, of Silver Spring, Md., was pronounced dead on arrival at Suburban Hospital in this Washington suburb.

Frank B. Smith, 25, of Washington was admitted to the same hospital, and a third man, James D. Welch, 27, of Silver Spring was taken to Sibley Hospital.

The three men were trying to read a water meter inside a manhole when the mishap occurred.

ing to democracy and the traditions of the hemisphere."

A Brazilian crisis was precipitated by the resignation of President Janio Quadros on Friday. Some military leaders objected to Goulart's moving into the presidency on the ground he held leftist views.

However, while Goulart was crossing the Atlantic aboard a jet airliner, the military leaders agreed to have Goulart serve as a figurehead president, with Congress appointing a prime minister to serve until elections in 1963.

Newsmen asked Goulart if he would submit to being a "figurehead president."

"The Parliament must decide that by themselves," he said.

Some Railroad Subsidization Favored By ICC

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission, traditional foe of transportation subsidies, came out Wednesday in favor of direct federal aid to keep essential—but the money-losing—passenger trains running.

The commission stressed that it still opposes general subsidization of transportation.

The proposals immediately ran into trouble when outlined by ICC Chairman Everett Hutchinson before a Senate Surface Transportation subcommittee.

Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, accused the ICC of taking the easy way out of difficulties besetting the railroads. "You're trying to buy your way by using the taxpayers' money," Lausche told Hutchinson.

Lausche and Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., spoke of complaints by rail management of labor featherbedding practices, "payments for work not done," Lausche called them.

Along this same tack, Thurmond contended that . "if the shackles were removed, the railroads could survive on their own." He said he hoped the ICC would have "the courage to make recommendations along that line."

The ICC, in a report geared mainly to the financial plight of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, said it and other carriers must have federal grants to maintain needed passenger services.

It estimated its proposals would not cost more than $52 million annually even if all the railroads applied for and received the assistance.

The commission said its recommendations would be sent to Congress.

Under the commission's proposals, federal aid would be geared in part at least to the amount of assistance provided by states and municipalities for passenger service.

Soviet Claims

But until now, neither had been willing to risk offending world opinion, particularly among nonaligned nations where opposition to testing has been strong.

"In order to discourage the aggressors from criminal playing with fire it is necessary to make sure that he knows and sees that there is a power in the world which is ready to give an armed rebuff to any encroachment on the independence and security of peace-loving states and that the hand of retribution will reach the aggressor in his own den," the statement said.

The Russians swept away the prospects of the Geneva conference in a blast of scorn for the West—and particularly France.

The Kremlin statement said "the entire course of negotiations in Geneva proves that the Western powers pursue the aim of actually legalizing those types of nuclear tests in which they are interested, and of establishing an international control body which would be an obedient tool in their hands.

"Hypocritical statements of representatives of the U.S.A. and Great Britain about the termination of tests and international control have proved to be nothing more than camouflage.

"France, encouraged by the United States and Britain, has been carrying out nuclear tests already for a long time in spite of warnings by the U.S.S.R. that it would be forced to resume tests if France did not stop its experiments with nuclear weapons.

"The blast wave of French nuclear tests has reached Geneva, actually sweeping away from the tale of negotiations the proposals aimed at putting an end to the nuclear weapons tests once and for all."

Priest's Church Beer Sale Plan Falls Through

EDINBURG, Tex. (UPI)—A 26-year-old city ordinance Wednesday dried up the plans of a Roman Catholic priest to sell beer at his church in nearby McCook, Tex.

The Rev. V. Herbert Howley had planned to sell beer to his parishioners on church property on the theory it would be better for them to get it there than at taverns.

He applied for a church beer permit. He withdrew the application Tuesday when Hidalgo, Tex., County Judge Milton Richardson said a 1935 order passed by the Hidalgo County Commissioners Court prohibits the sale of beer within 300 feet of the door of a church or a school.

GOP Leaders Urge Nixon Run

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Republican national leaders Wednesday overwhelmingly urged former Vice President Richard M. Nixon to run for governor of California next year.

President Kennedy also said he would give Nixon his views on the California race "as a fellow . . .follower of the political profession" if his presidential opponent sought his opinion.

Kennedy told his news conference, "I would be glad to give him my opinion, as I have an opinion on the matter." He did not disclose the opinion to newsmen.

Nixon and GOP leaders from in and outside Congress agreed at a private breakfast that the party must build strength in the 1962 elections "to put a brake on potentially dangerous" Kennedy administration policies.

But the main topic of their session, legislators said, was the possibility of Nixon running against Democratic Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown in next year's California election.

withdrawn, would that strengthen it?"

Kennedy said that he was sure Soviet Premier Khrushchev is as aware as he of the terrible devastation that would be wrought throughout the world if countries possessing nuclear weapons tried to fling them at each other.

Kennedy discussed a wide range of topics at his first news conference since Aug. 10. For the occasion, he wore his usual news conference outfit of dark blue suit and purple tie.

At the outset he congratulated Gov. Ernest Vandiver of Georgia, Mayor William B. Hartsfield of Atlanta, other officials, parents and students for the "responsible, law-abiding manner" in which Atlanta desegregated four high schools Wednesday.

Kennedy also got into these other matters:

STEEL AND AUTO—Kennedy said his economic advisers believe steel companies can absorb a wage increase due Oct. 1 without increasing prices and still insure themselves of a good profit.

He expressed hope that these companies would "concern themselves with the public interest" and said a steel price hike would set off another inflationary spiral.

SCHOOLS — Kennedy acknowledged as "quite clear" the defeat of his public school aid proposals in the House earlier Wednesday. He promised to try again next year to get through legislation providing federal funds for school construction. The administration was not the loser now, he said—the losers were the "school children who need this assistance."

NIXON—In response to a question, Kennedy said he has an opinion, as a fellow practitioner of the political profession, as to whether Nixon should run for governor of California. The President didn't say what that opinion is, but drew a laugh when he said he would be glad to give Nixon his opinion, if Nixon asked.

The former vice president had said he will announce his own decision late next month.

Matter Of Extremes

BARRIE, Ont. (AP)—Workers at the Universal Cooler Co. complained that the plant's burglar alarm was so sensitive that it went off if someone just walked through a room. The company adjusted it. Several nights later a thief forced open a window and escaped with $250. The alarm did not go off.

Cholesterol And Heart Trouble Mass Test Set

HONOLULU (AP) — The National Heart Institute this fall will start a mass experiment involving as many as 400,000 Americans to determine whether and to what extent cholesterol causes heart trouble.

The program will last for five years. Thousands of families will receive nearly all their food free. Some will have controlled diets.

Dr. Frederick Stare, chairman of Harvard University's Department of Nutrition, said pilot studies of six to 12 months will begin this fall in Boston, Baltimore, Chicago, Minneapolis and Oakland, Calif.

Stare, attending the 10th Pacific Science Congress, said 250 males will be chosen in each city. Their diets will naturally affect their families, he said, which multiplies the number by three to four times.

The men will be examined every three months, with special emphasis on heart condition, amount of animal fat consumed, exercise and amount of cholesterol in their blood, Stare said.

The experiment grew out of a congressional request for more specific information on cardio-vascular ailments and their causes. It is sponsored by the U.S. Public Health Service.

After the pilot studies are completed, Stare said, 100,000 men in the 45-54 age group will be selected for a five-year study.

AMC And UAW Clear Barrier

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers Union Wednesday removed the only barrier to a labor contract settlement based on the auto industry's first profit-sharing plan.

AMC president George Romney and UAW President Walter P. Reuther announced agreement on rules governing working conditions in the plants. They said the technical language was being completed.

Reuther joined Romney in a news conference for the announcement during a luncheon recess in intensified bargaining at General Motors Corp.

Reuther personally took command of the UAW's bargaining with GM after the union and the company agreed on extension of a strike deadline from Friday midnight to 10 a.m., Sept. 6.

Pravda Implies E. German Pact Insures Peace

MOSCOW (AP) —The whole front page of Pravda, the Communist party paper, was devoted Wednesday to telling the Russian people the German situation is becoming serious, but that the Soviet government will assure peace by a treaty with East Germany and by separating Berlin from the West.

The paper gave full play to a declaration of the party and government ordering extension of the terms of servicemen due for discharge this year.

"Interests of security of the Soviet Union demand that the best-trained Soviet soldiers continue their service in the armed forces of the Soviet Union until a peace treaty with Germany is concluded," the declaration said.

This assumption that the signing of a Soviet-East German peace treaty would end global tensions was further implied:

"The treaty is called upon to improve relations between the states, to improve the situation in Europe and to strengthen world peace. The Central Committee of the Communist party of the Soviet Union and the Soviet government express hope that this will also be understood by leading quarters in the United States, the United Kingdom and France and other Western powers, so that common sense will prevail there and the Western powers will not contradict the will of the peoples, who are vitally interested in the maintenance and consolidation of peace."

So far, extremely little publicity has been given within the Soviet Union to Western claims, including a statement by President Kennedy, that interference with the present situation in Germany is more likely to create than prevent trouble.

A Western diplomat wondered aloud: "Just why are the Russian people being told just the opposite of what is likely to happen?"

But Russians in the street don't seem to see it that way. There is such a genuine dislike and distrust of Germans here that almost any program designed to weaken them is bound to be popular.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Say you're sick — but not acutely ill.

You're conscious and able to navigate.

But the doctor decides you need some diagnostic work. And he elects to have you admitted to a hospital.

So there you are, Jane Doe, being charged from $26 to $35 or more a day — even though you don't need all the intensive and costly care the hospital's serving up to the acutely ill patient in the next room.

By the time the pain in the pocketbook starts to give you mental anguish, you're thinking that maybe the hospital ought not to be charging you so much.

Now hospital administrators in one hospital got to thinking along these lines some months ago. And they did something about it.

The effect: A 50 per cent or greater reduction in the per day charge for selected patients.

Now this isn't happening in Utopia hospital. It's happening in the North Carolina Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem, N. C.

How the hospital managed to slice costs for some patients while hospital costs generally continue to spiral is told by Robert Walker, administrative assistant to the North Carolina Baptist Hospitals.

Walker, reporting in "Hospitals," the journal of the American Hospital Association, credits the financial miracle to a new minimal care unit the hospital opened in March.

It has 80 beds. The cost per patient per day ranges between $7 and $12.

"The decision to build the new unit came after the trustees of the hospital, anxious to reduce patient cost and still increase bed capacity, studied a patient survey that showed that on almost any day at least one patient in five, or sometimes one in four or even one in three, did not require full professional hospital care," he said.

To be eligible for admittance to the less costly quarters, patients must meet the following requirements:

—They must be transferred from Baptist Hospital for convalescence.

—Or they must be admitted for diagnostic studies or a therapeutic regimen not requiring intravenous drugs.

—And they must be able to walk to meals. Patients with fever or infection are not eligible for admission.

"The main factor in the difference in cost is in the saving made possible in payroll," Walker said. "Although the hospital has 2.71 employees for each patient, the ratio in the center is three patients to one employee."

This savings in personnel — and money — is possible for these reasons:

In the center the patient takes his own medication, has his meals in the hospital's cafeteria and is not generally subjected to hospital routine.

Rates for rooms in the hospital range from $13.50 to $26. In the minimal care unit, rates range from $7 to $12, with most being $9.

Finnish Priest To Be Ordained

HELSINKI (UPI)—The first Finnish Roman Catholic priest to be ordained in his homeland in about 400 years will take his vows Sunday in Helsinki's Church of St. Mary.

The blond, 35-year-old Dominican, Brother Martti Voutilainen, was converted to the Roman Catholic faith in 1953 when he was studying history at the University of Helsinki.

There have been only two Finnish Catholic priests during the 400 years since the Reformation, according to church records. But both of them were ordained elsewhere.

His ordination will be a big event for the 2,300 Finnish Roman Catholics. The ceremony will be performed by Bishop Guillaume Cbben of the Finnish Roman Catholic Diocese. Also present will be all the 20 Roman Catholic priests of Finland.

Four Additional Rangers Ordered For Moon Shots

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—Four more Ranger spacecraft have been ordered in the moon exploration program, the latest ones to carry television cameras for closeup pictures in preparation for a manned lunar landing, it was announced Tuesday.

Dr. Robert C. Seamans Jr., associate administrator of the National Space Agency, and Dr. William H. Pickering, director of the California Institute of Technology Jet Propulsion Laboratory, announced the increase from five to nine Ranger shots.

"The assignment of four additional Rangers is part of the general acceleration of the program to land an American on the moon by 1970," said Dr. Seamans.

Cost of the additional four Rangers has not been determined, but Pickering said it would be comparable to the $20 million apiece for the first five.

Announcement of the stepped-up program came at a news conference to explain what happened on Ranger I fired last week from Cape Canaveral. It was aimed for deep space but stayed in a close earth orbit. Scientists at the laboratory said despite this failure, the shot was highly important in proving sub-systems aboard Ranger would work.

The spidery craft, which they hoped would stay in orbit 100 days, probably will burn up this week because of friction at the lower altitude.

Dr. Pickering said the four new Rangers would send back to earth high resolution television pictures of the lunar surface up to the moment the space craft crashes into the moon. Three of the earlier planned Rangers will carry crude TV cameras but they will not be able to photograph the moon any lower than 20 miles away.

India Prefers Soviet 'Copter

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon said Monday the Indian Air Force prefers a Russian-built helicopter to an American-made model for Himalayan border defense operations.

Krishna Menon told parliament the Soviet MI-4 has a better operational capacity than its American counterpart, the Sikorsky S-62. Both types were purchased by Indian specifically for the border work.

"The absolute ceiling of the MI-4 is about 1,300 feet higher than that of the S-62," he said. "At the altitude at which these aircraft are required to operate most frequently, the MI-4 has a substantially greater passenger carrying capacity."

TV Profits And Costs Increase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Television industry profits, revenues and costs all increased in 1960, the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) reported Tuesday.

Broadcast revenues totaled $1,268,600,000 for the year 1960—a 9 per cent increase above 1959, the FCC said. Profits before taxes rose 9.8 per cent to $244,100,000, while expenses were $1,024,500,000, an increase of 8.8 per cent over the year before.

According to the FCC's annual report on TV broadcast finances, the three TV networks accounted for 50.5 per cent of total industry revenues in 1960 compared with 49.5 per cent in 1959. They received 39 per cent of total industry profits, approximately the same previous year.

Labor Day Hailed As Symbol By JFK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy Tuesday hailed the forthcoming Labor Day holiday as a symbol of the vital distinction between the economic and social progress of the American way of life and the tyranny of communism.

But, in a special Labor Day statement, the President called for even greater American economic growth.

"In setting the goal of our society at the realization of human dignity, we reach for the highest of stars and seek the outer limits of human capability," Kennedy said.

He said Labor Day will mark "achievement in human welfare—the economic and social protections our working people enjoy, the wide distribution of our wealth."

He said it also will commemorate "the access to advancement and education, the strength of our labor organizations, the exercise of individual decisions in guiding our institutions."

Handyman Held For Grand Jury Action In Strangulation-Slaying Of Widow, 86

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — George I. Green Wednesday was ordered held for grand jury action in the strangulation-slaying of Mrs. Margarita B. LeSueur on Aug. 18.

Green, a 31-year-old Negro handyman who can neither read nor write, was charged with murder and attempted rape four days after the body of the 86-year-old widow was found in a tool room at the historic Chase House here.

Magistrate Robert S. Heise ordered Green held without bond after a preliminary hearing. Green's attorney, Tucker Dearing, entered pleas of innocent to both charges against the defendant.

Green appeared in the courtroom in an over-sized tan suit, a white shirt and tie. He spoke only a few words, most of them to his other attorney, Nicholas J. Fotos of Annapolis. He kept turning about and looking at the crowd which filled every seat and lined the center aisle and both sides of the small courtroom. Many other people remained outside the door in the hallway.

Capt. J. Walter Musterman, one of four local police officers to testify, related how Green, better known locally by his nickname of "Socks," re-enacted the crime for police.

Musterman said Green admitted under questioning that he had seen "a lady" at the scene and grabbed her "around the neck." Musterman said Green then demonstrated with his hands how he had grabbed the woman.

"I thought I didn't hurt her," Musterman said Green told him.

Musterman said Green also identified a picture of the woman and described for officers the alleged attempted rape.

The police captain, who handled the local investigation, said Green also admitted losing his comb at the scene of the crime.

Maryland Briefs

BALTIMORE (AP) — George P. Mahoney, a Democratic primary candidate for governor, announced Wednesday that his campaign will be run by Joseph L. Manning.

Manning, an unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination for comptroller in 1958, is managing director of the Independent Retail Grocers Association of Maryland.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore city officials are considering a proposal that would bar spectators from the field during Colt football games at Memorial Stadium. The move is backed by the Colts, the police department and the park department, who want to keep fans from streaming onto the field during dramatic plays.

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Anne Arundel County's semi-monthly payroll of $90,000 was distributed on schedule Wednesday to some 900 county employes.

J. J. Salovaara, county business manager, directed the payment in an order to the Anne Arundel fiscal officer, George Smith. "The effect of my memorandum to Mr. Smith is to put this whole thing on my shoulders," Salovaara said.

Left unresolved by the action was refusal of four members of the county's Board of Commissioners to sign the payroll voucher with Salovaara's name on it. The four previously voted to suspend Salovaara without pay for 60 days. The business manager has remained on the job on advice of other commissioners.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Bernard J. Schmidt, who rose from the ranks, will be sworn in Friday as Baltimore's new police commissioner. Schmidt, now an inspector, was appointed commissioner by Gov. Tawes to succeed James M. Hepbron.

SALISBURY (AP) — Officials here were informed Wednesday that a survey of procedures at the Poplar Hill prison labor camp now is under way by James Curran, state superintendent of prisons.

The survey was ordered by Gov. Tawes, acting on a request by State's Atty. Alfred T. Truitt Jr. of Wicomico County. Truitt asked for the study after a series of recent escape incidents at the camp, a rehabilitation center without armed guards, bars or fences.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Thomas D'Alesandro, former mayor of Baltimore and now a member of the Federal Renegotiation Board, Wednesday was named Maryland chairman of the Leukemia Society's 1961 fund appeal. The campaign is scheduled Sept. 5- Oct. 5.

Fisheries Dept. Chief's Duties Are Spelled Out

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Tidewater Fisheries Commission Wednesday turned over to Director Joseph H. Manning control of all administrative affairs of the Fisheries Department.

As director, he will be responsible to the commission for department operations. The commission, however, will continue to set fisheries policies.

The "clarification" of Manning's duties was spelled out at a special meeting of the five-member commission. The group met for two hours behind closed doors discussing department affairs before issuing its statement.

Manning, a former biologist at the Chesapeake Biological Laboratory at Solomons, was hired as fisheries director June 1.

Prior to that, for two years, Dr. H. C. Byrd had served as both chairman of the TFC and as department director. He continues to serve as chairman but will not be directly concerned with any administrative affairs.

The resolution adopted by the commission expressed appreciation to Byrd "for his services as acting director for two years, in which acting capacity he served without pay."

"Inasmuch as a director has been appointed, it is recognized that all the affairs of the department will be administered by him under supervision of the commission," the resolution added.

In addition to clarifying Manning's duties, the commission agreed to name several committees which would be concerned with various work of the fisheries department, such as law enforcement oyster planting and other matters.

A member of the commission would be chairman of each committee, and Manning would serve as a member along with the particular division head concerned.

"This will provide good liaison of what has been done in the past and what may come up in the future," Byrd said.

Referendum Petition Perjury Trial Set

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The trial of a Glen Burnie man charged with falsely certifying a petition to force a referendum on savings and loan legislation has been set for next Tuesday in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court.

The defendant, William Charles Langston Sr., was indicted Aug. 3 on two counts of perjury. He was accused of falsely swearing that all the signatures on the petition were genuine and that they had been signed in his presence.

The petition has been declared invalid by Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan. It was one of a number of petitions that Finan's office threw out. At the end of the screening process he held that there were not enough valid petitions to force a referendum.

University's Pre-College Course Hailed

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — More than half of the 320 students who successfully completed a pre-college course at the University of Maryland this summer will be admitted to the university for the coming semester, an official said Wednesday.

R. Lee Hornbake, the university's vice president for academic affairs, described the new course as "highly successful". Hornbake said the session was geared to high school graduates with border line academic records.

A total of 359 students enrolled in the course, Hornbake said, but 39 dropped out. Of the 320 who finished, 176 will be admitted to the college of their choice this fall.

Hornbake said the purpose of the course, started this summer, was to provide students who do not meet university qualifications with "... direct experiences in attending college so they may obtain an appraisal of their capabilities."

At the same time, Hornbake said, the university can determine the student's eligibility to continue to attend the university.

All students in the new program were required to take freshman English and either sociology or government and politics. Prospective engineering students were required to attend a basic course in mathematics.

Only residents of Maryland are eligible for the program, Hornbake said. Out-of-state students fulfill requirements for regular admission.

Eight Jailed, Fined For Sit-In

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP)—Municipal Court Judges James N. Colasanto sentenced eight sit-in demonstrators to a six-month jail sentence and a $250 fine each.

The eight demonstrators were accused of trespassing at a local restaurant.

Judge Colasanto, after dismissing defense motions to throw out the charges on constitutional grounds, found all the defendants guilty of "deliberately violating the trespass statute." The demonstrators were charged specifically with trespassing after being forbidden to do so, a state law aimed at preventing sit-ins.

Maximum penalties are a year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Each demonstrator was given a six-month jail sentence, with five months of the term suspended on their good behavior. They were arrested Tuesday.

NEW YORK (AP)—Many influences are tugging and hauling at the stock market.

On the adverse side are the Berlin crisis and the possibility of an automobile strike. Favorable are the many indications of business improvement.

As a result, the market isn't doing much sensational one way or another and investment analysts are groping to put their fingers on the factors that are going to exert the strongest pressures.

"The difficulties involved in generalizing about a market like this are obvious, partly because some of the things which seem obvious are not true at all," says L. O. Hooper of W. E. Hutton & Co.

"One can generalize, however," he adds, "that neither the New York stock market nor the stock markets of other Western countries act like they are expecting a war. It may be generalized, too, that there is a general expectation of better business after Labor Day, and there seems to be a tendency for profit margins to improve."

W. I. La Tourette of Shearson, Hammill & Co. is of the opinion that profit-taking, rather than international crisis or the auto-labor situation, accounted for the recent market setback.

This would be logical, he says, following the advance of nearly 40 points in the Dow Jones industrial average since mid-July.

"In view of the strong business outlook, it would seem reasonable to expect that the same sort of selective strength evident in the market before last week's decline will reappear," says La Tourette.

Harvard University libraries contain nearly six million volumes.

China Said To Lack Atom Bomb Potential

TAIPEI (UPI) — Communist China will be capable of testing a nuclear device by the end of the year but still is "about 25 years" away from being able to manufacture nuclear weapons, Nationalist Chinese intelligence sources said Tuesday.

Arthur H. Dean, head of the American team trying to negotiate a nuclear test ban at Geneva, recently said that Communist China "probably could" produce an atom bomb by 1962 or 1963.

But the Nationalist sources said there was "no reason" for alarm. "It is one thing to hold a nuclear weapons and have the means to deliver a nuclear punch."

The sources reported China lacks the steel, iron ore and equipment to produce atomic bombs and said it is "unbelievable" that the Soviet Union would give its Asian ally even a small stockpile of atomic weapons.

ETV Coming To Tiny Island Off Miami

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A tiny schoolhouse on the island of Bimini in the British West Indies goes modern Sept. 8 when courses in science, Spanish, typing and sewing will be beamed to it from Miami's educational television station WTHS-TV.

About a fifth of the school's 300 students, all but 15 of whom are Negroes, will discover for the first time how education can be transmitted, via three 23-inch TV sets. In the evenings, island adults will gather at the school for televised typing and sewing classes.

This first experiment in international ETV in the Western hemisphere is made possible by a $4,500 grant from the Ford Foundation.

The foundation will supply guides and textbooks for the courses. The ETV instruction will be coordinated with classroom teaching by the school's young headmaster, Jack Donnelly, and Cliff Mitchell, director of radio and TV education for the Dade County (Miami) public schools.

The Bimini experiment began eight months ago when Dr. Alvin C. Eurich of New York, the Ford Foundation's education director, flew to Bimini, an island of 1,500 residents, for the New Year's holiday. He visited the island's only public school. There he found Donnelly, his wife and two local teacher aides teaching 300 boys and girls ranging from the first through the 10th grade.

Because of the limited school enrollment and the low drop-out and transfer rate, Eurich reasoned that it would be relatively easy to measure any added scholastic growth which the pupils at Bimini might achieve from the use of ETV.

Dean Of Washington Diplomatic Corps Rates High On Capital's List Of VIPs

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President talks with his secretary of state as he waits at the airport for a foreign dignitary to arrive.

Everyone stands back respectfully while they chat.

Suddenly an impeccably attired man bustles up and engages them in animated conversation. They seem glad to talk to him; he is obviously pleased to talk to them.

Who is he to rush in where even Secret Service men are loathe to tread?

In most of the United States the question would produce a blank.

In Washington the answer is easy: Dr. Guillermo Sevilla-Sacasa, ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary from Nicaragua.

Wherever world politicians meet, to greet or eat, there is the vigorous, 52-year-old Sevilla-Sacasa. He has been in Washington for 17 years. As ambassador with the most seniority, he's dean of the diplomatic corps.

In Washington protocol, the order begins: President, vice president, chief justice, former president and speaker.

Then comes Sevilla-Sacasa, before governors, senators, representatives and, of course, other ambassadors.

"Washington," says Sevilla-Sacasa, as proudly as if he were president of this city's Board of Trade, "is indeed the capital of the world."

Here are 100 embassies and legations, now so think they almost crowd into each other.

Over this vast, unorganized, polyglot and often squabbling community presides the cheerful, industrious Sevilla-Sacasa.

Suppose an envoy thinks he has been mistreated simply because he's a Negro. Sevilla-Sacasa is appealed to. He takes the delicate problem to State Department officials.

But he finds his greatest glory as representative of the other ambassadors at the many official functions this town produces daily.

In 1958, his first year as dean, he attended 507. In 1959 it was 532. Last year it came to 541.

His official jobs are three.

He's ambassador to the United States, he represents Nicaragua at the Organization of American States and at the United Nations.

Sevilla-Sacada's day is long but never tedious.

Hes' up at seven to read the newspapers. Breakfast and work on correspondence follow. Then it is off to the embassy downtown or maybe a meeting in the Pan-American Union.

An official luncheon could be next followed by a reception and then maybe an official dinner. He hopes to be home for the 11 o'clock news, and after this tries to catch up on his reading.

Sleep?

"I get six hours and a half. That's enough, uh?"

Hot Dog Shortcake

4 slices bacon, cut into ½-inch pieces
⅔ chopped onion
1 cup milk
2 cups prepared biscuit mix
8 frankfurters
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 can (10½ oz.) cream of celery soup
1½ teaspoons prepared mustard
¼ cup sliced pitted black olives
½ cup shredded pasteurized process American cheese (2 oz.)

Fry bacon; drain and save drippings. Add ⅓ cup onions to drippings, cook slowly until tender. Cool. Add ½ cup milk. Add bacon and milk-onion mixture to biscuit mix; stir just until ingredients are moistened. Knead on lightly floured board 8 to 10 strokes. Pat to 1-inch thickness. Cut into 3 to 3½-inch rounds with floured cutter. Place on baking sheet, bake in hot oven (400°F.) until done, 20 to 25 minutes. While shortcakes are baking prepare sauce and heat hot dogs. Slice 4 frankfurters ¼ inch thick. Make slashes in remaining frankfurters ¼ inch apart not cutting frank quite through. Cook remaining onions slowly in butter or margarine until tender. Blend in soup. Heat slowly, stirring frequently. Add sliced franks and olives; heat. Add cheese to sauce; stir until melted. Broil slashed hot dogs 3 to 4 inches from heat source while shortcakes finish baking. Split shortcakes in half. Put halves together shortcake-fashion with sauce. Top with additional sauce and a frankfurter crown made with a round frank. Yield: 4 servings.

Alligators live a maximum of about 43 years, while pigs and sheep may live as long as 20 years.

Midsummer Dream Dish

Turkey-Potato Pie with Cornbread Topping is a delectable leftover dish. Melt 3 tablespoons butter, add 4 tablespoons flour, and stir over low heat until blended. Add 1½ cups cold turkey broth, ½ cup cream, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 1 teaspoon finely grated onion and ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Stir in 2 cups sliced or diced cooked turkey and 1 cup cooked diced potatoes. Pour into a 2-quart casserole or 6 individual baking dishes, put on a cookie sheet or piece of aluminum foil, and place in a 425 degree F. oven. Allow the pie filling to heat 10 minutes before adding a cornbread topping. For variety, substitute the 1 cup of potatoes with 1 cup cooked carrots, peas, onions, celery or gree beans. Or use 1 cup mixture of any of these vegetables. Or omit the vegetables entirely, add an extra cup of turkey, and use a potato topping instead of cornbread topping.

CORNBREAD TOPPING for a turkey pie . . . sift together ½ cup sifted flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1½ teaspoons baking powder and 2 teaspoons sugar. Stir in ½ cup cornmeal. Cut in 2 tablespoons shortening until the texture looks like coarse cornmeal. Combine 1 well beaten egg and ½ cup milk, add to the dry ingredients and stir until moistened. Pour the topping over the heated turkey pie filling, and continue baking until the topping is brown, 20 to 25 minutes.

POTATO TOPPING for a turkey pie . . . combine ½ cup well seasoned, warmed, mashed potatoes, 1 well beaten egg and ¼ teaspoon poultry seasoning. Spread the topping over the heated turkey pie filling. Brush it with 1 tablespoon melted butter and ⅛ teaspoon paprika. Continue baking the pie until the sauce is bubbly and the topping brown, about 30 minutes.

Eggs In Pleasing Ways

Dried egg may be used in either of two ways. You can either reconstitute with water or combine it with dry ingredients. When reconstituting with water, mix only the amount needed for the recipe being prepared. Sift and measure the dried egg, using level measurements. Sift the dried egg again and sprinkle over the required amount of water. Blend by using a rotary beater, wire whip or shaker.

When combining with dry ingredients, sift and measure the dried egg before combining with the other ingredients, using level measurements. The water needed to reconstitute the dried egg should be added to the other liquid in the recipe.

Be sure to promptly wash the sifter and other utensils used.

Cranberry Cubes For Barbecued Chicken

There are three new ways to add cranberry sauce to Chicken-Barbecue menus. One's a ruby red Frozen Cranberry Cube relish that's made in an ice tray. Another is a party-pink frozen Cranberry Cream that can be made the same way. And there's a gelatin salad that can be chilled in an 8 by 8" cake pan until jelled to cut into squares at serving time.

Plan to serve one of these FROZEN CRANBERRY CUBES or CRANBERRY SALAD SQUARES on your next Barbecued Chicken Menu. Takes only minutes to get them into the refrigerator to freeze or chill.

FROZEN CRANBERRY SQUARES

1 lb. can Jellied Cranberry Sauce
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Beat jellied cranberry sauce with rotary beater until smooth and saucy. Stir in lemon juice. Pour into ice cube tray. Place ice cube insert as if to make ice cubes. Freeze until firm. Remove just before serving. Serve frozen cubes on lettuce leaves. Makes 6 servings.

FROZEN CRANBERRY CREAM CUBES

1 lb. can Whole Cranberry Sauce
½ pint sour cream
3 tablespoons extra-strong horseradish
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Combine ingredients. Pour into ice cube tray. Insert ice cube divider. Freeze until firm. Remove just before serving. Serve cubes of Frozen Cranberry Cream on lettuce leaves. Serves 6 to 8.

Here's a low calorie cranberry salad recipe for cool summertime eating.

CREAMY CRANBERRY SALAD

1 package cherry flavored gelatin
1 cup hot water
1 (1-lb.) can jelled cranberry sauce
½ cup buttermilk
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Let chill until partially thickened. Beat cranberry sauce with a rotary beater until smooth and saucy. Stir cranberry sauce, buttermilk, and lemon juice into gelatin mixture. Pour into a 1 quart mold and chill until firm. Unmold on lettuce. Makes 6 servings.

Try these easy-to-make cranberry dressings on summertime salads.

Cranberry Dressing

1 can (1-lb.) jellied cranberry sauce
5 tablespoons A-1 sauce
2 teaspoons lemon juice
¼ cup mayonnaise

Beat cranberry sauce until smooth. Stir in A-1 sauce, lemon juice and mayonnaise. Chill thoroughly and serve on lettuce wedges.

Dessert In The Hand

Purchase ice cream in round or rectangular pints. Keep frozen in dry ice until ready to serve. Then slice each pint into four servings and place between two large chocolate cookies. Serve as ice cream sandwiches. These can be made ahead and stored in a freezer until picnic time.

Want to know what kind of plug to put on an electric appliance so it will sell in Afghanistan? The U.S. Department of Commerce can tell you it had better be the round pin, two prong type. The information was rounded up in a survey of 67 countries made to help American exporters and tourists.

Easy Way To Brown Pot Roast

To sear a pot roast to brown crispness before braising, brush the meat all over with Spanish olive oil, place under broiler, turning until well-browned on all sides. The olive oil hastens browning, seals in juices. Transfer browned meat to large piece of heavy duty foil; scrape out all drippings from pan in which it browned and pour over meat. Seal foil securely. Place foil-wrapped pot roast in 275 degree oven; allow 1 hour to pound. Meat will be tender and succulent, gravy formed inside foil wrapping will be rich, flavorful.

A cow gives milk for an average period of from four to six years.

Week's Food Economies

Summer brings quantities of produce to local markets. Thrifty shoppers take advantage of nearby foods when they are most abundant by using them often, says Virginia McLuckie, food economist in the Baltimore Office of the University of Maryland department of markets.

Personal inspection and selection of fruits bring greater satisfaction and economy. The rough handling of produce causes ultimate spoilage. Learn to handle vegetables and fruit easily.

Egg plant makes a good selection. Their high water content, and natural tenderness, allows for a very short cooking time. It can be served as baked, boiled, sauteed, stewed, or in the increasingly popular casserole dish. Egg plants make a substantial and economical meal when they are stuffed and baked. Choose egg plants that are firm and heavy to the touch and free of blemishes. The color should be a uniform dark purple.

Cabbage and corn remain on the best buy list. Check quality points for each as you make your selection. Tomatoes are at their peak and quality is very good. The flavor of field ripened tomatoes adds to every meal. If you can tomatoes now is the time to do so. The vitamin C content of field ripened tomatoes is higher.

Cucumbers and green peppers are the two salad vegetables of good value. Look for firm, straight, well shaped cucumbers with a good glossy green color.

The first of the season's new crop of sweet potatoes from the Eastern shore has reached the market. These are Nemagold potatoes.

Watermelon is low in cost and fine selection for a cool dessert. Cantaloupe is still in abundance and prices are most attractive. More peaches are on the market and the peak of the season will be within a week. If you plan to freeze peaches remember an anti-browning agent should be used.

Summer apples, particularly Rambos are suggested for cooking uses. Some damson plums are available.

Protein suggestions are turkey, fryer chicken, lamb, and crab meat.

Meat-Potatoburgers

½ cup sifted dried whole egg
½ cup water
1¼ pounds ground beef
½ pound ground pork
2½ cups finely chopped raw potatoes
1 cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon salt

Sauce:

2 tablespoons flour
2¾ cups tomato juice

Sprinkle dried egg over the water and beat to blend. Combine the egg, meat, potatoes, onion and salt. Form into patties. (Use about ½ cup mixture for each patty.) Place patties in heavy metal frying pan. Cover. Cook over medium heat for 10 minutes. Add sauce. Replace cover. Continue to cook for 25 minutes longer. Makes 12 patties.

To Make Sauce: Blend flour with ¾ cup tomato juice. Heat remaining tomato juice and add to the flour mixture. Cook until slightly thickened, stirring constantly.

Spinach au Vinaegrette

Cook washed spinach just 2 minutes in its own steam, drain thoroughly, chop with sharp knife. Cool to room temperature and serve dressed with Spanish olive oil, vinegar, salt and pepper, using approximately half the quantity of vinegar as olive oil Serve as a hot weather vegetable, or chill to serve as a salad.

Molasses, according to a beauty writer, could keep one's hair from turning gray. Might be just dandy for one's curly locks but it would sure be tough on hats!

Scrambled Eggs

For 2 Eggs

⅛ cup sifted dried whole egg
⅓ cup water
Few grains salt
3 tablespoons milk (or reconstituted dry milk)
1 teaspoon butter, margarine or bacon fat

For 6 Eggs

1 cup sifted dried whole egg
1 cup water
½ cup milk (or reconstituted dry milk)
1½ tablespoons butter, margarine or bacon fat

Sprinkle dried egg over the water and beat to blend. Add salt and milk and mix. Melt fat in an aluminum or heavy metal frying pan. Pour egg mixture into frying pan. Cook over low heat, stirring continuously until dry and crumbly. Do not cook more than 6 egg quantities at one time.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 23-year-old son ran off and married a girl who is 19. She acts like a 12-year-old and we want to know what to do about it.

Two months after the elopement we learned that she was five months pregnant. She refuses to wear a maternity dress "because they are ugly." Instead, she prefers shorts and blouses which she is bursting out of. Last Sunday they came for dinner at eight in the evening (three hours late) and she was eating a cone of cotton candy. She announced that she had so much fun at the amusement park, riding the loop-the-loop, roller-coaster and bump-the-auto. (She's now in her sixth month).

Our son thinks she is perfect. Is there anything we can do?

—O. and L.

DEAR O and L: Since your son "thinks she is perfect" your advice would be unwelcome and useless.

Phone your daughter-in-law's doctor and ask him to please tell her that a pregnant woman should not be taking in the rides in an amusement park. And, incidentally, your son must be a moron to have allowed her to do it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am the mother of four young children and the wife of a very handsome man. All through our married life I've had the problem of women friends using me to get next to my husband.

I've always been able to handle the situation until recently. Now I am ashamed to say, the problem is a 15-year-old neighbor girl. She spends a lot of time in our home "visiting."

At first I thought she was just a kid when I saw her squeeze through the doorway to get past my husband, and then "accidentally" stumble into his arms, I decided I was being naive.

I told my husband I was going to have a talk with the girl and give her orders to stay away from our home. He says I would make a fool of myself. I have agreed to follow your advice.

—RED

DEAR RED: If you want to give this little snip the greatest compliment of her life, just let her know you consider her a threat to your marriage.

Your husband should not respond to this little tart's brazenness. He should tell her in a "fatherly-fashion" to behave like a young lady.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please print this. I know I am not alone. I'm a widow in my early 40s. During the day I keep myself busy but the nights are awful. I have many married friends who invite me out but I feel like excess baggage.

I have the nagging fear that they ask me because they feel sorry for me and I can't bear it.

How does a respectable woman who is nice to look at, well-dressed, has money but hates to travel alone meet men who are in the same predicament? I need male companionship.

—MRS. LONESOME

DEAR MRS. LONESOME: You must be a new reader. I've said it dozens of times but I'll say it again for you. If you want to catch trout don't fish in the bathtub.

Join study groups, an adult education class, become active in volunteer work, or the political party of your choice. Involve yourself in civic projects. Work part time and become a part of the business world. In other words—go where the trout are, and good luck to you.

Are you going steady? Making plans? If so, send ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry—Is It Love Or Sex?" enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Food Prices Rise

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wholesale food prices as measured by the Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food price index rose 1 cent last week.

The statistical agency reported the index at $5.99 on August 29. This compares with $5.98 a week earlier and $5.90 in the same week last year. Measuring the total wholesale price per pound of 31 basic foods in general use, the index showed 7 advances, 9 declines and 15 prices unchanged from the previous week.

Receives Award

MANILA (UPI) — Genevieve Caulfield of Suffolk, Va., has arrived here to receive a $10,000 Ramon Magsaysay prize for "international citizenship and help to the blind in Asia," it was reported Wednesday. The prizes, named in honor of the late Philippine president, will be awarded Thursday. Other recipients include Gus Borgeest, a Chinese-born Briton, and three Asians.

Auction Begins

NEW YORK (UPI) — The U.S. Department of Defense Wednesday conducted its first nationwide telephone auction of surplus government property. Property ranging from boots to tugboats and valued at $13.2 million went on the block at the Hotel New Yorker here while bidders watched color slide projections of the auctioned goods at viewing sites in Forth Worth, San Francisco, Denver, Atlanta, and Columbus, Ohio.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Rome, today, is as active and filled with motion picture activity as Hollywood was five years ago, Jeanne Crain told me. She is just back from Italy where she made two pictures, one for an Italian company, and the other "Pontius Pilate," for Irving Rapper. "I'm returning to Rome September 25th to star in 'With Iron and Fire' by Henry K Sienkiewicz, author of 'Quo Vadis'."

"You may be interested to know that young John Barrymore was in 'Pontius Pilate' with me and he's been signed for 'With Iron and Fire'," Jeanne went on. "Irving Rapper said that he was such an admirer of John Barrymore Sr., that he felt he wanted his son to preserve the name. John Jr., who had very bad publicity, conducted himself very well, was cooperative and turned in a good performance."

Jeanne said that her husband Paul Brinkman will join her in Rome as her mother is taking care of all the little Brinkmans.

Edgar Allen Poe's thrillers have done very well for James Nicholson and Samuel Arkoff. "The Pit and the Pendulum" out-grossed the "House of Usher," which was a smash hit. They've now been inspired to put a trio of Poe's stories on the screen, (something on the order of "The Quartet") —three stories combined in one movie.

Vincent Price, who starred in both "Pit" and the "House of Usher," will star in two of the trio to be made in Hollywood in November with Roger Corman directing and producing. The three stories chosen are "The Black Cat, "Cask of Amontillato," and "descent into the Maelstrom."

Montgomery Clift, now in St. Moritz where he's been vacationing, had dinner with the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, and the Duchess told Monty a rather amazing thing.

She said her story about her life and romance with the Duke (widely printed in this country) is up for movie sale. The British producers have asked that it not be sold to an American company. "But the British movie companies have made no offers," said the Duchess.

From St. Moritz, Monty goes to Munich to dub his own voice in German for "Judgement at Nuremburg." He will also start "Freud" there on September 11th.

I had never met Anthony George until Eddie Kafafian and Judy McHugh brought him to my house, and we went on to Donna Atwood and King Kennedy's delightful party.

I have watched young George in "Checkmate," I consider him a very good actor, and I heard from time to time he was being sought for a movie. He said it was true that he had a number of offers but that he was never free to accept them. He hopes that he will be able to be with Cary Grant in a comedy Cary is planning to make with Ingrid Bergman.

"Checkmate," this coming season, goes on Wednesday night instead of Saturday, and as was expected, the show has been renewed. I asked him about Sebastian Cabot and he said that Cabot, Doug McClure and he get along fine and there's never any thought of jealousy.

Socially speaking: The dinner Merle Oberon and Bruno Pagliai gave honoring Doris and Yul Brynner was a farewell to the Brynners who left Monday for Paris. "We stay in Paris briefly," Yul told me, "and then fly to the Argentines for 'Taras Bulba' for Harold Hecht."

Doris, who was born in the Argentines is very pleased at the idea of visiting her birthplace again. She is such a dear, and everyone who has met her, likes her so much.

Merle has a knack of getting congenial groups together, and her dinner was perfection both in the menu and her selection of guests. At dinner Laurence Harvey had everyone in stitches. He's a real raconteur. Jack Benny said he wanted to use some of Harvey's material on his show.

Audrey Hepburn leaves this week with her son to join Mel Ferrer who is in Belgrade, Yugoslavia directing "The Conqueror" for an Italian company.

Edie Goertz, in a pretty white gown, had a new hairdo which we all admired. General Garrity, and his attractive wife, were a pleasant addition to the movie group. He is stationed at Inglewood in charge of ballistic missiles, and looks so young, Greg Bautzer said he could qualify as a movie star. Jimmy McHugh, who took off for New York the next day, chatted with Mrs. Garrity, who is a movie fan if I ever saw one. Major Rogers, on the general's staff, enlivened the table with some very funny stories.

Kitty Leroy, who has her granddaughter Katerina, visiting her from Paris, plans to keep the little girl until she feels it's safe to travel. Katerina has been teaching grandpa Mervyn how to swim.

I am sorry summer is almost over—the girls all looked so pretty in their light dresses. Mary Benny wore a dream of a gown in white, Joan Cohn had a print in the new shade of pink. The Honorable Kate Smith, who marrives Ivan Moffatt September 26th, and Lee Anderson were in white. Kate

The bidding:

Opening lead: King of ♥

A cooperative bit of defense was executed at only one table to defeat a routine game contract featured today from a recent national tournament. There were no reasonable variations in the bidding and the final contract of four spades was reached at every table.

West opened the king of hearts and declarer saw no risk in ducking one round. The suit was continued and taken by the ace. Declarer proceeded to mop up the black suits by playing three rounds of clubs. A low heart put West in and the compulsory lead of a diamond established the king of diamond's for South's 10th trick.

It seemed to most of the contestants that this was a very average result. Yet a marked deviation from the normal took place at one table where the contract was defeated. On the opening heart lead East signalled with the ten of hearts. It is conventionally accepted that in signalling from a sequence one parts with the highest card he can afford. So that when a player signals with a jack he presumably lacks the queen, and so on down the line. East's play of the ten, of course, announced possession of the nine. After holding the first trick, West continued with the queen and declarer won, but on the second round of trumps, West forseeing the danger of being locked in, unloaded the jack of hearts and declarer could not avoid the loss of three more tricks.

rurgical Faculty of the State of

On th lead of the second trump, declarer realized that he had lost his chance to win the hand. He had hoped that spades would be 2-2.

Had he been able to divine in some mysterious way that West held a singleton trump he would play only one round and, after cashing three clubs, would get out with a heart. Failure to do so, however, can not properly be charged as an error.

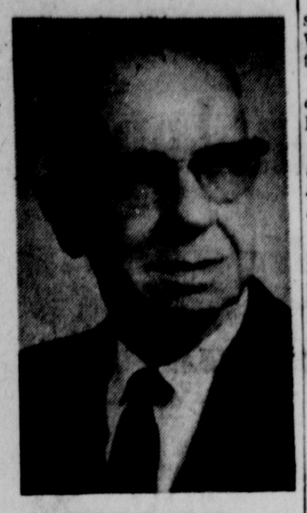
Clerk Ends Long Service With B&O Railroad Here



JACOB H. BROWN

After almost half a century of service, Jacob H. Brown, of 434 Williams Street, has retired from the B&O Railroad Company.

Since 1945 he had been chief clerk to the superintendent of the Bolt and Forge Shops.

A native of Lonaconing, he is a son of the late Casper J. and Jennie McKinley (Stuart) Brown and attended grade school there.

When a boy he worked about four years at the old Windsor Hotel before entering the service of the B&O on January 15, 1912, as a messenger. He attended the old Tri-State Business School and in 1913 became a stenographer for the railroad.

He was promoted to chief clerk at the Keyser shops in 1917 and in the same year was transferred to the Cumberland shops as assistant chief clerk. In 1925 he was named chief clerk at the Roundhouse here.

Brown was a member of the board of directors of the B&O YMCA and was recording secretary. He was also a committeeman for Troop 2, Boy Scouts, sponsored by the B&O YMCA. Brown was correspondent for the B&O magazine and was a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks.

He was a member of the Allegany County Republican State Central Committee for two four-year terms starting in 1942 and was a member of the Lonaconing Republican Club. Brown was also a member of Ohr Lodge 131, AF & AM and of St. Paul's Lutheran Church and of the Men's Club of the church.

He was honored at a testimonial dinner at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club by fellow workers and presented a number of gifts. R. J. Kompanek, superintendent of the Bolt and Forge Shops, was toastmaster.

City Explains Resurfacing On Sedgwick St.

Completion of the resurfacing of Sedgwick Street yesterday was in line with a recommendation by City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum, according to Street Commissioner John J. Long.

Residents of the street presented a petition in protest to the resurfacing about two weeks ago, asking that the work be delayed pending further study of the project.

Nuzum since that time has prepared a report explaining why he felt obligated to urge the resurfacing, with a copy of the report sent to Miles Snyder, who appeared before council as spokesman for residents of Sedgwick Street.

In presenting the petition, Snyder said the residents felt the present sewer lines were inadequate and would have to be replaced, and that it was understood gas lines under the street would have to be replaced.

Nuzum stated in his report that the sewer lines are adequate, but that a systematic method of root removal is needed for protection of the lines. He also said it is not contemplated that the gas lines are to be renewed.

The report to council also stated that in the event sewer lines must be replaced at some future date, the lines would be laid under the sidewalk at no cost to the property owners.

Work on the street started Monday following approval of the project by Commissioner Long.

Wins Money, Retires

LONDON (UPI) — A 60-year-old clerk retired five years early from his $27-a-week job Wednesday and went off to enjoy the $105,000 he won on football pools. Nelson (Sailor) Bagge was one of three co-holders of a ticket that won $316,131 on last week's pool. A 50-year-old woman, Violet Butler, won $270,413.

Massacre Reported

MANILA (AP) — The Manila Daily Mirror said a prosecuting attorney in central Luzon Island is investigating a report that 86 persons were killed in a 1948 massacre for refusing to support a political candidate.

License Sale Report Made By Orndorff

The State Department of Motor Vehicles is being sent a final report on the sales of auto and truck tags by the office of William B. Orndorff, county tax collector.

Orndorff summarizes his report with the statement that the 15-cent fee charged for issuance of the tags is not sufficent to cover the cost and work involved.

A total of 25,294 sets of tags were sold by Orndorff's office and a total of $477,938 was received for them. The county and incorporated communities in Allegany County received a total of $187,747.50 from the state allocation of these tag fees.

Orndorff figured the total expenses in his office for the sale of tags was $11,847.26 and the 15-cent fee for each set of tags brought in only $3,794.10. Salaries of tax office employes and extra workers accounted for the bulk of the expense, Orndorff stated.

The state agency was also informed that the auto and truck tag sales occur at the time county is preparing its annual tax bills.

State Police Plan Heavy Holiday Patrol

Troopers working out of the La Vale State Police Barracks will be out to extend their "perfect" Labor Day weekend driving record this year.

Lt. W. E. O'Hara, barracks commander, said that all leaves have been cancelled and the men will work around-the-clock during the long weekend beginning noon Friday and ending at 10 a. m. next Tuesday.

A quick check of records at the barracks reveals the last fatal accident over the Labor Day weekend was in 1957 when Harold Emerick, 47, Ellerslie, was killed in a pedestrian accident. Emerick was working on a car in the basement of the Corriganville Fire Hall when a vehicle ran into him, crushing him against a wall.

The years 1958, 1959 and 1960 were free of fatal accidents, and even the minor "fender-bender" mishaps were kept to a minimum, Lt. O'Hara said.

Lt. O'Hara warned that with the Labor Day holiday many citizens take that last weekend summer vacation, jamming the streets and highways with automobiles.

The possibilities of traffic accidents are far greater over long weekends, thus Lt. O'Hara urges all motorists to expect every effort to drive and walk with extreme care.

The barracks commander observed that one of the major causes of accidents over holidays is fatigue which is caused by drivers spending their time playing in the sun and fresh air, and when they become tired they cannot meet the constant changing traffic pattern involved in traveling considerable distances.

Lt. O'Hara observed that although all troopers in Allegany and Garrett counties will be patrolling the highways over the weekend, their presence serves to keep the traffic moving in an orderly fashion but does not guarantee the absence of accidents.

The one person who can contribute the most toward the prevention of accidents is the motor vehicle operator himself, Lt. O'Hara said.

"We can't stress too much the necessity for every motor vehicle operator to drive defensively," Lt. O'Hara stated. By this he means the drivers should adjust speed and distance to existing traffic conditions, and anticipate the actions of other drivers.

Collection Boxes For Parking Fines Not Favored By City

The possibility of installing collection boxes on the city's parking meters was discussed at a Police Department staff meeting yesterday, with the consensus being that the plan would be unworkable and not enforceable.

Police Commissioner Philmore F. Fleming said the department's supervisors were of the opinion that the boxes would provide too much of a temptation to certain elements in the city, and that the meters are spaced out over too great a territory to police properly.

The matter was brought up at Monday morning's council session, when it was stated that some people felt it was embarrassing to go to Police Headquarters to pay fines for over-parking.

In other subjects discussed, Police Chief B. F. Gaffney said a 7 to 10 a. m. parking ban on Park Street will be extended another block, effective immediately.

A number of residents of the street have written council complaining that parked cars have not permitted the street sweeper to do a good job on Park Street. The original 7 to 10 a. m. ban ran from Baltimore Street to Central, and is now extended a block to Emily Street, the chief said.

Under study, Chief Gaffney said, is inclusion of Harrison and Union streets under the same ban. This would run in each instance from the B&O Crossing to the upper portion of the two streets.

If the project proves satisfactory, Chief Gaffney said other streets running off Park will be added to the plan. Residents of several such streets have requested to be included in the program, it was stated.

The possibility of placing the entire route of Maryland Avenue under a one-side only parking restriction also came up for discussion. It was generally felt that this would be desirable, Commissioner Fleming said, but a further study will be made before any decision is reached.

The commissioner said the installation of safety and traffic islands at the intersection of Hilltop Drive, Louisiana Avenue and Williams Street likewise came under study at yesterday's staff conference.

The project was approved at Monday's council session, Commissioner Fleming said, adding that placement of the islands will await recommendation by City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum.

Fleming explained that the islands will have to be placed so that street cleaning by the city's snow removal equipment will not be interfered with. The grader used for this purpose has a 12-foot width, and this will have to be provided for, the commissioner explained.

It also was decided that the islands should be six inches in heighth, instead of the four-inch heighth that had been talked about earlier.

Installation of the islands is considered a "must" by police personnel, who point out their safety value for children who must traverse the dangerous intersection while going to and from school classes.

Guard your weight against gradual gain by counting calories every day!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Sensible Dieting Pays Beauty Dividends

Most people who gain too much weight do so not by gluttonous food orgies, but by consistenly eating just a bit more every day than they require. If you merely consume an extra 100 or so calories today, tomorrow and the next day, you may slowly add to your weight until you are from 10 to 20 pounds over your ideal within a year.

Have you already reached that problem stage? Don't succumb to a faddish diet that promises quick reducing. Your health may suffer, or your nerves become tense. Diet sensibly, losing a pound or two a week until you arrive at the proper scale reading.

To achieve your best weight for good health and long life is a simple process when you have a practical diet plan. Such a plan will not deprive you of things you like, or force your family to be inadequately nourished.

Count your calories! If you extend your quota at one meal, subtract calories at the next. Compensate for the three-inch wedge of apple pie that adds 300 calories to your lunch by omitting a slice of bread and one pat of butter at dinner, and by skipping dessert.

The menus in my booklet "Your Beauty Diet!" (to get a copy, send 10c and a stamped, return envelope to me, c/o this newspaper) make your diet fit easily into meal planning for the whole family. To gain weight, snack between meals. To reduce, eliminate certain foods entirely, halving the quantities of others.

There are other ways to cut down. Serve vegetables without butter or margarine, adding it at the table for those who need it. Separate one portion of salad for yourself before you add the dressing, or take out one boiled potato before you mash the rest with butter and milk.

Busy yourself between meals so you won't even be tempted to nibble. Plan menus so there is enough food for all, but not too much—you can accumulate plenty of calories just by finishing what the children didn't!

Hold yourself to 1200 calories per day when trying to lose weight. Or perhaps even work up to the 3200 calories prescribed by my diet experts for the want-to-gainer!

Steps To Isolation Of Free Berlin

While the Berlin crisis continues to boil away merrily, it seems appropriate to measure the extent of Khrushchev's gains. He has made gains, and he has made them without firing shots and in face of reinforced Allied garrisons in West Berlin.

Berlin was an escape hatch through which could pass the young and the disenchanted from East Germany. Doctors, chemists, farmers, nurses, mechanics, housewives and children — more than 2.5 million have slipped through the escape hatch since 1949. Now it has been slammed shut.

When these people came through, they were treated as Germans, which in fact they were. They spoke the language, and after a brief stay in a reception camp they were whisked away to a waiting job in an office or plant somewhere in booming West Germany.

This was important, but more important to West Berlin's repute as a glittering store window in a drab Communist world were the 150,000 East Germans who came into the Allied sections every day to work, shop and visit friends. They can no longer do so. Thus much of the meaning of West Berlin as an island in a Communist sea has gone. This is the measure of Khrushchev's success.

Having successfully isolated it in the east without even risking a shooting war, Khrushchev can now turn his attention to the systematic isolation of the city from the west. That is what he intends to try to do.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Hunter's Testimony

There will undoubtedly be a storm over the testimony of Edward Hunter before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee. Already Senators Keating and Dodd have protested the publication of Hunter's testimony, although they had a chance to read it.

I have known Edward Hunter during most of his life, much of which was spent in China. His integrity cannot be questioned. He has devoted his years to a study of psychological warfare and has made a specialty of the technique which he calls "brain-washing." This technique is used by the Russians and the Red Chinese as it was used by Hitler to predetermine human responses to propagandistic stimulii. For instance, the current universal slogan, "I'd rather be Red than dead," is a Communist brain-washing tactic. It is repeated in every country and becomes an answer to current political problems.

In his testimony before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, Hunter sought to prove that a powerful anti-anti-Communist movement was being developed. He states his case as follows:

"A quick, Red operation is being attempted, like that of a sleight-of-hand artist, to push this administration, the press, and public into a trap that would eliminate the anti-Communist program in the United States. We should know by now that this is the way Red strategy operates, as it did in the concluding period of World War II."

To prove his case, Edward Hunter has made a study of simultaneous articles and editorials in the non-Communist press which, so far as he is concerned, prove that the Communists have evolved a clever technique in the United States which, as I understand his testimony, seeks to establish that those who are not Communists, spread the Communist line. He cites this as an example:

"One of the most glaring examples of the double standard is in Red racism. The Reds use the term, racial liberation wars, in the native languages of Asia and Africa, and make no bones about it being a war against the white man, specifically the Western white man.

So-called liberals who fall into the trap of equating defense of freedom with racism, following the Red line, never raise a voice against the obvious racism engaged in by Communists."

Edward Hunter reaches this conclusion as to current Communist activities:

"One date should be kept in mind as a starting point of the new phase in 'psywar,' the new Red anti-anti-Communist drive, to differentiate it from the Red-manipulated, covert anti-anti-Communism we had heretofore. The former is outright Red-managed, part of disclosed policy of the Communist hierarchy, and immensely more aggressive. Something new has been added to the old, and it is direct action—demonstrations and riots, unbridled smears in the traditional Red manner, and what in practice amounts to an overt manipulation of non-Communist and even anti-Communist personalities and groups, in and out of government, for a basic Red objective, the liquidation of the growing anti-Communist grassroots movement in the United States."

After the defeat and death of Senator Joe McCarthy, the anti-Communist movement in the United States paled. Men and women were ashamed to be associated with McCarthyism.

Recently, a strong grassroots anti-Communist movement developed, particularly in the colleges and universities. This movement is a sincere response to political necessity. Such an organization as the Young Americans for Freedom or the Committee for a Responsible National Students Organization represents the best in American life and it is such efforts which the Communists now seek to kill off.

Hunter goes further than the politicians by mentioning names, citing articles and showing a correlation of ideas. If Hunter is wrong, those whom he accuses of being brainwashed should establish his error. As it stands, the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee's report stands as an indictment and it must be answered. It is not an indictment involving turpitude; it does involve soft-headedness, a failure to study the material that comes before us all.

It must be acknowledged that the United States has suffered from the effort to pooh-boo anti-Communism. That is one reason why we are now sending more troops into Berlin. Rather than ridicule Hunter, it would be wiser to study his testimony carefully.

Europeans Still Look To U. S. For Leadership

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Some impressions formed in Europe during nearly two months of observation there are presented here today. They are derived from many frank conversations with heads of government, foreign ministers and well-informed editors of important newspapers abroad.

There is, first of all, a high regard for the United States. Its prestige has never really been impaired, though disappointments in the postwar years have been noted and editorial criticism at times has been severe.

Basically the United States is looked to for leadership, which is somehow expected to be perfect in form and substance and method. The moment American policy seems at variance with what highly placed officials in other countries think it should be, they do not hesitate to express themselves about it. Too often the newspapers reflect this dissatisfaction, and the episodes then become magnified beyond their true importance.

There is, however, fundamentally a difference in viewpoint. European nations are struggling for economic equilibrium and ways and means of satisfying the pressures for more and more welfare programs for their growing populations. They are not as strong by any means as the United States, nor have they its potential resources. They have drifted into sheer dependence on America for military, if not economic, support.

As for a big war, it is feared but everyday life doesn't seem to be modified because of that fear. Normal processes of development continue, and officials, though worried, seem confident that war will be avoided.

If this correspondent brings back, however, one single impression about the whole situation, it is that America is not furnishing the leadership it should in the world today.

It's too bad that President Kennedy has not himself heretofore had the benefit of actual experience in international affairs. Two years from now he will be doing perhaps many of the things he ought to be doing today. For he will learn the hard way that trying to harmonize differences with the Western Allies is a frustrating task and results in the end in policies that represent a common denominator of weakness rather than strength.

President Wilson during World War I gave an example of leadership that might well be repeated today. He did not worry too much about what his allies said or thought about the large programs of policy that he believed should be formulated for the postwar years. He spoke out directly and forthrightly. He didn't feel that he had to consult allies on how each paragraph of his speeches or statements should be worded.

Today there is a conflict between materialism and idealism, between adherence to principle and a readiness to barter with the Communists — to buy peace at the expense of principle. The Western Allies are divided in their concepts of what ought to be done about East Germany, for instance, and are allowing themselves to be pushed around on the subject of human rights in East Germany as well as in East Berlin. The United States gives an impression of timidity in what is euphamistically described as caution and restraint. But it actually is furnishing to Khrushchev — as happened with Hitler — the feeling that the Western Alliance is not as strong as it is cracked up to be.

Outwardly, some lip service is being paid to the cause of reunification of Germany. But, under the surface, there is fear of such a contingency. Memories of the war have not vanished in Europe, though American policy toward Japan shows how wartime feeling can be superseded by a new sense of friendship for a former enemy.

The Bonn government is a free and democratic government. Like the Weimar Republic of the 1920's, it needs help and encouragement. West Germany needs to be reunited with East Germany. Otherwise, West Germany will be repossessed someday by the same kind of militaristic groups that gave Hitler his chance to rule.

Keeping Germany divided is dangerous to the peace of the world. President Kennedy should speak out in this cause, even if the Western Allies do not dare to do so publicly. They should already know the spirit of revenge that can be built up inside a defeated country. And they should know, too, that some strong voice of leadership must emerge today if the Berlin problem is to be put into its proper perspective.

Mr. Kennedy's plea for a reunified Germany would not be applauded publicly today by the heads of government in Western Europe nor by some of the politicians. Public opinion within their countries isn't ready for it. So American spokesmen must lead in this cause. It takes a rare courage to speak out and lay before the world the bases of an enduring peace and to strive to get world opinion behind such a program.

If the Weimer Republic had been supported in the 1920's by the West, with financial and economic programs, there wouldn't have been a Hitler or a second world war.

The Russian people don't want war, but they don't know that the way is being prepared for it by their own misguided rulers. They are not being told. The true voice of America that can help prevent a world war and insure peace has not yet been heard.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

AIR CONDITIONING — The White House air-conditioning system is being beefed up at a cost of $76,000, but not because White House's office space in the intervening years requires additional equipment to avoid overloading.

For some 35 years, the executive mansion's air-conditioning system, one of the pioneer systems anywhere, has been functioning satisfactorily. In fact, the 35-year-old equipment will continue to be used because, in the words of an official, it has stood up "amazingly well."

In the intervening years, air-conditioning has become a necessity throughout large parts of the country, but nowhere is it more necessary than in Washington's hot, muggy climate. At the time of the 1926 installation, however, the idea was considered a novelty, and was derided in some quarters as a wasteful expenditure.

No one would say that today, particularly if he has any knowledge about Washington's weather.

When the contract for the new air-conditioning system was announced the other day, a wag with his eye on foreign affairs observed that it was a good thing to try to keep the President cool these days. His remark had more reality than humor.

Fact is that in the White House, as well as throughout government offices in Washington, much manpower has been lost each summer when the oppressive heat forced officials to release employes from their jobs early.

In these times of crisis, when responsible officials sometimes have to work around the clock, air - conditioning in the White House and elsewhere has contributed greatly to more efficient work.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A contributing cause to Hitler's rise in Germany in the early 30's was, of course, the increasing fogginess and senility of the octogenarian President, General Hindenburg. William Shirer reports that the first time he saw Nazi storm troopers parade in Berlin, Hindenburg remarked vaguely, "I didn't know we had taken so many Russian prisoners."

Another story current at the time was that the old general signed any paper that was put before him. An attendant discovered the oily paper in which his sandwich was wrapped in an anteroom of the Chancellery one morning. "Get rid of that paper fast," ordered his superior, "or old Hindenburg is likely to totter in and sign it!"

Ann Mobley bought a pair of expensive imported Italian shoes in a Fifth Avenue bootery recently. She knows they're the genuine article, too. They keep pinching her.

Avoid Eating Raw Or Undercooked Pork

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Most of us are familiar with the possibility of developing trichinosis from eating raw or underdone pork. A safe precaution is to avoid eating pink pork. It takes a temperature of 185 degree F. on the meat thermometer to kill the causative organisms.

Many of the epidemics of trichinosis of the last decade have been traced to eating sausage containing uncooked pork. The 1958 outbreak in Lykens, Pa., for example, was blamed on fresh sausage purchased from an unlicensed meat processor who added raw pork trimmings to his product.

It was impossible to trace the pork beyond this point because the dealer had purchased pork from four wholesale meat packers. Two of these firms maintained full time veterinary meat inspectors while the other two had no inspectors. Most of the packers purchased meat from local sources but all emphasized that no garbage fed hogs were bought.

These details are mentioned for several reasons. There is no way to tell, by looking at pork, whether it contains the pork worm larvas. This even applies to meat inspected by experts and is the main reason why no one should take a chance on eating pork that is not cooked thoroughly.

Freezing kills larvas in the meat fibers but this requires a temperature of 5 degrees F. for 20 days or 0 degrees F. for 24 hours. Smoking or pickling also kills the organisms. Licensed sausage makers know this and take the proper precautions before preparing their meat.

Pigs become infected by eating contaminated pork or the meat of other animals that act as reservoirs of the infection. This is why hogs no longer are fed garbage unless it is properly cooked for 30 minutes at 212 degrees F. This regulation has gone a long way toward eliminating this source of re-infection among pigs.

BELT OR SUSPENDERS

A. O. writes: Does wearing a belt instead of suspenders encourage heart ailments and high blood pressure.

REPLY

No. The closest we came to a disease associated with a tight binder was at the turn of the century when women wore tight corsets. The incidence of peptic ulcer among women was high at that time but nowadays it is unusual for them to develop ulcer.

ARTHRITIC TOES

A. S. writes: Could swollen toes be due to arthritis? I have the disease in my knees and shoulders and now the toes of my left foot have become puffy.

REPLY

Yes. Arthritis of the joints of the toes occurs in much the same way as in the joints of the fingers.

BITES TONGUE

C. R. writes: Once in a while I bite my tongue in my sleep. What is the most likely cause?

REPLY

Your teeth may be at fault; ask your dentist to check for malocclusion. Once in a while tongue biting at night is the only sign of epilepsy. The individual has a convulsion in his sleep and does not know it.

HEAT STRESS

T. B. writes: Is hot weather bad for people with high blood pressure?

REPLY

Yes, because the body has to work harder than usual to dissipate the heat. The strain is greatest on the heart and blood vessels.

ASCENDING PARALYSIS

T. T. writes: What is creeping paralysis?

REPLY

This is an unusual form of paralysis that begins in the legs and spreads rapidly to the trunk, arms, and head. There is no loss of sensation. Ascending paralysis is noted also in some instances of polio and rabies, and when there is too much potassium in the system.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed Telephone inquiries not accepted Dr Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Khrushchev Believes United States And Russia Could Live In Peace

By Drew Pearson

GAGRI, Georgia, USSR — My interview with Premier Nikita Khrushchev at his summer vacation spot on the shore of the Black Sea covered almost every subject under the sun from dust storms, to the U-2, to the question of growing beans. But time after time the conversation came back to the question of whether the two most powerful nations in the world, the United States and Russia, could live in peace..

Premier Khrushchev's conclusion was that they could. And many times he expressed this hope. But he used some blunt Nikitaesque language in commenting on his Vienna talks with President Kennedy.

"I told President Kennedy,' he said, "the story of the man who used to boss his son. Then his son grew up, but the father didn't realize it and took him by the ear.

"'Look here, father,' said the son, 'I'm now grown up. I have children of my own. You can't treat me the way you used to.'

"It's the same way in international relations," Khrushchev said he told Kennedy. "We have now grown up."

"Mr. Kennedy told me, 'our forces are now equal. We can destroy each other.'

"'Yes, Mr. President,' I replied, 'I agree, though in my heart I feel that we are stronger. But I agree on the policy of equality. And on the basis of that reasonable policy let's remove what difficulties lie before us — first of all, Germany. That is the big problem. If we remove this, the rest will be easy.

"'There is of course Laos,' I told him. 'But it is not in Laos that there will be a great struggle between Communism and capitalism.

"'We regard the strength of the United States in a very serious light,' I told the president. 'I believe we are stronger. But if you impose on us, that will decide. But it will be a test that will be deplorable.'"

Red Soldiers Want To Serve

Turning from his talks with Kennedy, but still discussing the problem of war, Khrushchev said: "I am now facing a problem. By Fall one age group of our army is scheduled to be demobilized. But I have been receiving letters from many of these soldiers asking to remain in the army. They point out that they are the most experienced, and that if there is to be war, they want to stay in.

"I am having a struggle in my own mind as to what I should decide. I am leaning toward the idea of leaving them in until the Berlin crisis is over."

In his formal statement to me on Berlin, Khrushchev had said that certain leaders were engaging in "military hysteria in order to have a pretext to unleash war against the Soviet." When I asked him what he meant by this "military hysteria," he cited Kennedy's mobilization of military manpower, his increase in the military budget, and his orders for more bombers.

"These bombers are not toys," Khrushchev added.

"Then there is his sending of 1,500 more men to West Berlin," he said. "This is a clear threat. All these fan the military psychosis. We have to judge governments by their actions, and it is quite clear that the United States is now threatening us.

Allies Of U. S. Will Prevent War

"I would understand this if we were encroaching on the United States," Khrushchev continued. "But we are not demanding any territory. We have enough land of our own. We don't want any more. We have no claims upon anyone. We are only proposing that what's already come into being now be codified and that the last vestiges of World War II be removed. The borders of the two Germany's have now taken shape and we demand that they be codified."

Summing up his ideas on war, however, Mr. Khrushchev told me: "In my opinion there will be no war. I am basing this on the ordinary calculations of those who count their lives on adding machines.

"Why do I think that, despite all this, there will be no war?" he asked. "Because Chancellor Adenauer may turn out to be the best disciple of peace — and his defense minister, Strauss. Strauss knows what war would do to West Germany. So do your other allies — Premier Fanfani of Italy, whom I found to be a very reasonable man, and also de Gaulle and Macmillan.

"They will be the first to take the United States by the hand and tell you there must be no war over Berlin."

Khrushchev several times repeated his personal liking of Kennedy.

"He's a man you can disagree with and still like," he said. "But he backslid from the more reasonable position taken by President Eisenhower. He wanted to frighten us and he frightened himself instead."

(Editor's note: Tomorrow Pearson will report on some of the lighter moments in his talk with Khrushchev.)

Palais des Nations

By John Crosby

GENEVA

The Palais des Nations, built originally as the seat of the League of Nations, and now the European headquarters of the United Nations, was the outgrowth of a competition among the world's architects. However, as has happened here so often, the nations could not agree on a winner. Consequently, five architects were awarded second place and the five collaborated on the present design, which, as a matter of fact, looks very much like a compromise.

This procedure is fairly typical of everything that has gone inside the palais every since. To this very day, no changes are made in the Palais des Nations without consulting the two surviving architects. Compromise is the spirit of Geneva, which has been called "the city of unsuccessful conferences." Famed as it is as the city of international agreements, it's very difficult to find anything permanent that has ever been accomplished here. Since the Japanese walked out of the League of Nations in 1933, the international failures have been far more spectacular and decisive than the international successes.

Even those conferences which ended happily such as the 1955 summit conference between Eisenhower and Khrushchev, which created "the spirit of Geneva,' have been very temporary blessings. Within a year of "the spirit of Geneva," Hungary exploded and Poland almost exploded. The Vietnam conference successfully partitioned French Indo-China into three nations, one of which, Laos, is now the subject of its own fourteen-nation conference. "These unsuccessful conferences are self-regenerating," one old Geneva hand observed cynically.

There are big conferences going on right now in the Palais des Nations, the nuclear test ban conference, the Laotian conference—both pretty badly bogged down—the Economic Commission for Europe which is getting a lot done, a Committee of Inquiry into the Death of Patrice Lumumba which is trying to decide whether to go to the Congo, and a conference on the economic and social consequences of disarmament which is in another special class. A Russian translator told me with a broad grin that all the conferees to the last one are in complete agreement about the economic and social consequences of disarmament.

"But what chance is there of getting disarmament in the first place?" I asked.

"That," he said, the grin getting broader, "we are not empowered to discuss."

The smaller the issue, the more gets done. On matters of postage stamps, or special committees on European traffic problems, or the international exchange of electricity, the work is done fairly swiftly. Even here the Russians cause trouble. International conferences on postal regulations can —and have— been held up for three days while the Russians complain because the Red Chinese are not included. A conference on women's rights recently agreed that female circumcision was deplorable. Of course, doing something about it is another matter. Female circumcision is deeply imbedded in the cultures of the Arabs and Africans and they're not likely to part with it that easily. Dope and prostitution are other matters on which the nations of the world can unite in deploring but have not yet begun to end.

I had a talk with Charles Baechtold, chief security officer and oldest employee in the Palais. Baechtold went to work for the League of Nations when it opened for business forty-one years ago and he's still here for the United Nations. "People were so nice to each other in those days," he said. "They disagreed — but politely." Still, breaches of decorum are almost non-existent. At the open session of the League, a Hungarian diplomat slapped a Hungarian journalist, Baechtold recalled. Nothing so discourteous, he said, has happened since.

The courtesy, even in the middle of hopeless disagreement, is a little overwhelming. I sat in on the Laotian conference for a while. The Russian delegate, Georgi M. Pushkin, interrupted proceedings to congratulate the British chief delegate, Malcolm MacDonald, who is the son of Ramsay MacDonald, on his sixtieth birthday, complimenting MacDonald on his "great wisdom, extreme courtesy, and extraordinary patience."

In reply, MacDonald declared: "Our proceedings have been a little protracted, but I am so very content to remain in this distinguished company that I'd be very happy to celebrate three or four more birthdays here." An hour later, the delegates were at each other's throats over the question of the withdrawal of military personnel, but for a minute or two the sun of international amity was blinding.

Sometimes the courtesies can be fairly edged. For instance, Semyon Tsarapkin, the chief Russian delegate to the nuclear test ban conference, once commented on a British statement. "You have made an extemporaneous statement. After you have had time to reflect, you will change your mind." The trouble with this Russian comment is that the British delegate had read his "extemporaneous" statement over which he had obviously slaved half the night. It was a very nice coup for the Russian since to be extremely courteous and wickedly cutting all at the same time is almost the pinnacle of diplomatic behavior.

Right now the world of diplomatic manners is being slightly ruffled by the table manners of the Red Chinese. The Laotian conference has set up a lounge with great quantities of food and drink for delegates. The fourteen nations are dividing up the expense of the food and drink, the big nations paying twelve per cent, the little ones four per cent. However, the hungry Red Chinese are getting 65 per cent of the food and all of the tables. It's driving their Russian pals to drink. You find Russians in there at 10:30 in the morning drinking scotch and soda because they can't get anywhere near the food.

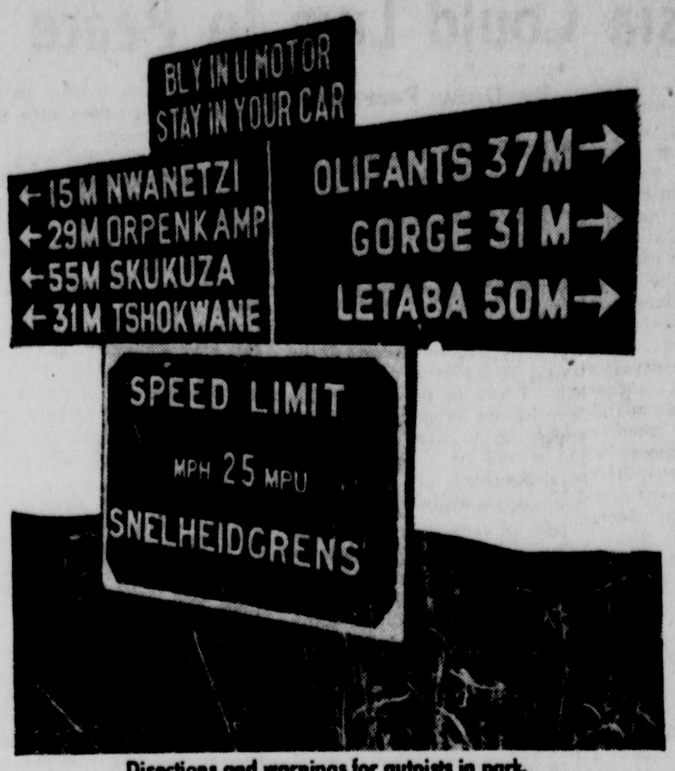
WILD ANIMAL PARK



Directions and warnings for autoists in park.

Monkeys climb car to get close look at visitors.

It's not a bad dream; it's reality. You're driving your car through African bush country. Suddenly, before you, looms an elephant, as big as a house, crossing the road in leisurely fashion. Nearby, the tall neck of a giraffe stretches over the underbrush. A zebra comes dashing up. You stop the car for a moment, and a monkey leaps onto the hood.

All this can happen when you tour South Africa's Kruger National Park, the largest wild game sanctuary in the world, nearly 8,000 square miles of virgin country roamed by thousands of lions, elephants, hippos, giraffes, zebras, monkeys and many different species of deer and antelope.

Wildlife has prospered in the park. During the past 50 years, the elephant herd has doubled, now numbering about 1,200. The ox-like antelope called the eland, near extinction in 1900, now numbers 400. And the same rate of increase holds true for most of the other animals.

To keep animals safely in the park, and poachers out, the park is building the longest fence in the world—600 miles of it. When finished, sometime in the fall, it will completely encircle the park.

Tourists are cautioned to stay in their cars, keep to the roads, and drive slowly. They're not allowed to carry firearms. At night, they retire to the safety of rest camps.

BIG THRILL. Bull elephant crosses road in front of automobile at Letaba, Kruger Park. Tourists travel road during daylight hours.

Two lions saunter down the road completely unconcerned about the cars that are following them.

A bull kudu, large African antelope, lifts his head to pose.

Deep in the bush, workmen erect fence which will completely encircle Kruger Park. When finished, fence will cover distance of 600 miles, making it world's longest.

Giraffes stop to refresh themselves at stream in park.

At rest camp, a couple dine inside a rondival, a furnished thatched roof cabin. This will be their home during stay in park.

CAMP NIGHT. Food sizzles on grill over barbecue pit while tourists wait to get their share. From the darkness beyond come the wild cries of the African night.

W. Va. Bricklayer Is Murder Victim

ST. ALBANS, W. Va. (UPI) — The body of an itinerant bricklayer was found along a road near here Wednesday. Police said the man, Wilmore P. Hamlet, 42, was an apparent murder victim.

Kanawha County Coroner Goff P. Lilly said his examination of the body indicated Hamlet had been beaten on the head and was unconscious when his throat was cut. He said either a knife or a hatchet apparently was used to cut Hamlet's throat.

Lilly also said there appeared "little doubt" the body had been pushed from a moving car. And he said Hamlet probably put up a fight before being killed. Hamlet's jaw was fractured and some of his fingers were broken.

The body was spotted along U. S. 60 by a motorist.

Pair Accused Of Bilking State Funds

Misappropriated $8,000 At Welch

WELCH, W. Va. (UPI) — The former financial secretary of Welch Emergency Hospital and a Welch businessman allegedly admitted Wednesday they bilked the state out of about $8,000 in cash.

State Police Sgt. E. C. Guthrie said the pair also admitted collaborating in a scheme in which plumbing supplies were bought in the name of the hospital for use in the private business of one of the suspects, Milton E. Hawes, 35, Welch.

The value of these supplies, and the amount of additional payments allegedly made to Hawes for work at the hospital but not carried out were not immediately disclosed.

Formally charged along with Hawes with two counts each of forgery was Lucille LaFon Fallin, 38, who had charge of much of the money affairs of the hospital for nine of the past 12 years. She was fired last April after Guthrie said a routine state audit disclosed discrepancies in the institution's books.

Guthrie said he joined the investigation in June with the McDowell County prosecutor's office. He said the alleged scheme of Mrs. Fallin and Dawes dated back to at least May, 1959.

Guthrie said Mrs. Fallin made out checks, ranging in amounts from $80 to $600, in the name of a nephew of Hawes. The nephew, who left the state some time ago, knew nothing about this, the sergeant said.

Guthrie said Hawes forged his nephew's name to the checks and then returned them to Mrs. Fallin for a second endorsement in her name, after which they were cashed.

He said certain supplies were bought from bonafide dealers in the name of the hospital but were used by Hawes in his private business.

Guthrie said the two had admitted 37 instances of check forgeries and five cases of buying supplies for the hospital and diverting them to Hawes' business.

Hardy Co. Schools May Be First In W.Va. To Use TV Teaching In Classroom

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.—Hardy County will be the first in West Virginia to have instruction by television in the grade schools, according to the proposal by Assistant County Superintendent Stanley P. Hawse. Mr. Hawse attended a meeting at Madison College, Virginia with representatives from the Richmond Public School System, from 30 school systems in Virginia and representatives of WSVA-TV.

LT. JAMES W. KEHOE

Naval Aide Assigned At ABL Facility

Lt. James W. Kehoe has been appointed assistant Bureau of Naval Weapons branch representative at the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, it was announced yesterday by Lt. Comdr. E. P. Loflin, Bureau of Naval Weapons branch representative at ABL.

Lt. Kehoe began his duties at ABL as assistant to Lt. Comdr. Loflin after two years duty as operations officer aboard the Navy destroyer USS Rush with the Atlantic Fleet. Prior to that assignment, he had been employment instructor at the Nuclear Weapons Training Center at San Diego for two years.

A native of Newport, R. I., he is a 1952 graduate of Stonehill College at North Easton, Mass., with a B. S. degree in mathematics. He earned his M. A. degree in math in 1959 at San Diego State College.

From 1952 to 1955 he was nuclear supervisor of the special weapons assembly team aboard two aircraft carriers the USS Wasp and USS Kearsarge of the Pacific Fleet. He served for two years as nuclear intelligence officer with the Central Intelligence Agency in Washington.

Lt. Kehoe and his wife, Elizabeth, have four children and are residing in Cumberland.

FROSTBURG — Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schrug, of here, announce the birth of a daughter yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ringler, RFD 2, Frostburg, announce the birth of a son Tuesday.

Firemen Answer Two Alarms In City

City firemen answered two minor alarms yesterday.

Firemen from Central Station responded when a car caught fire on Decatur Street, while West Side checked a similar call on North Johnston Street. No damage was reported to either automobile.

The programs will start Monday, October 2 at 10 a. m. with science for the sixth grade. This class will be conducted again on Thursdays. The second half of the hour will have music for the second grade.

On Tuesday at 10 a. m. science classes for the fifth grade will be held and again on Friday for the first half hour. On Tuesday the second half hour will be Current Events for Grades 6 and 7.

On Wednesday the first half hour will be art classes for Grades 5 and 6 with Music for third graders the second portion. Music for the fourth grade will be held the second portion on Thursday and on the second portion of Friday's classes, literature for second graders.

A staff of eight experienced and well trained teachers will do the instructing and manuals and lesson guides will be made available to teachers well in advance.

The cost for this high level new teaching medium is quite modest and amounts to only $1 per participating pupil for the science classes and 50 cents for music and art for an entire year. These costs will be paid by the parents to the Richmond Public School System. The only other cost will be the TV set to be purchased by the parents of school Parent-Teacher Association.

Mr. Hawse was enthusiastic about this high level program which provides a modern and most effective teaching tool which otherwise would be impossible in a rural county like Hardy. Mr. Hawse is experienced in the TV educational possibilities as he had charge of the highly successful program in Hagerstown, Md., in a closed circuit TV classroom teaching experiment.

Mr. Hawse pointed out that the TV classroom program does not replace the classroom teacher but helps immeasureably, with subjects in which the majority of teachers are not fully trained. The TV classroom programs are taught by the best teachers available, he said.

No funds are available from the Board of Education to assist the graded schools and the costs of the installation and purchase of a TV set will have to be arranged for at each school. Mr. Hawse explained, but the board will give every assistance possible within the budget. Teachers and parents at various schools are requested to try to arrange for the new teaching program as soon as possible and to advise the school board office.

Rededication Arranged

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower will rededicate Washington Confederate Cemetery at Hagerstown on Sunday afternoon, where this memorial, erected by the states of Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia, marks the graves of 5,000 Confederates who fell at the Battles of South Mountain and Antietam. General Fitzhugh Lee first dedicated the cemetery in 1877. (AP Photofax)

W. Va. Enrolls Over 6,000 On Emergency Work Plan

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Welfare Department said Wednesday that at least 6,200 persons would be certified by Friday for work under the new federal-state program to provide jobs for the unemployed.

A spokesman said this more than ever had been on the payrolls of the former State Temporary Employment Program (STEP) or the Emergency Employment Program (EEP).

Director W. Bernard Smith also said the new cooperative program — under which the federal government foots 70 per cent of the bill — has funds to carry on its work and there is no shortage. There had been reports that the number of persons working under the program was being cut.

However, Smith said this was not necessarily true. He noted that the plan — financed under the new federal aid to Dependent Children (ADC) program — replaced EEP and that this may have accounted for some reductions.

He said many persons formerly working under the EEP have not registered for ADC and thus are not being carried on the payrolls. He also pointed out ADC regulations would eliminate a small number of persons from being transferred from EEP program.

Under the ADC operation, jobless workers with dependent children are given $1 an hour jobs on various state projects and clean-up programs.

MOOREFIELD, W.Va. — Postmaster Glenn Evans reports that the lobby doors to the new post office will be closed at 8:00 o'clock in the evenings, if youngsters continue to scatter sand and trash on the floors at night.

Evans said the doors are left open to the lobby for the convenience of postal patrons so that they may get to their lock boxes after hours, but that recently youngsters have been going inside and scattering the sand in the ash stand over the lobby and scattering paper from the waste basket over the floor.

The postmaster said he had no alternative but to close the lobby if the vandalism continued. He requests citizens to report such acts.

Gov. Barron Promises W. Va. No New Taxes

Plans Official Call Of 1962 Legislature

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—No new taxes for West Virginians in 1962: that was the pledge Wednesday by Gov. W. W. Barron, as far as he is concerned.

Barron told a news conference that he will meet with leaders of the Legislature in December to plan his official call for the 1962 session. And he told newsmen, "I do not plan to request any new taxes or increases in present ones."

That goes for the additional penny tacked on to the consumer sales tax this year, Barron said. He said he is against extending the 3-cent on-the-dollar levy beyond its scheduled expiration of next June 30.

The governor also said he favors suspension of West Virginia's participation in the present type of federal-state medical care program for the aged after it expires early next year.

He said it would take $5 million of additional state money to continue the program and he doesn't see where that much money could be raised without difficulty. By the time the present program expires next year, it is possible that President Kennedy's proposed medicare program, tied to social security, may be in force.

Jobs, Industry Emphasized

If it isn't, Barron apparently is still against extending the present program. He said the state must concentrate on programs to put its unemployed to work and to make the state more attractive to new industry.

As for the present federal-state program for providing jobs for the unemployed, the governor said he is "not disturbed" at the low number of men who have signed up so far. "I think the applicants will increase as soon as the program gets more in full swing," he said.

The Welfare Department estimated only about 5,000 men will have been signed up by Friday whereas the original estimate was that 18,000 would be eligible.

The complete switchover from the old EEP program to 70-30 financing by the federal government under the Aid to Dependent Children program is scheduled Friday.

Barron also told newsmen:

—West Virginia had four times the national average in the past fiscal year in putting disabled persons back into gainful employment. Amplifying on this previously reported disclosure, the governor said the state's average of 188 rehabilitations per 100,000 disabled persons was the highest in the national program's 40-year history.

Traffic Committee Set Up

—A coordinating committee for promotion of highway safety on the part of state agencies has been set up with Barron as chairman and Road Commission safety director Roy G. Coen as executive secretary.

—It was "going to be a problem" to split up $1.75 million of federal money made available Tuesday for his distribution to various state, city and county agencies for repairing damage by the July 19 flash floods in the Charleston area. Damage has been estimated at over $3 million.

—He probably will ask the 1962 Legislature to expand West Virginia's civil defense program.

—He is going to take a look at the insurance program for covering Statehouse buildings. Little insurance is now held on the buildings and this was emphasized by the floods that damaged a state office building.

—Banks in various communities have indicated they would cooperate both with the state and local areas regarding possible low-interest loans to be used to bring in new industry to the state.

Picnic Tomorrow

ELLERSLIE — The Ellerslie Charge Brotherhood of the Evangelical United Brethren Church will hold a family picnic Friday evening, at 6 o'clock at the Hyndman Camp Grounds.

Army Recruiter Cites Need For Band Musicians

Keyser Station Is Given Quota

KEYSER — Sgt. Joseph A. Celich, local Army recruiter, revealed that a critical shortage currently exists within the Army for bandsmen, especially for personnel who play the following instruments: Piano, bassoon, trombone, B-flat clarinet, baritone sax, flute or piccolo.

Because of the shortage and a continuing need, the Army has authorized the enlistment of qualified young men for direct assignment to an Army band upon completion of basic training.

Sgt. Celich said the enlistee must meet physical and mental qualifications for enlistment in the regular Army. Then he will be auditioned by a bandmaster at Fort George G. Meade. If the applicant is found to be qualified, the bandmaster will give him a letter which will contain his audition score and a recommendation that he be enlisted in the Regular Army as a bandsman or for assignment to a specific band as appropriate.

Although all travel and expenses from the applicant's home to the Army recruiting main station in Fairmont will be borne by the government, the travel and expenses accrued in connection with the audition at Fort Meade must be paid for by the applicant.

Sgt. Celich may be contacted at 111 Armstrong Street in Keyser or by calling SU 8-5956.

Report From East Germany: Nobody Starves, But It's A Drab Life

EDITOR'S NOTE: Shortly before East-West relations worsened in divided Germany, Carl Hartman, The AP's correspondent in Berlin, made a rare tour of the East German provinces. He spent eight days traveling 1,300 miles through such places as Dresden, Rostock and Weimar, once famed cities which have now all but disappeared from Western eyes. This is his report of conditions in the East German provinces often hidden behind the well-lighted stage of East Berlin.

By CARL HARTMAN

DRESDEN, East Germany (AP)—Within a few hundred yards of each other in this badly bombed provincial capital you can see:

A damaged private mansion, confiscated and rebuilt as headquarters of the Communist youth organization; a bombed-out villa, only half rebuilt, the home and shop of a family still allowed to run a private fur business.

—A town house, once sumptuous, now just a blackened shell on poorly paved, ill-lighted street; a big new school for railway engineers and, ablaze with neon, a new government-owned hotel called the Astoria.

—Next to it, a sign warning military missions—the only Westerners who travel regularly in East Germany — to stay out of the area, presumably because of a Soviet military installation.

There you have in a small space a big slice of Communist East Germany. It's an odd concoction of capitalism and communism, technical progress and plain sloppiness, the German determination to work and build and the reminder of Soviet domination.

Soviet Russia does not rule East Germany directly. It is believed the Soviets have about 24 divisions in the country, but they keep well out of sight in the capital. They are more apparent near Berlin.

Officially, they are no longer occupation troops. The Communists always refer to them as "temporarily stationed" in the county. They build wooden fences around their camps, paint them a dull blue-green and then let them fall into disrepair.

Practically, things are kept in hand by the green-uniformed "Volkspolizei" or "People's Police, commonly called "vopos." You see them all over, often carrying carbines. They do not like to be photographed.

Visitors are strictly regulated. I waited nearly a year for permission to make the trip, and then it had to be done under rules stricter than those in other Communist satellites. The idea of going by myself, using ordinary trains and buses, was vetoed at once. I had to have a private car, furnished by the Foreign Ministry, with its own driver and a tried Communist newspaperman as escorts.

We made only one unscheduled side-trip, to the picturesque southeastern town of Bautzen. It was only after I returned to West Berlin that I learned it was the site of a notorious political prison known as "Gelbe Elend" (Yellow Misery). It is also where deserters from U.S. and British forces are held under considerable restrictions.

The feeling a Westerner gets is one of complete isolation from the outside world. It is hard to turn on the radio or even look around a city street without being hit by a massive dose of propaganda. The main theme is: "The West is on the skids and Communsm is going to win."

What is it like, living in East Germany?

There are no shortages in the sense that anyone has to go hungry or unclothed.

East Germans have to spend a long time shopping, though, if they are fussy about styles or if they want a pork chop bad enough. You can judge the irregularity of the supply from blackboards many shops display, with current special offerings chalked on them—lentils, rice, raisins, sauerkraut, spinach.

One day, driving through the northern part of the country, I wanted something to eat about 2 p.m. We stopped at three villages. For one reason or another, no restaurant was serving.

At the fourth, we found one open. It wasn't too good, but I managed a couple of fried eggs. As we went out, I noticed a little sign on the door:

"All our meat in this restaurant is horse meat."

There is a dinginess to life in the Communist countries that intelligent communists will readily admit. Public places are often not clean, and they are always badly lit. Everything seems to need a coat of paint.

"The Soviets could not have put up the first sputnik," the Communists will tell you, "if they had stopped to fix all the leaky faucets first."

The sloppiness is not only in the repairs, or the lack of them but in the planning. I stayed in a brand new hotel in Rostock. There were 10 rooms, some of them doubles, to a floor. Each floor had only two toilets, with unpainted seats. Paint was beginning to flake off the woodwork.

Some of the television, theater, opera and classical music is quite good, as can be expected in Germany. But as everywhere, the proportion of the people who appreciate these is small. Movies assay high in propaganda and low in entertainment. Newspapers, radio and magazines are designed to edify rather than amuse.

Propaganda pervades the atmosphere, like the reek of soft coal.

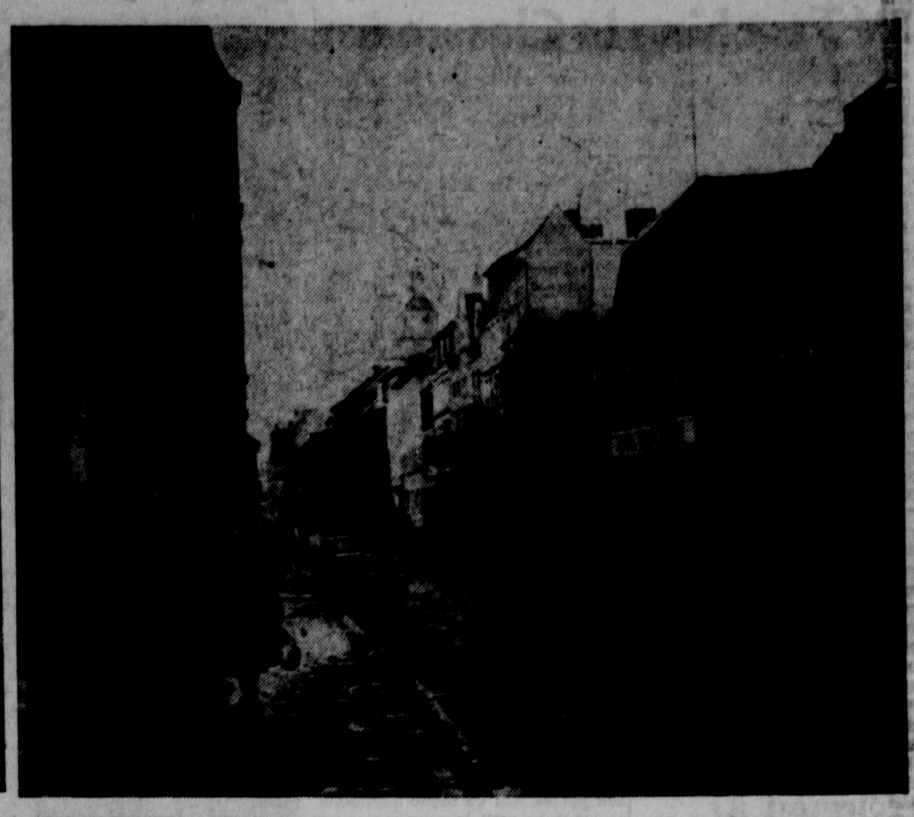
Even in the Dresden art gallery, the first room contains an exhibit to show that in past times —until the arrival of the Communists, presumably — art could be enjoyed only by the privileged classes.

At Buchenwald concentration camp near the old town of Weimar, there is nothing in all the detailed exhibits to indicate that American soldiers freed the prisoners and fed them.

Westerners who have visited East Germany over the years say it used to be even less inviting, before Stalin died. There is more food, more housing, more clothes, less propaganda and less police terror.

Scotland was settled by the Scots, Picts, British and Angles. The Romans called the land Caledonia.

BUTCHER SHOP in Rostock, East Germany, is well supplied with meat. No one has to go hungry in Communist Germany—but you have to shop around quite a while in order to get what you want.



MAIN STREET of Wittenberg, East Germany, illustrates life under the Communists. It's drab and rather lifeless. Automobiles and gasoline are rare and expensive.

Mantle Homers As Yankees Win, 4-0; Pirates Defeat Reds, 3-1

Twins Bow As Stafford Beats Kaat

Mickey One Game Ahead Of Ruth; Howard Homers

MINNEAPOLIS, St. Paul (AP) —Mickey Mantle slashed his 47th home run of the season Wednesday night as the New York Yankees and Bill Stafford defeated the Minnesota Twins 4-0.

Mantle's blast, on a 2-2 pitch to lead off the seventh inning, just cleared the left field fence. The poke put the Yankees slugger one game ahead of Babe Ruth's record 60-homer pace in 1927. Home run twin Roger Maris, who has 51 and is seven games ahead of Ruth, stroked a run-scoring single in three official trips.

Stafford and lefty Jim Kaat were locked in a pitchers duel until the Yankees scored a run in the fourth inning.

Elston Howard capped the Yankee scoring with his 14th home run off reliever Ray Moore in the ninth inning.

Stafford held the Twins hitless until Earl Battey's one-out single in the fifth and gave up only four hits in the game.

The victory brought Stafford's season record to 12-7, while Kaat suffered his 13th setback in 20 decisions.

HOMER HEROICS—The assault on Babe Ruth's record of 60 homers in 1927, which eluded such famed sluggers as Hank Greenberg, Jimmy Foxx and Hack Wilson, continues to make the headlines as the Yankee M-squad, Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris, keep ahead of the Babe's record pace. Ruth, himself, was closest to his own 60, for the Bambino got 59 homers in 1921. Foxx, with 58 in 1932, and Greenberg, with 58 in 1938, came closest. The N.L.'s best assault was by Wilson, who came through with 56 in 1930. Only others to hit 50 or more have been Ralph Kiner, who did it twice with 51 and 54; Mantle, with 52, and Willie Mays and Johnny Mize, with 51. (Central Press)

Sturdivant Stops Losers On Four Hits

Cincinnati Lead Cut To 2½ Games; Purkey Defeated

PITTSBURGH (AP) — American League castoff Tom Sturdivant, pitching his fifth straight complete game, baffled the league-leading Cincinnati Reds on four hits Wednesday night and sparked the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 3-1 victory.

The loss, combined with Los Angeles' 5-2 triumph over Chicago Wednesday afternoon, slashed the Reds' lead over the Dodgers to 2½ games.

Three wild pitches thrown by Cincinnati starter Bob Purkey and two passed balls by catcher Darrell Johnson contributed to the Pirates' victory. One Pittsburgh run scored on a wild pitch, another on a passed ball.

Sturdivant, who once starred for the New York Yankees, retired 20 Reds in a row before Jerry Lynch singled with two out in the ninth. Gordon Coleman followed with a single, but Sturdivant got Gus Bell on an easy grounder.

The veteran right-hander now has a 4-1 record. He has permitted only two earned runs in his last three games.

Podres Wins 17th, Beats Chicago, 5-2

Neal And Sherry Homer For Dodgers

CHICAGO (UPI) —Two-run homers by Charley Neal and Norm Sherry carried the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 5-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs, and helped Johnny Podres to his 17th pitching win of the season.

Podres needed help from Larry Sherry in the seventh inning, but the victory gave the Dodgers' ace southpaw a perfect 4-0 mark against the Cubs, who have not beaten him since Sept. 18, 1960.

The loss was charged to lefty Dick Ellsworth, victim of both home runs. Neal drove a shot into the left field bleachers with Daryl Spencer aboard in the second. Spencer also was on base with a lead-off single in the fourth when Norm Sherry hit his fourth homer of the year.

Neal tripled off the centerfield wall and scored the Dodgers' fifth run on Norm Sherry's sixth inning single off reliever Dick Drott.

Nats Prexy Benches Trio For 'No Hustle'

Long, Green, Tasby Draw Quesada Ire

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. Elwood (Pete) Quesada, president of the slump-ridden Washington Senators, Wednesday night accused three of his players —Dale Long, Willie Tasby and Gene Green — of "lack of hustle," and said they would be "benched indefinitely."

The Senators had an 11-game losing streak going into Wednesday night's game with the Cleveland Indians, and even though Long, Tasby and Green each have hit 16 homers and share the club lead in that department, Quesada charged them with "indifference."

Quesada added that he had told Manager Mickey Vernon:

"The front office backs you 100 per cent in any action you take against those players who are drawing major league salaries and are playing minor league ball."

The public tongue-lashing brought angry retorts from all three players.

"When I was going good and hitting .325, nobody accused me of not hustling," said Tasby. "As soon as I got into a slump, I didn't hustle, according to the club. I've tried just as hard as I ever did."

"This is something new to me," said Long, a 16-year veteran. "I just can't run as fast any more. Everybody knows it. But I run as hard as I can. If they (the Washington executives) don't like it, I said: 'So, see you later'."

Green was equally bitter. "What major league salary?" he asked. "I've got all I can do to keep my wife and kids from starving on the salary I get. I'm no catcher in the first place. I can't run but I swing a good bat. I don't want to catch but I did it to help the club. Why don't they put me in the outfield or at first base where it's easier for me?"

Green is the second leading hitter on the club with a .294 average. He is second in runs batted in with 54.

Tasby was hitting .325 at the end of June but has slumped to .259. He leads the club in runs batted in with 56. Long has driven in 47 runs and is batting .256.

Snead Seeks 10th W. Va. Open Title

Slammer Enters October Event

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)— Sammy Snead will make his 11th appearance in the West Virginia Open golf tournament here in October.

Snead has won the event nine times, including last year when he finished ahead of two other top notch players of the national pro golf circuit, Art Wall and Arnold Palmer.

Snead was so sure last year that he had lost that when he finished his final round, he left for his home at Hot Springs, Va. However, Wall, one of the last finishers, had a relatively poor round and lost the lead he had held.

Riviera Country Club, located along W. Va. 2 just north of Huntington, will be the scene of the tournament Oct. 27-29. Riviera only this year opened a second nine holes to go with its first nine.

The 1961 tourney will be 54 holes and observers already are predicting that the long-hitting Snead will shatter the record for the rather short course.

Hunters To Have Split Season

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— Duck and coon hunters in West Virginia will have a 36-day split season for 1961, running Oct. 21-31 and Dec. 6-30, the Department of Natural Resources said Wednesday.

The department set a daily bag limit of three. Brant and geese seasons will run from Oct. 14-Dec. 12, and there will be no open season on redheads, canvassbacks or swans.

Health Officer Visits Centers

Dr. W. Ross Cameron, acting deputy state health officer for Allegany County, after completing a tour of county health centers said that they are a valuable asset to the health department. He also paid tribute to the numbers of interested volunteer workers in the various sections who have worked so hard in many cases to provide these facilities and are still working hard to operate them.

Dr. Cameron said that other small communities should be encouraged to engage in planning health centers, "as there is no question that the people in every community large or small regard these centers as a real asset and necessity."

He said that the centers could also be used for other community projects, such as a meeting hall, for lectures and education programs.

Dr. Cameron complimented County United Fund for the contribution it is making toward maintenance of some of the centers.

Cash Taken Ill Suddenly, Claims Eyes Affected

DETROIT (UPI) — Slugging first baseman Norm Cash of the Detroit Tigers, leading hitter in the American League, was rushed to a hospital Wednesday night after complaining suddenly during pre-game practice that he could not see.

However, after preliminary examination, doctors said Cash appeared to be suffering from an infection, such as a flu virus, and that it did not appear there was anything wrong with his vision itself.

"We can't tell at this stage," said Dr. B. J. Heian, a Detroit eye specialist, "But his eyes seem okay. It is probably flu or something."

Dr. Russell Wright, team physician, agreed with Heian, saying, "the ailment is outside the eye but is affecting it."

Cash, who is hitting .366, was taken to Detroit Osteopathic Hospital where he was to remain overnight for medication and observation.

Senators Lose 12th Straight, Tribe Wins, 9-0

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Cleveland Indians scored eight runs in the fourth inning to hand the reeling Washington Senators their 12th straight loss, 9-0, on a four-hitter by Gary Bell.

The Indians scored an unearned run in the second on Willie Kirkland's triple followed by Danny O'Connell's error, then clinched the game in a wild fourth inning which saw three wild pitches by loser John Gabler and his successor, Johnny Klippstein, plus five hits and three walks.

Kirkland got another triple in this inning and scored the eighth run on the third wild pitch of the inning.

Demeter's Double Wins Game In 8th

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Don Demeter's second double of the game drove home Charlie Smith with two out in the eighth inning Wednesday night to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 4-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Cardinals, held to one hit for five innings by Frank Sullivan, drove the tall right-hander from the mound in the sixth with three runs, two of which were unearned, but lefty Don Ferrarese stopped the Redbirds the rest of the way to win his third game against nine losses. Ray Sadecki (12-7) was the loser.

First session was held Tuesday night at Flintstone High School and last night the meeting was at West Side School.

Purpose of the meetings has been to remind each contractor and driver of state requirements for bus drivers, state automobile laws, qualifications and responsibilities of drivers, operational regulations and practices.

J. Rubert Radcliffe, county supervisor of transportation, said about 120 persons are attending the three meetings. Trooper John W. McFarland spoke to the drivers at Flintstone on highway safety. State Police Cpl. John F. Browning spoke to the group last night at West Side and will attend tonight's session at Valley.

New Bulletin About Tools Is Available

A new eight-page bulletin entitled "Tools and Materials Needed In The Home" prepared by the University of Maryland Extension Service is now available in limited supply from the office of County Agent Joseph M. Steger at the Court House.

This bulletin was written by Guy W. Gienger, extension agricultural engineer, and Miss Joanne Reitz, home management specialist. Both have Allegany County connections. Mr. Gienger was a graduate of Flintstone High School and Miss Retiz formerly served as home demonstration agent here.

There are illustrations on each of the eight pages of the booklet. Data in the bulletin includes information about hammers, screwdrivers, pliers, wrenches, saws, chisels, putty knife, rule, hatchet, planes, squares, nail set, files, tinner's snips, drills, glass cutters, combination sharpening stone, sandpaper, nails, screws, fasteners, hinges, assorted bolts, nuts and washers, glazier's points, putty, wall hangers, masonry hangers, and tool box.

Tawes Asks Drivers To Be Cautious During Holiday

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes urged Marylanders Wednesday to take extra safety precautions if they plan to drive on Free State highways during Labor Day weekend.

He warned that many people will be taking their "last fling" of the summer, and recalled that nine persons were killed and 355 injured in accidents during the holiday period last year.

In his official proclamation, Tawes pleaded with motorists and pedestrians alike to "make your Labor Day and every day a holiday from accidents."

Harlan Dean Captures Rich Hambletonian In Two Straight Heats

Winner Sets Trot Mark In First Race

Miller Colt Takes $77,364 Of Purse; Arthur Is Driver

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP) — Harlan Dean, who had won only once in eight starts this year and did not race at all until July 21, Wednesday trotted successive mile heats of 1:58 2-5 and 1:59 to capture the Hambletonian with a world-record performance.

The brown son of Harlan, trained by Del Miller and driven by 42-year-old Jimmy Arthur, took a winner's slice of $77,364 out of the total purse $131,573 which was the third highest ever offered in harness racing.

Arthur brought Harlan Dean from fourth at the end of the ¾ pole to third in the stretch during the blistering first heat.

As Duke Rodney, the Yonkers Futurity winner and highly favored in the Hambletonian, broke stride while leading in the middle of the stretch, Harland Dean and Matastar whizzed by and dueled to the finish with Harlan Dean winning by a head.

In the second heat, Harlan Dean beat the unofficial 4-5 favorite, Caleb, by 2½ lengths while Spectator was third and Claire Sampson fourth—all a head apart.

Duke Rodney again broke in the second heat near the quarter pole.

Caleb, owned by Mrs. Charlotte De Van of Hanover, Pa., and piloted by John Simpson, took second money $32,235 with his 3-2 finishes. Matastar was third to earn $12,894 in a 2-7 effort and Spectator $6,447 with 6-3.

First heat of 1:58 2-5 topped the 1:58 3-5 record for 3-year-old trotters set by Elaine Rodney in the Kentucky Futurity in Lexington last fall and matched by Caleb in the recent Review Futurity at Springfield, Ill.

The second heat timing of 1:59 also broke the former Hambletonian record of 1:59 3-5 posted last year by Quick Song and Hoot Frost, the latter driven by Arthur at that time.

VICTORY CUP TO WINNER — Harlan Dean, a colt trained by Del Miller and driven by Jimmy Arthur, looks on as Gov. Otto Derner of Illinois, left, presents the Hambletonian trophy to the winning driver. Harlan Dean bettered the Hambletonian record in both heats and lowered the world record for three-year-old trotters with a time of 1:58 2/5 in the first heat. In the rear is Groom Stuart Ricketts. MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Trial of the government's income tax suit against Ingemar Johansson, former heavyweight boxing champion, was set for Sept. 18. Federal Judge Frank Johnson Jr. will come here from Alabama to hear the case.

Johansson claims that his earnings are not subject to U.S. taxes because he operates as a Swiss corporation.

Pitcher Early Wynn Retires For Season

DETROIT (UPI)—Chicago White Sox general manager Ed Short said Wednesday the club has sent veteran pitcher Early Wynn home for the rest of the season to rest his ailing pitching arm. Short said Wynn did not come here with the team for a three game series that opened Tuesday night. Wynn has an 8-2 record this season and with a career total of 292 victories is only eight short of the charmed 300 circle.

Rotary Gains Playoff Spot

Defeats Lions By 9-2 Score

Manager Lonnie Jackson's Rotary Club clinched a playoff spot in the tight Hot Stove League race yesterday by defeating the Lions, 9-2, in the first game of a doubleheader at Penn Avenue field.

The victory hiked the Rotary Club's record to 17-9 with one game left and tied them with the Jaycees for second place. The Cumberland Optimists have clinched the pennant and Bedford Road's Optimists have finished with a 17-10 record for the other playoff berths.

The win by Manager Jackson's charges eliminated the B.P.O. Elks who had closed their season on Tuesday with a 16-11 mark.

Rock Cioni led Rotary at the plate with a triple and single and Greg Skidmore belted a double. George Showalter starred at second base for the winners.

300 Youngsters To See Orioles Game Saturday

An estimated 300 youngsters will see the Cleveland Indians play the Orioles at Baltimore on Saturday afternoon, C. Eugene Mason, city recreation director, said last night as final preparations were made to take players in the Dapper Dan Little League and in the High School Rec League to see the major league contest.

The annual trip is sponsored by the Dapper Dan Club and Mason said that six or seven buses will be furnished to transport the young athletes to the game.

Members of eight of the 12 teams in the little league and the six teams in the high school circuit are slated to meet at 5:30 a.m. on Saturday at City Hall. Players on the Giants, Pirates, Cardinals and Yankees will meet at the same time at Penn Avenue field.

Players need not wear their team uniforms, but must wear their uniform caps, Mason stated.

Birds Won't Hurry To Pick Manager

BALTIMORE (AP)—Lee MacPhail, president of the Baltimore Orioles, said Wednesday he doesn't expect to pick a manager quickly to replace Paul Richards.

"We'd like to hire one as soon as possible," MacPhail said, "but I doubt that we'll get one until well after the close of this season."

There is no rush since Richards has agreed to stay on the job until the season ends Sept. 30 if the Orioles want him.

Hyndman Trims Greenpoint Inn Tossers, 7-1

Deadlocks County Loop Series At 1-1

Hyndman's Vets evened their championship series with pennant-winning Greenpoint Inn in the County Softball League yesterday by trimming the Old Exports, 7-1, behind the four-hit pitching of Junior Brelsford who won his 22d game of the season.

The third contest in the best-of-five playoffs for the County League crown will be played at Greenpoint field on Friday at 6 p.m.

Brelsford struck out 10 and walked only one batter as he held Greenpoint in check with the exception of Buddy Meade's solo homer in the second inning which accounted for the loser's only run.

Art Raygor, victor in the opening game of the championship series on Monday, 4-1, lost his sixth game against 20 victories. He was touched for nine hits, including a double and a pair of singles by Dick Emerick and two singles apiece by Vohn Lehman and "Boo" Shaffer. The results:

THE BIG EDGE puts B.F.Goodrich Silvertown miles ahead of other tires!
NARROW EDGE
DEAD CENTER
OTHER TIRES have narrow edges, as this diagram shows. Following tradition, the rubber is concentrated in the center ribs. But in today's driving, that's a "dead center," where tire wear is least. Look at your own tires, and you'll see the first signs of wear are on the outside edges.
THE BIG EDGE
BFG SILVERTOWN has a radical new tread design—with up to twice as much rubber as other major-brand, first-line tires in the outside edges of the tread. That's where today's tires work most, wear most. It's The Big Edge—and a big edge in safety and mileage for you!
MILES AHEAD IN MILEAGE AND SAFETY! The amazing glass highway, shown in the small photograph above, was built by B.F.Goodrich to study tire wear under actual driving conditions. Pictures shot from beneath this highway—like the larger photo above of a turning tire—let you see the severe distortion that takes place in the outside edges of the tread. Notice how little action there is in the center ribs. Thousands of pictures taken show the outside edges work most and wear most, whether you're turning a corner, driving on the highway, passing or stopping. That's vitally important to every driver who's looking for the most tire for his money. Of all the major-brand, first-line tires, only B.F.Goodrich Silvertowns have extra rubber in the outside edges. Up to twice as much rubber as the others! That's The Big Edge—and it means a big edge in mileage and safety for you!
DON'T BUY ANY TIRE UNTIL YOU SEE THE BIG EDGE DEMONSTRATION AT YOUR B.F.GOODRICH DEALER'S. Ask your BFG dealer to show you the revealing glass highway photos. Compare the Silvertown Big Edge tread with any other tire at the same price. See why it's miles ahead of other tires!

Don Hoak Now Believes Reds Will Win Pennant

Formerly Thought Hurlers Would Fold Pirate Star Says

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Pittsburgh Pirate third baseman Don Hoak made amends to Cincinnati fans Wednesday by predicting the Reds will win the national League pennant and then beat the Yankees in the World Series.

"I said in June the Reds could not win the pennant because I thought we were," Hoak said at a Gus Fan luncheon.

"But anyone who thinks Cincinnati will not win must show me the color of their eyes."

Hoak aroused the ire of Cincinnati fans two months ago when he said the Reds could not win. He added that young Red pitchers would find it harder to pitch in hot weather than in cold temperatures.

His remarks touched off jeers every time he came to the plate at Crosley Field. The fiery Hoak said he played two seasons with the Reds and knew how the extreme hot weather in Cincinnati could affect the pitchers.

"I think it would be great baseball if the Reds would win," Hoak said. "I wish the best of luck to Freddy Hutchinson and his coaching crew."

Hutchinson paid tribute to pitching Coach Jim Turner for the Cincinnati success.

"Jim refuses to take credit but he has handled the young pitchers well and is instrumental in getting the best out of them," the Reds' manager said.

"We still have six games with Pittsburgh. Two with Chicago which is our nemesis and six with Philadelphia, Hutchinson said. "We have a 16-0 record against the Phils this year and I just hope the law of averages doesn't catch up. It might be noted that most of our victories against the Phils came in the late innings."

Signs With Rangers

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Rangers announced Wednesday that Jerry Walker, the highest goal scorer in Denver Universitys' history, has accepted an invitation to report to their training camp at Guelph, Ont., on Sept. 11. General manager Muzz Patrick said Walker "on his record, must be rated a good pro prospect." A left winger, he scored 56 goals in 32 games last year. He is 22, stands 5-11 and weighs 170 pounds.

Spahn Nearing 20 Victories

Lefty Spurts In 2nd Half Of Season

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—When Warren Spahn won only nine of his first 21 decisions this season, skeptics wondered whether the "f" in forty — the Milwaukee pitcher's age—also stood for finished.

Finished, that is, in Spahn's efforts to match Christy Mathewson's National League record of winning 20 or more games for 13 seasons. Very few pitchers of the past could generate winning years, let alone turn in 20 triumphs after age 40.

They reckoned not, however, with Spahn's peculiar pitching behavior ever since he came to Milwaukee with the Braves in 1953. For some strange reason, Spahn's season's with Milwaukee fall into two halves. With two exceptions, his last nine years have resulted in mediocre performances up to the All-Star break in July and spectacular success in the second half.

In the first half of the nine seasons, Spahn has won 77 and lost 67, a good enough record but not anywhere near his 105-36 record in the last half of those nine seasons.

Since this year's first All-Star game on July 11, Spahn has won eight of nine, including the last seven in succession.

Mounties Knot Bi-State Series With 10-9 Win

The Frostburg Mounties outlasted Lonaconing yesterday to deadlock their final series in the Bi-State Pony League with a 10-9 triumph at Frostburg.

The win evened the best-of-three playoffs for the loop championship for Frostburg who lost the opener on Monday, 2-1.

A five-run outburst in the fifth overcame an 8-5 Lonaconing lead and gave the Mounties a lead they didn't relinquish. Bill Bevans was the losing pitcher in relief while Bob Seibert copped the win, also in relief.

Dennis Shockey and Dennis Bartlett hit home runs in a losing cause for Lonaconing while Fred Metz had a triple and three singles and Bevans a double and a pair of singles in the 14-hit attack. Ernie Drew hit for the circuit and added a double while Butch Cutter doubled and singled for Frostburg.

The third game of the series has tentatively been scheduled for 5:30 p.m. at Lonaconing, but efforts are being made to play the game on Saturday. The results:

Lonaconing	042 021 0	9	1
Mounties	203 050 x	10	2

Dennis Shockey, Bill Bevans (5) and Bill Bevans, Fred Metz (5). Wayne Miller, Bob Seifert (3), Nick Edwards (6) and Ernie Drew.

Winner—Seibert. Loser—Bevans.

Three Moslems Slain In New Oran Rioting

ORAN, Algiera (UPI) — Mobs of European youths swarmed through the streets of Oran Wednesday, killing and wounding Moslems in the second riot here this week.

As night fell and police forced an uneasy calm on this port city, at least three Moslems were reported killed and 25 other persons — mostly Moslems — injured.

The two-hour riot began after the Secret Army Organization (OAS), an outlawed rightwing extremist group sworn to keep Algeria French, called for a European general strike.

Today Is Last For Discount On County Taxes

Allegany County Tax Collector William B. Orndorff yesterday issued a final reminder to county taxpayers that today is the last in which they may obtain a three per cent discount on county and special taxing area taxes.

So far during August some $110,042.19 in county, state and special taxing area taxes has been collected. The office in the Court House will be open from 8:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. today. However, mailed returns postmarked before midnight tonight also will be entitled to the three per cent discount on county and special area taxes.

During September, for the first time, taxpayers will simply pay the gross amount. They will get neither discount nor penalty. In previous years, a penalty of one-half per cent was charged on county and special taxing area taxes. Under legislation approved last winter, the pattern was changed to coincide with state real estate taxes. Interest is not charged on them until October and from then on the rate is one-half per cent per month.

Most county taxes are paid in June when a five per cent discount is allowed. In July the discount is four per cent and then drops to three per cent in August.

4-H Project Record Books Are Needed

Assistant County Agent James B. Arnold yesterday issued a reminder that all boys 4-H Club members must turn in their project record books on or before next Tuesday, September 5.

They should be submitted to his office at the Court House.

Giants Defeat Milwaukee, 2-1; Regain Third

Snap Losing Skein Behind McCormick

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The San Francisco Giants snapped a five-game losing streak and regained third place from Milwaukee by defeating the Braves 2-1 Wednesday as southpaw Mike McCormick, with help from Stu Miller, edged Carl Willey in a pitching duel.

The victory moved the Giants to within seven games of league-leading Cincinnati pending the outcome of the Reds' night game with Pittsburgh. The Braves dropped a half game behind San Francisco.

The Giants collected only four hits but put together two of them for all the runs McCormick needed in earning his 11th victory against 13 losses. The 22-year-old left-hander struck out six and walked four before being relieved by Miller in the ninth.

With Hank Aaron on first as the result of a walk by McCormick, Miller got Joe Adcock to hit back to the mound for the start of a double play. Frank Thomas and Joe Torre followed with singles but Miller bore down and retired pinch-hitter Neil Chrisley for the final out.

Vets Even Rocking Chair Series With Caseys, 7-2

Play Third Game At Stitcher Field Today At 6 P.M.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars exploded for half their 12 hits and four runs in the first inning against Al Sheetz and went on to defeat the Knights of Columbus, 7-2, at Stitcher Field yesterday to even their championship series at a game apiece in the Rocking Chair Softball League.

Jack Eckard and Charley Day combined to hold the Caseys, who won the opener yesterday, 1-0, to six hits with Eckard picking up his 10th win of the campaign. Sheetz suffered his sixth setback in 18 decisions.

With one out in the first Pete Elliott started the ball rolling for the Vets with a double. Jimmy Eckard singled Elliott home with the first run and one-base knocks by Vern Penner and Ronnie Cage plated another tally. George McGregor then singled to load the bases and George Stevenson worked Sheetz for a walk to force in a run. Sam Brady's single then scored the fourth run of the inning.

Elliott collected a single in addtion to his two-bagger and Stevenson belted a triple. Brady and Jim Eckard each had two singles for the winners.

Bink King's double was the only extra base hit for K. of C. which had six scattered blows, no more than one in an inning. The results:

K. of C.	010	000	1	2	6	2

Jack Eckard, Charles Day (6) and Sam Brady. Al Sheetz and Donnie Farrell. Winner—Jack Eckard.

Wiley Ford Cops Rec Loop Playoff, 10-5

Opens Finals With Old Gees On Friday

Wiley Ford's American Division champions advanced into the finals in the Rec Softball League playoffs yesterday by downing Bennett's Transfer, 10-5, in the third and deciding game of their semi-final series at Post field.

Bill Kenney chalked up his 19th pitching triumph of the season with a six-hitter and was in trouble only in the sixth inning when Bennett's scored four of their five runs.

Wiley Ford hopped on Gene Hess, who shut them out in the second game of the series, for 12 hits and scored in all but two frames to move into the best-of-three finals with the Old Germans.

The championship series will get underway on Friday at 6 o'clock at Naval Reserve field. The second and third games also are slated at Naval Reserve on Tuesday and Thursday of next week.

Kenney struck out seven in going the route for Wiley Ford. He was touched for a pair of doubles by Jake Frost who was the only Bennett's batter to get more than one hit.

The winners' assault at the plate included a triple and double by Kenney, a double and single by Ellsworth Lambert and three singles by Jim Leamon. The results:

Wiley Ford	113	020	0	10	12	0

Market Rises After Auto Strike Deadline Extended

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market responded with a broad advance Wednesday to news that the auto strike deadline had been postponed until after Labor Day.

The feeling was that the postponement has increased heavily the chance of a settlement, and investors bid up prices steadily from mid-morning to a peak in the last half hour. Activity, however, failed to rise substantially with prices, amounting to 3,220,000 shares against 3,160,000 on Tuesday.

Rails were especially strong on news that the Interstate Commerce Commission recommended federal subsidies to keep passenger service alive. Motors, drugs and a wide variety of popular favorites also had strong gains. Aircrafts and national defense issues continued easy as work proceeded on negotiations to settle the Berlin problem.

Steel shares failed to set a conclusive trend as the Kennedy administration was reported to be mounting pressure on the companies to avoid a metal price hike this fall when new wage increases go into effect.

The Dow-Jones industrial average gained 2.75 to 716.90, rails rose a large 1.78 to 144.40 for one of their best days of the year and utilities added 0.71 to 120.71. Standard & Poor's index of 500 stocks rose 26 cents.

The market also expanded to include 1,256 issues of which 599 advanced and 465 declined. New highs amounted to 36, or three times the number of new lows.

Cards of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved daughter and sister, Mrs. Virginia Grimes. We especially thank the pallbearers, those who sent floral tributes, those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral and all others who in any manner rendered assistance. To all, we are indeed grateful.

MRS. ELEANOR BOYLAND AND FAMILY

Md. Teachers May Be Hired For 12 Months

Survey Is Ordered To Develop Idea

By MARTY SUTPHIN

BALTIMORE (AP)—Should public school teachers be hired for 12 months instead of 9?

How much would it cost? What summer assignments could they perform?

The State Board of Education Wednesday named a Washington County educator to spend a year answering these and other questions about "more complete utilization" of teacher talent.

The assignment went to T. Wilson Cahall, an administrative assistant who coordinated the pioneer educational TV setup in Washington County.

Project Under Study

Cahall will start on the project Sept. 1 under a $15,000 grant from the Ford Foundation. The money comes from the foundation's Fund for the advancement of Education.

Cahall already has started a similar project on the county level. On the basis of his statewide study, Maryland educators may ask the foundation for more money next year for pilot projects to test the ideas Cahall develops.

The $15,000 will pay Chall's salary and expenses for one year. He will be on a leave of absence from his county duties.

Summer assignments for teachers might include instructing driver education classes or conducting special studies.

Cahall will also investigate the development of instructional materials and teacher improvement programs.

Other Board Action

In other action, the board approved part of its budget requests for next year and set Sept. 22 for hearings on behalf of two Negro children denied admission to public schools in Howard and Prince Georges counties.

Both appeals for hearings came from an attorney for the National Association for Advancement of Colored People. One claims 12-year-old Conchita M. King of Simpsonville was not allowed to transfer to Ellicott City Junior High School. The other said Gregory Lomax, 7, of College Park was denied admission to the Seat Pleasant School.

The NAACP claims the county school superintendent's action in each case was "based solely on race and color."

The budget requests approved were for headquarters expenses, vocational rehabilitation and the five State teacher colleges.

The educators want $9,784,247 in those three categories, a $2,495,642 increase over the current allotment.

This is less than one-tenth the department's total budget. The big portion is in aid to local school systems, and that can't be figured until schools open and the students and teachers are counted.

Budget Requests Approved

The budget requests approved Wednesday are about the same as were submitted last year and were chopped by Gov. Tawes and his budget advisors.

The new request for operation of headquarters is $1,179,221, a total of $182,391 more than the current figure. This request includes a boost in salary for the superintendent of schools, Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, from $20,000 to $25,000 a year. Similar requests have been turned down for eight years.

A total of $6,450,226 is being asked for operation of the teacher colleges. This is an increase of $1,560,936.

Part of the additional money would provide 69 new instructors and raise the salary scale at the colleges to the level at the University of Maryland.

Dr. William Sartorius, assistant schools superintendent, estimated it would cost about $110,000 a year to raise the college teachers scale ($3,850-$8,470) to the university level ($5,000-$12,500).

The new instructors would provide a ratio of one faculty member to 16.5 students.

An additional 52 non-professional personnel were requested. The board said they are needed because of new buildings and for unmet needs not allowed in previous budgets.

The breakdown in requests for professional staffers was 32 for Towson, 22 for Frostburg, 6 each for Salisbury and Coppin and 3 for Bowie.

Fence Barriers Might Prevent Truck Tragedy

Arresting gear similar to that used to stop planes after they land on aircraft carriers might be the answer to the runaway truck problem on hilly Western Maryland highways, two development engineers said here yesterday.

William D. Van Zelm and Gordon R. Sinclair of Van Zelm Associates, Inc., of Baltimore, said barriers now in the development stage might be able to stop out-of-control trucks before they can pile up at the bottom of slopes, perhaps with fatal results.

The engineers spoke and showed a film to a group of State Police officials and newsmen yesterday afternoon at the LaVale State Police barracks.

The film showed cars ramming into an experimental barrier at speeds up to 83 mph, dragging the barrier a hundred feet or so and then stopping without serious damage.

Mr. Van Zelm said the films were made at the company's testing grounds at Harbor Field, Baltimore.

He explained that the barrier, made of inexpensive chain link fencing, is held at either end by tapes of ordinary strap iron, also inexpensive. The strap iron is coiled inside two fixed elements at the ends of the movable barrier.

When a vehicle rams into the barrier, it carries the fence forward, unwinding the tapes through a series of simple steel rollers which force them to bend out of shape.

The work done in bending the iron tapes uses up the energy of the car's forward motion and brings it quickly to a halt.

No such equipment has been developed for trucks, but Mr. Van Zelm said he saw no reason why it couldn't be built — except that it's expensive to do such experiments with big trucks.

Mr. Van Zelm and Mr. Sinclair visited Backbone and Big Savage mountains later to look at spots where several accidents, some of them fatal, have occurred after big trucks lost their brakes and ran out of control.

They felt that series of barriers using their principle could be built on runaway lanes at the edge of the road. The driver of a runaway would wheel his rig onto the runaway lane and into the barriers. The truck would slam through the first barrier, slowing somewhat in the process, then drift for a distance before striking a second barrier, and so on until it stopped.

Amcelle Worker Suffers Burns In Accident

A 50-year-old Lonaconing man was admitted to Memorial Hospital with first and second degree burns received in a flash fire last night at the Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company.

Lawrence McKenzie was reported in "satisfactory" condition last night by hospital attendants who said the injured worker sustained burns about the head, face, neck and arms.

A company spokesman said Mr. McKenzie was burned when a spark apparently ignited some waste yarn on a part of a machine he was cleaning.

Mr. McKenzie was working in the Extrusion Department when the accident occurred. No other damage was caused when the waste yarn caught fire, the company said.

Law Requires 'Tree Experts' Have Licenses

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—An official of the Department of Forests and Parks said Wednesday a law passed by the last session of the General Assembly requires all persons engaged in tree trimming or cutting to be registered with the state agency.

David Prince, tree supervisor for the department, said the agency is currently accepting applications and will schedule an examination at a later date.

Prince said persons engaged in "tree expert" activity could obtain a certification from the forestry department, but were not required to do so under the old law.

Prince said there are currently some 30 certified "tree experts" in Maryland.

The new law, Prince said, requires licenses of all persons engaged in the "tree expert" trade. The law provides for an initial fee of $15 and a $5 fee for re-examination.

The new law also gives the Forests and Parks Commission the right to specify the proper amounts of liability and property damage insurance that should be carried by each licensee.

Golden Gifts Kicks Off With $50,000 Pledged

CUF Goal This Year Set At $122,000

The Fifth Birthday Campaign of County United Fund is headed for success, Walter E. Dyck and William H. Oburn, co-chairmen of the CUF Golden Gifts Division said last night following the division kickoff meeting at the Cumberland Country Club, where GG team captains and workers pledged more than $50,000 toward their goal of $122,000.

The Golden Gifts kickoff is always a tipoff to the success of a CUF campaign, the co-chairmen stated, and last night's response, representing more than a third of the GG total goal, as well as a large piece of the 1961 total goal of $361,231, indicates that the big givers' organization will repeat its successes of the last four years.

Duard H. Little, general chairman of the 1961 campaign, told the assembled workers: "CUF has always been successful—due to the support of the general public. But we cannot be complacent now. There's no question that we will be successful with the same dedication to our purpose that we have had in the past."

Mr. Dyck introduced key cases — gifts to all GG contributors from the Hercules Powder Company, which Mr. Little represents here as plant manager of Allegany Ballistics Laboratory. The practice of presenting such gifts was started two years ago by George B. Newman, president of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, when he was general campaign chairman, and was continued last year by William E. Crooks, manager of the Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company when he held the top campaign post.

Winfield H. Adam, executive director of CUF, gave a short training session for the GG workers and showed a film featuring the top fund-raiser of the Detroit area, where the United Fund idea of "giving the giver a break" originated. Adam also paid tribute to Oburn and Dyck as dedicated leaders in past United Fund campaigns.

Rev. Maurice D. Robertson, pastor of First Presbyterian Church here, gave an inspirational talk on the value of United giving. He pointed up the need for every man's being his brother's keeper, and thus avoiding, through private charities, the threat of higher taxes for welfare purposes.

"Americans believe that they are their brothers' keepers," he said, "and that is why United Funds have been so successful.

"Put your neighbor first," he urged, "ahead of business and personal considerations; that is the way to successful living. Remember, the only thing you take with you out of this life is what you have given away to others."

Golden Gifts team captains and their workers, not all of whom were able to be present last night, include R. J. Cannon: Garland Johnston, W. Eric Gibbs, H. Lee Silcox; Dyck: John J. Coyle, Robert Little Ebert, John F. Workmeister; Robert C. Perry: Kenton B. Farrell, Robert Garner, Arthur German, Joseph Gratton, Wally Hankins; Charles E. Stutzman: William M. Craze, Joseph E. Discuss Parking

William G. Barr, center, a Washington parking specialist, talks with Harry Kauffman, left, chairman of the parking committee of the Retail Merchants Association, and Police Commissioner Phillmore F. Fleming at a meeting last night at Central YMCA. Mr. Barr made several suggestions about improving downtown parking and traffic conditions.

Traffic First, Then Parking, Says Expert

Before Cumberland's parking problem is solved, traffic must be taken care of, said William G. Barr, parking expert, addressing a meeting cosponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and its Retail Merchants Association last evening at YMCA.

Mr. Barr, executive director of the National Parking Association, said no one can make any estimate of what the city can do for parking until it uses economically what is already has.

He suggested that all meters on North Mechanic and Liberty streets be removed to open up traffic, and advanced a parking validation plan in which downtown stores would validate tickets to give free parking to their customers.

Mr. Barr said that while planning is fine, people can be "planned to death" if plans are not carried out.

Another suggestion he made was to take immediate steps to open George Street from Frederick to Bedford Street.

He also reiterated the idea suggested by another planner for downtown stores to fix up and open rear doors of their stores to parking lots in areas behind the stores.

C. M. Sanner, president of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, presided at the meeting.

Potomac River Board Meets At Colonial Beach

The area served by the Potomac River and its tributaries covers some 60 counties in four states and the District of Columbia.

That wide area is emphasized by the widely divergent points where meetings of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin are held. For instance, the fall meeting will be held at the New Atlanta Hotel in Colonial Beach, Va., September 21 and 22. That's some 185 miles southeast of Cumberland.

The spring meeting in May was at Moorefield, W. Va., just 47 miles south of Cumberland.

"Water Management in the Potomac Estuary" will be the theme and the meeting will concern itself with the development and conservation of the resources of the tidewater Potomac region.

A highlight of the opening day program will be a banquet at 7:15 p. m. September 21 at which the principal speakers will be Monroe Bush of the Old Dominion Foundation and James L. Kunen of the Meyer Foundation.

Program Listed

The meeting will open at 9 a. m. with remarks from David V. Auld of Washington, chairman of the Potomac River commission. A welcome to Colonial Beach will be extended by Walther Fidler, a member of the Virginia House of Delegates.

William Colony of the U. S. Public Health Service will discuss the Wolman Report and the Upper Estuary in a talk scheduled for 9:30 a. m.

"Water Quality In The Tidal Potomac" will be the subject of remarks starting at 10:15 a. m. by Norman Jackson, D. C. Department of Sanitary Engineering, and W. McLean Bingley, Maryland Department of Health.

Welfare Aide Course Set By Red Cross

Allegany Chapter, American Red Cross is planning a social welfare aide course for volunteers according to Mrs. Sara Lindsay, executive secretary. It will be the first in a series of training courses to be offered by the local unit.

A five-day course, it will be held September 26, 27, 28 and October 5, 6. Classes will be conducted from 9:30 a. m. until noon and from 1 until 3:30 p. m. This will be the first time a class of this type has been conducted by the Allegany Chapter.

Miss Violet A. Babcock, home service representative from the Red Cross area office in Alexandria, will be instructor. She is well qualified, having served in this capacity for a number of years in the States and overseas, Mrs. Lindsay said.

Mrs. Marian Barkman, home service secretary of Allegany Chapter, working on a part-time basis since November, is organizing a home service department here. It will consist of a committee who will assist in determining procedures and policies under the board of directors. The training program for social welfare aides is a phase in developing this program.

These aides, when trained may assist with the home service program, which provides service to men of the armed forces, veterans and their dependants.

This is one of the mandatory services of Red Cross and it must be performed in accordance with a policy established between National Red Cross and the government. Preparation of the program is in response to the recent order of President Kennedy, calling for an increase in armed forces which will bring an increase in the work of Red Cross chapters.

Duties of the social welfare aides vary greatly according to the need. They may include interviewing, counseling, obtaining necessary records and information, assistance in keeping records and compiling reports in relation to their work.

Prior training or experience in social welfare work is helpful but not essential. Interested persons may contact the Red Cross office, Post Office building, for an application. Deadline for applications will be September 18.

Cranberry Cubes For Barbecued Chicken

There are three new ways to add cranberry sauce to Chicken-Barbecue menus. One's a ruby red Frozen Cranberry Cube relish that's made in an ice tray. Another is a party-pink frozen Cranberry Cream that can be made the same way. And there's a gelatin salad that can be chilled in an 8 by 8" cake pan until jelled to cut into squares at serving time.

Plan to serve one of these FROZEN CRANBERRY CUBES or CRANBERRY SALAD SQUARES on your next Barbecued Chicken Menu. Takes only minutes to get them into the refrigerator to freeze or chill.

FROZEN CRANBERRY SQUARES

1 lb. can Jellied Cranberry Sauce
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Beat jellied cranberry sauce with rotary beater until smooth and saucy. Stir in lemon juice. Pour into ice cube tray. Place ice cube insert as if to make ice cubes. Freeze until firm. Remove just before serving. Serve frozen cubes on lettuce leaves. Makes 6 servings.

FROZEN CRANBERRY CREAM CUBES

1 lb. can Whole Cranberry Sauce
½ pint sour cream
3 tablespoons extra-strong horseradish
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Combine ingredients. Pour into ice cube tray. Insert ice cube divider. Freeze until firm. Remove just before serving. Serve cubes of Frozen Cranberry Cream on lettuce leaves. Serves 6 to 8.

Here's a low calorie cranberry salad recipe for cool summertime eating.

CREAMY CRANBERRY SALAD

1 package cherry flavored gelatin
1 cup hot water
1 (1-lb.) can jelled cranberry sauce
½ cup buttermilk
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Let chill until partially thickened. Beat cranberry sauce with a rotary beater until smooth and saucy. Stir cranberry sauce, buttermilk, and lemon juice into gelatin mixture. Pour into a 1 quart mold and chill until firm. Unmold on lettuce. Makes 6 servings.

Try these easy-to-make cranberry dressings on summertime salads.

Cranberry Dressing

1 can (1-lb.) jellied cranberry sauce
5 tablespoons A-1 sauce
2 teaspoons lemon juice
¼ cup mayonnaise

Beat cranberry sauce until smooth. Stir in A-1 sauce, lemon juice and mayonnaise. Chill thoroughly and serve on lettuce wedges.

Dessert In The Hand

Purchase ice cream in round or rectangular pints. Keep frozen in dry ice until ready to serve. Then slice each pint into four servings and place between two large chocolate cookies. Serve as ice cream sandwiches. These can be made ahead and stored in a freezer until picnic time.

Want to know what kind of plug to put on an electric appliance so it will sell in Afghanistan? The U.S. Department of Commerce can tell you it had better be the round pin, two prong type. The information was rounded up in a survey of 67 countries made to help American exporters and tourists.

Easy Way To Brown Pot Roast

To sear a pot roast to brown crispness before braising, brush the meat all over with Spanish olive oil, place under broiler, turning until well-browned on all sides. The olive oil hastens browning, seals in juices. Transfer browned meat to large piece of heavy duty foil; scrape out all drippings from pan in which it browned and pour over meat. Seal foil securely. Place foil-wrapped pot roast in 275 degree oven; allow 1 hour to pound. Meat will be tender and succulent, gravy formed inside foil wrapping will be rich, flavorful.

Week's Food Economies

Summer brings quantities of produce to local markets. Thrifty shoppers take advantage of nearby foods when they are most abundant by using them often, says Virginia McLuckie, food economist in the Baltimore Office of the University of Maryland department of markets.

Personal inspection and selection of fruits bring greater satisfaction and economy. The rough handling of produce causes ultimate spoilage. Learn to handle vegetables and fruit easily.

Egg plant makes a good selection. Their high water content, and natural tenderness, allows for a very short cooking time. It can be served as baked, boiled, sauteed, stewed, or in the increasingly popular casserole dish. Egg plants make a substantial and economical meal when they are stuffed and baked. Choose egg plants that are firm and heavy to the touch and free of blemishes. The color should be a uniform dark purple.

Cabbage and corn remain on the best buy list. Check quality points for each as you make your selection. Tomatoes are at their peak and quality is very good. The flavor of field ripened tomatoes adds to every meal. If you can tomatoes now is the time to do so. The vitamin C content of field ripened tomatoes is higher.

Cucumbers and green peppers are the two salad vegetables of good value. Look for firm, straight, well shaped cucumbers with a good glossy green color.

The first of the season's new crop of sweet potatoes from the Eastern shore has reached the market. These are Nemagold potatoes.

Watermelon is low in cost and fine selection for a cool dessert. Cantaloupe is still in abundance and prices are most attractive. More peaches are on the market and the peak of the season will be within a week. If you plan to freeze peaches remember an anti-browning agent should be used.

Summer apples, particularly Rambos are suggested for cooking uses. Some damson plums are available.

Protein suggestions are turkey, fryer chicken, lamb, and crab meat.

Meat-Potatoburgers

½ cup sifted dried whole egg
½ cup water
1¼ pounds ground beef
½ pound ground pork
2½ cups finely chopped raw potatoes
1 cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon salt

Sauce:

2 tablespoons flour
2¾ cups tomato juice

Sprinkle dried egg over the water and beat to blend. Combine the egg, meat, potatoes, onion and salt. Form into patties. (Use about ½ cup mixture for each patty.) Place patties in heavy metal frying pan. Cover. Cook over medium heat for 10 minutes. Add sauce. Replace cover. Continue to cook for 25 minutes longer. Makes 12 patties.

To Make Sauce: Blend flour with ¾ cup tomato juice. Heat remaining tomato juice and add to the flour mixture. Cook until slightly thickened, stirring constantly.

Spinach au Vinaegrette

Cook washed spinach just 2 minutes in its own steam, drain thoroughly, chop with sharp knife. Cool to room temperature and serve dressed with Spanish olive oil, vinegar, salt and pepper, using approximately half the quantity of vinegar as olive oil Serve as a hot weather vegetable, or chill to serve as a salad.

Molasses, according to a beauty writer, could keep one's hair from turning gray. Might be just dandy for one's curly locks but it would sure be tough on hats!

Scrambled Eggs

For 2 Eggs

⅛ cup sifted dried whole egg
⅓ cup water
Few grains salt
3 tablespoons milk (or reconstituted dry milk)
1 teaspoon butter, margarine or bacon fat

For 6 Eggs

1 cup sifted dried whole egg
1 cup water
½ cup milk (or reconstituted dry milk)
1½ tablespoons butter, margarine or bacon fat

Sprinkle dried egg over the water and beat to blend. Add salt and milk and mix. Melt fat in an aluminum or heavy metal frying pan. Pour egg mixture into frying pan. Cook over low heat, stirring continuously until dry and crumbly. Do not cook more than 6 egg quantities at one time.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 23-year-old son ran off and married a girl who is 19. She acts like a 12-year-old and we want to know what to do about it.

Two months after the elopement we learned that she was five months pregnant. She refuses to wear a maternity dress "because they are ugly." Instead, she prefers shorts and blouses which she is bursting out of. Last Sunday they came for dinner at eight in the evening (three hours late) and she was eating a cone of cotton candy. She announced that she had so much fun at the amusement park, riding the loop-the-loop, roller-coaster and bump-the-auto. (She's now in her sixth month).

Our son thinks she is perfect. Is there anything we can do?

—O. and L.

DEAR O and L.: Since your son "thinks she is perfect" your advice would be unwelcome and useless.

Phone your daughter-in-law's doctor and ask him to please tell her that a pregnant woman should not be taking in the rides in an amusement park. And, incidentally, your son must be a moron to have allowed her to do it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am the mother of four young children and the wife of a very handsome man. All through our married life I've had the problem of women friends using me to get next to my husband.

I've always been able to handle the situation until recently. Now I am ashamed to say, the problem is a 15-year-old neighbor girl. She spends a lot of time in our home "visiting."

At first I thought she was just a kid when I saw her squeeze through the doorway to get past my husband, and then "accidentally" stumble into his arms, I decided I was being naive.

I told my husband I was going to have a talk with the girl and give her orders to stay away from our home. He says I would make a fool of myself. I have agreed to follow your advice.

—RED

DEAR RED: If you want to give this little snip the greatest compliment of her life, just let her know you consider her a threat to your marriage.

Your husband should not respond to this little tart's brazenness. He should tell her in a "fatherly-fashion" to behave like a young lady.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please print this. I know I am not alone.

I'm a widow in my early 40s. During the day I keep myself busy but the nights are awful. I have many married friends who invite me out but I feel like excess baggage.

I have the nagging fear that they ask me because they feel sorry for me and I can't bear it.

How does a respectable woman who is nice to look at, well-dressed, has money but hates to travel alone meet men who are in the same predicament? I need male companionship.

—MRS. LONESOME

DEAR MRS. LONESOME: You must be a new reader. I've said it dozens of times but I'll say it again for you. If you want to catch trout don't fish in the bathtub.

Join study groups, an adult education class, become active in volunteer work, or the political party of your choice. Involve yourself in civic projects. Work part time and become a part of the business world. In other words—go where the trout are, and good luck to you.

Are you going steady? Making plans? If so, send ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry—Is It Love Or Sex?" enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Measuring the total wholesale price per pound of 31 basic foods in general use, the index showed 7 advances, 9 declines and 15 prices unchanged from the previous week.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Rome, today, is as active and filled with motion picture activity as Hollywood was five years ago, Jeanne Crain told me. She is just back from Italy where she made two pictures, one for an Italian company, and the other "Pontius Pilate," for Irving Rapper. "I'm returning to Rome September 25th to star in 'With Iron and Fire' by Henry K Sienkiewicz, author of 'Quo Vadis'."

"You may be interested to know that young John Barrymore was in 'Pontius Pilate' with me and he's been signed for 'With Iron and Fire'," Jeanne went on. "Irving Rapper said that he was such an admirer of John Barrymore Sr., that he felt he wanted his son to preserve the name. John Jr., who had very bad publicity, conducted himself very well, was cooperative and turned in a good performance."

Jeanne said that her husband Paul Brinkman will join her in Rome as her mother is taking care of all the little Brinkmans.

Edgar Allen Poe's thrillers have done very well for James Nicholson and Samuel Arkoff. "The Pit and the Pendulum" out-grossed the "House of Usher," which was a smash hit. They've now been inspired to put a trio of Poe's stories on the screen, (something on the order of "The Quartet")—three stories combined in one movie.

Vincent Price, who starred in both "Pit" and the "House of Usher," will star in two of the trio to be made in Hollywood in November with Roger Corman directing and producing. The three stories chosen are "The Black Cat, "Cask of Amontillato," and "descent into the Maelstrom."

Montgomery Clift, now in St. Moritz where he's been vacationing, had dinner with the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, and the Duchess told Monty a rather amazing thing.

She said her story about her life and romance with the Duke (widely printed in this country) is up for movie sale. The British producers have asked that it not be sold to an American company. "But the British movie companies have made no offers," said the Duchess.

From St. Moritz, Monty goes to Munich to dub his own voice in German for "Judgement at Nuremburg." He will also start "Freud" there on September 11th.

I had never met Anthony George until Eddie Kafafian and Judy McHugh brought him to my house, and we went on to Donna Atwood and King Kennedy's delightful party.

I have watched young George in "Checkmate," I consider him a very good actor, and I heard from time to time he was being sought for a movie. He said it was true that he had a number of offers but that he was never free to accept them. He hopes that he will be able to be with Cary Grant in a comedy Cary is planning to make with Ingrid Bergman.

"Checkmate," this coming season, goes on Wednesday night instead of Saturday, and as was expected, the show has been renewed. I asked him about Sebastian Cabot and he said that Cabot, Doug McClure and he get along fine and there's never any thought of jealousy.

Socially speaking: The dinner Merle Oberon and Bruno Pagliai gave honoring Doris and Yul Brynner was a farewell to the Brynners who left Monday for Paris. "We stay in Paris briefly," Yul told me, "and then fly to the Argentines for 'Taras Bulba' for Harold Hecht."

Doris, who was born in the Argentines is very pleased at the idea of visiting her birthplace again. She is such a dear, and everyone who has met her, likes her so much.

Merle has a knack of getting congenial groups together, and her dinner was perfection both in the menu and her selection of guests. At dinner Laurence Harvey had everyone in stitches. He's a real raconteur. Jack Benny said he wanted to use some of Harvey's material on his show.

Audrey Hepburn leaves this week with her son to join Mel Ferrer who is in Belgrade, Yugoslavia directing "The Conqueror" for an Italian company.

Edie Goertz, in a pretty white gown, had a new hairdo which we all admired. General Garrity, and his attractive wife, were a pleasant addition to the movie group. He is stationed at Inglewood in charge of ballistic missiles, and looks so young, Greg Bautzer said he could qualify as a movie star. Jimmy McHugh, who took off for New York the next day, chatted with Mrs. Garrity, who is a movie fan if I ever saw one. Major Rogers, on the general's staff, enlivened the table with some very funny stories.

Kitty Leroy, who has her granddaughter Katerina, visiting her from Paris, plans to keep the little girl until she feels it's safe to travel. Katerina has been teaching grandpa Mervyn how to swim.

I am sorry summer is almost over—the girls all looked so pretty in their light dresses. Mary Benny wore a dream of a gown in white, Joan Cohn had a print in the new shade of pink. The Honorable Kate Smith, who marrives Ivan Moffatt September 26th, and Lee Anderson were in white. Kate

The bidding:

4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♥

A cooperative bit of defense was executed at only one table to defeat a routine game contract featured today from a recent national tournament. There were no reasonable variations in the bidding and the final contract of four spades was reached at every table.

West opened the king of hearts and declarer saw no risk in ducking one round. The suit was continued and taken by the ace. Declarer proceeded to mop up the black suits by playing three rounds of clubs. A low heart put West in and the compulsory lead of a diamond established the king of diamond's for South's 10th trick.

It seemed to most of the contestants that this was a very average result. Yet a marked deviation from the normal took place at one table where the contract was defeated. On the opening heart lead East signalled with the ten of hearts. It is conventionally accepted that in signalling from a sequence one parts with the highest card he can afford. So that when a player signals with a jack he presumably lacks the queen, and so on down the line. East's play of the ten, of course, announced possession of the nine. After holding the first trick, West continued with the queen and declarer won, but on the second round of trumps, West forseeing the danger of being locked in, unloaded the jack of hearts and declarer could not avoid the loss of three more tricks.

On th lead of the second trump, declarer realized that he had lost his chance to win the hand. He had hoped that spades would be 2-2.

Had he been able to divine in some mysterious way that West held a singleton trump he would play only one round and, after cashing three clubs, would get out with a heart. Failure to do so, however, can not properly be charged as an error.

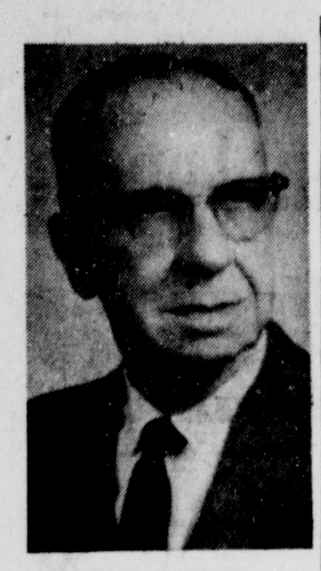
Clerk Ends Long Service With B&O Railroad Here



JACOB H. BROWN

After almost half a century of service, Jacob H. Brown, of 434 Williams Street, has retired from the B&O Railroad Company.

Since 1945 he had been chief clerk to the superintendent of the Bolt and Forge Shops.

A native of Lonaconing, he is a son of the late Casper J. and Jennie McKinley (Stuart) Brown and attended grade school there.

When a boy he worked about four years at the old Windsor Hotel before entering the service of the B&O on January 15, 1912, as a messenger. He attended the old Tri-State Business School and in 1913 became a stenographer for the railroad.

He was promoted to chief clerk at the Keyser shops in 1917 and in the same year was transferred to the Cumberland shops as assistant chief clerk. In 1925 he was named chief clerk at the Roundhouse here.

Brown was a member of the board of directors of the B&O YMCA and was recording secretary. He was also a committeeman for Troop 2, Boy Scouts, sponsored by the B&O YMCA. Brown was correspondent for the B&O magazine and was a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks.

He was a member of the Allegany County Republican State Central Committee for two four-year terms starting in 1942 and was a member of the Lonaconing Republican Club. Brown was also a member of Ohr Lodge 131, AF & AM and of St. Paul's Lutheran Church and of the Men's Club of the church.

He was honored at a testimonial dinner at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club by fellow workers and presented a number of gifts. R. J. Kompanek, superintendent of the Bolt and Forge Shops, was toastmaster.

City Explains Resurfacing On Sedgwick St.

Completion of the resurfacing of Sedgwick Street yesterday was in line with a recommendation by City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum, according to Street Commissioner John J. Long.

Residents of the street presented a petition in protest to the resurfacing about two weeks ago, asking that the work be delayed pending further study of the project.

Nuzum since that time has prepared a report explaining why he felt obligated to urge the resurfacing, with a copy of the report sent to Miles Snyder, who appeared before council as spokesman for residents of Sedgwick Street.

In presenting the petition, Snyder said the residents felt the present sewer lines were inadequate and would have to be replaced, and that it was understood gas lines under the street would have to be replaced.

Nuzum stated in his report that the sewer lines are adequate, but that a systematic method of root removal is needed for protection of the lines. He also said it is not contemplated that the gas lines are to be renewed.

The report to council also stated that in the event sewer lines must be replaced at some future date, the lines would be laid under the sidewalk at no cost to the property owners.

Work on the street started Monday following approval of the project by Commissioner Long.

Wins Money, Retires

LONDON (UPI) — A 60-year-old clerk retired five years early from his $27-a-week job Wednesday and went off to enjoy the $105,000 he won on football pools. Nelson (Sailor) Bagge was one of three co-holders of a ticket that won $316,131 on last week's pool. A 50-year-old woman, Violet Butler, won $270,413.

Massacre Reported

MANILA (AP) — The Manila Daily Mirror said a prosecuting attorney in central Luzon Island is investigating a report that 86 persons were killed in a 1948 massacre for refusing to support a political candidate.

State Police Plan Heavy Holiday Patrol

Troopers working out of the LaVale State Police Barracks will be out to extend their "perfect" Labor Day weekend driving record this year.

Lt. W. E. O'Hara, barracks commander, said that all leaves have been cancelled and the men will work around-the-clock during the long weekend beginning noon Friday and ending at 10 a. m. next Tuesday.

A quick check of records at the barracks reveals the last fatal accident over the Labor Day weekend was in 1957 when Harold Emerick, 47, Ellerslie, was killed in a pedestrian accident. Emerick was working on a car in the basement of the Corriganville Fire Hall when a vehicle ran into him, crushing him against a wall.

The years 1958, 1959 and 1960 were free of fatal accidents, and even the minor "fender-bender" mishaps were kept to a minimum, Lt. O'Hara said.

Lt. O'Hara warned that with the Labor Day holiday many citizens take that last weekend summer vacation, jamming the streets and highways with automobiles.

The possibilities of traffic accidents are far greater over long weekends, thus Lt. O'Hara urges all motorists to expect every effort to drive and walk with extreme care.

The barracks commander observed that one of the major causes of accidents over holidays is fatigue which is caused by drivers spending their time playing in the sun and fresh air, and when they become tired they cannot meet the constant changing traffic pattern involved in traveling considerable distances.

Lt. O'Hara observed that although all troopers in Allegany and Garrett counties will be patrolling the highways over the weekend, their presence serves to keep the traffic moving in an orderly fashion but does not guarantee the absence of accidents.

The one person who can contribute the most toward the prevention of accidents is the motor vehicle operator himself, Lt. O'Hara said.

"We can't stress too much the necessity for every motor vehicle operator to drive defensively," Lt. O'Hara stated. By this he means the drivers should adjust speed and distance to existing traffic conditions, and anticipate the actions of other drivers.

License Sale Report Made By Orndorff

The State Department of Motor Vehicles is being sent a final report on the sales of auto and truck tags by the office of William B. Orndorff, county tax collector.

Orndorff summarizes his report with the statement that the 15-cent fee charged for issuance of the tags is not sufficent to cover the cost and work involved.

A total of 25,294 sets of tags were sold by Orndorff's office and a total of $477,938 was received for them. The county and incorporated communities in Allegany County received a total of $187,747.50 from the state allocation of these tag fees.

Orndorff figured the total expenses in his office for the sale of tags was $11,847.26 and the 15-cent fee for each set of tags brought in only $3,794.10. Salaries of tax office employes and extra workers accounted for the bulk of the expense, Orndorff stated.

The state agency was also informed that the auto and truck tag sales occur at the time county is preparing its annual tax bills.

Collection Boxes For Parking Fines Not Favored By City

The possibility of installing collection boxes on the city's parking meters was discussed at a Police Department staff meeting yesterday, with the consensus being that the plan would be unworkable and not enforceable.

Police Commissioner Philmore F. Fleming said the department's supervisors were of the opinion that the boxes would provide too much of a temptation to certain elements in the city, and that the meters are spaced out over too great a territory to police properly.

The matter was brought up at Monday morning's council session, when it was stated that some people felt it was embarrassing to go to Police Headquarters to pay fines for over-parking.

In other subjects discussed, Police Chief B. F. Gaffney said a 7 to 10 a. m. parking ban on Park Street will be extended another block, effective immediately.

A number of residents of the street have written council complaining that parked cars have not permitted the street sweeper to do a good job on Park Street. The original 7 to 10 a. m. ban ran from Baltimore Street to Central, and is now extended a block to Emily Street, the chief said.

Under study, Chief Gaffney said, is inclusion of Harrison and Union streets under the same ban. This would run in each instance from the B&O Crossing to the upper portion of the two streets.

If the project proves satisfactory, Chief Gaffney said other streets running off Park will be added to the plan. Residents of several such streets have requested to be included in the program, it was stated.

The possibility of placing the entire route of Maryland Avenue under a one-side only parking restriction also came up for discussion. It was generally felt that this would be desirable, Commissioner Fleming said, but a further study will be made before any decision is reached.

The commissioner said the installation of safety and traffic islands at the intersection of Hilltop Drive, Louisiana Avenue and Williams Street likewise came under study at yesterday's staff conference.

The project was approved at Monday's council session, Commissioner Fleming said, adding that placement of the islands will await recommendation by City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum.

Fleming explained that the islands will have to be placed so that street cleaning by the city's snow removal equipment will not be interfered with. The grader used for this purpose has a 12-foot width, and this will have to be provided for, the commissioner explained.

It also was decided that the islands should be six inches in heighth, instead of the four-inch heighth that had been talked about earlier.

Installation of the islands is considered a "must" by police personnel, who point out their safety value for children who must traverse the dangerous intersection while going to and from school classes.

Guard your weight against gradual gain by counting calories every day!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Sensible Dieting Pays Beauty Dividends

Most people who gain too much weight do so not by gluttonous food orgies, but by consistenly eating just a bit more every day than they require. If you merely consume an extra 100 or so calories today, tomorrow and the next day, you may slowly add to your weight until you are from 10 to 20 pounds over your ideal within a year.

Have you already reached that problem stage? Don't succumb to a faddish diet that promises quick reducing. Your health may suffer, or your nerves become tense. Diet sensibly, losing a pound or two a week until you arrive at the proper scale reading.

To achieve your best weight for good health and long life is a simple process when you have a practical diet plan. Such a plan will not deprive you of things you like, or force your family to be inadequately nourished.

Count your calories! If you extend your quota at one meal, subtract calories at the next. Compensate for the three-inch wedge of apple pie that adds 300 calories to your lunch by omitting a slice of bread and one pat of butter at dinner, and by skipping dessert.

The menus in my booklet "Your Beauty Diet!" (to get a copy, send 10c and a stamped, return envelope to me, c/o this newspaper) make your diet fit easily into meal planning for the whole family. To gain weight, snack between meals. To reduce, eliminate certain foods entirely, halving the quantities of others.

There are other ways to cut down. Serve vegetables without butter or margarine, adding it at the table for those who need it. Separate one portion of salad for yourself before you add the dressing, or take out one boiled potato before you mash the rest with butter and milk.

Busy yourself between meals so you won't even be tempted to nibble. Plan menus so there is enough food for all, but not too much—you can accumulate plenty of calories just by finishing what the children didn't!

Hold yourself to 1200 calories per day when trying to lose weight. Or perhaps even work up to the 3200 calories prescribed by my diet experts for the want-to-gainer!

Steps To Isolation Of Free Berlin

While the Berlin crisis continues to boil away merrily, it seems appropriate to measure the extent of Khrushchev's gains. He has made gains, and he has made them without firing shots and in face of reinforced Allied garrisons in West Berlin.

Berlin was an escape hatch through which could pass the young and the disenchanted from East Germany. Doctors, chemists, farmers, nurses, mechanics, housewives and children — more than 2.5 million have slipped through the escape hatch since 1949. Now it has been slammed shut.

When these people came through, they were treated as Germans, which in fact they were. They spoke the language, and after a brief stay in a reception camp they were whisked away to a waiting job in an office or plant somewhere in booming West Germany.

This was important, but more important to West Berlin's repute as a glittering store window in a drab Communist world were the 150,000 East Germans who came into the Allied sections every day to work, shop and visit friends. They can no longer do so. Thus much of the meaning of West Berlin as an island in a Communist sea has gone. This is the measure of Khrushchev's success.

Having successfully isolated it in the east without even risking a shooting war, Khrushchev can now turn his attention to the systematic isolation of the city from the west. That is what he intends to try to do.

These Days

Hunter's Testimony

There will undoubtedly be a storm over the testimony of Edward Hunter before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee. Already Senators Keating and Dodd have protested the publication of Hunter's testimony, although they had a chance to read it.

I have known Edward Hunter during most of his life, much of which was spent in China. His integrity cannot be questioned. He has devoted his years to a study of psychological warfare and has made a specialty of the technique which he calls "brain-washing." This technique is used by the Russians and the Red Chinese as it was used by Hitler to predetermine human responses to propagandistic stimulii. For instance, the current universal slogan, "I'd rather be Red than dead," is a Communist brain-washing tactic. It is repeated in every country and becomes an answer to current political problems.

In his testimony before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, Hunter sought to prove that a powerful anti-anti-Communist movement was being developed. He states his case as follows:

"A quick, Red operation is being attempted, like that of a sleight-of-hand artist, to push this administration, the press, and public into a trap that would eliminate the anti-Communist program in the United States. We should know by now that this is the way Red strategy operates, as it did in the concluding period of World War II."

To prove his case, Edward Hunter has made a study of simultaneous articles and editorials in the non-Communist press which, so far as he is concerned, prove that the Communists have evolved a clever technique in the United States which, as I understand his testimony, seeks to establish that those who are not Communists, spread the Communist line. He cites this as an example:

"One of the most glaring examples of the double standard is in Red racism. The Reds use the term, racial liberation wars, in the native languages of Asia and Africa, and make no bones about it being a war against the white man, specifically the Western white man.

So-called liberals who fall into the trap of equating defense of freedom with racism, following the Red line, never raise a voice against the obvious racism engaged in by Communists."

Edward Hunter reaches this conclusion as to current Communist activities:

"One date should be kept in mind as a starting point of the new phase in 'psywar,' the new Red anti-anti-Communist drive, to differentiate it from the Red-manipulated, covert anti-anti-Communism we had heretofore. The former is outright Red-managed, part of disclosed policy of the Communist hierarchy, and immensely more aggressive. Something new has been added to the old, and it is direct action—demonstrations and riots, unbridled smears in the traditional Red manner, and what in practice amounts to an overt manipulation of non-Communist and even anti-Communist personalities and groups, in and out of government, for a basic Red objective, the liquidation of the growing anti-Communist grassroots movement in the United States."

After the defeat and death of Senator Joe McCarthy, the anti-Communist movement in the United States paled. Men and women were ashamed to be associated with McCarthyism.

Recently, a strong grassroots anti-Communist movement developed, particularly in the colleges and universities. This movement is a sincere response to political necessity. Such an organization as the Young Americans for Freedom or the Committee for a Responsible National Students Organization represents the best in American life and it is such efforts which the Communists now seek to kill off.

Hunter goes further than the politicians by mentioning names, citing articles and showing a correlation of ideas. If Hunter is wrong, those whom he accuses of being brainwashed should establish his error. As it stands, the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee's report stands as an indictment and it must be answered. It is not an indictment involving turpitude: it does involve soft-headedness, a failure to study the material that comes before us all.

It must be acknowledged that the United States has suffered from the effort to pooh-boo anti-Communism. That is one reason why we are now sending more troops into Berlin. Rather than ridicule Hunter, it would be wiser to study his testimony carefully.

Europeans Still Look To U. S. For Leadership

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Some impressions formed in Europe during nearly two months of observation there are presented here today. They are derived from many frank conversations with heads of government, foreign ministers and well-informed editors of important newspapers abroad.

There is, first of all, a high regard for the United States. Its prestige has never really been impaired, though disappointments in the postwar years have been noted and editorial criticism at times has been severe.

Basically the United States is looked to for leadership, which is somehow expected to be perfect in form and substance and method. The moment American policy seems at variance with what highly placed officials in other countries think it should be, they do not hesitate to express themselves about it. Too often the newspapers reflect this dissatisfaction, and the episodes then become magnified beyond their true importance.

There is, however, fundamentally a difference in viewpoint. European nations are struggling for economic equilibrium and ways and means of satisfying the pressures for more and more welfare programs for their growing populations. They are not as strong by any means as the United States, nor have they its potential resources. They have drifted into sheer dependence on America for military, if not economic, support.

As for a big war, it is feared but everyday life doesn't seem to be modified because of that fear. Normal processes of development continue, and officials, though worried, seem confident that war will be avoided.

If this correspondent brings back, however, one single impression about the whole situation, it is that America is not furnishing the leadership it should in the world today.

It's too bad that President Kennedy has not himself heretofore had the benefit of actual experience in international affairs. Two years from now he will be doing perhaps many of the things he ought to be doing today. For he will learn the hard way that trying to harmonize differences with the Western Allies is a frustrating task and results in the end in policies that represent a common denominator of weakness rather than strength.

President Wilson during World War I gave an example of leadership that might well be repeated today. He did not worry too much about what his allies said or thought about the large programs of policy that he believed should be formulated for the postwar years. He spoke out directly and forthrightly. He didn't feel that he had to consult allies on how each paragraph of his speeches or statements should be worded.

Today there is a conflict between materialism and idealism, between adherence to principle and a readiness to barter with the Communists — to buy peace at the expense of principle. The Western Allies are divided in their concepts of what ought to be done about East Germany, for instance, and are allowing themselves to be pushed around on the subject of human rights in East Germany as well as in East Berlin. The United States gives an impression of timidity in what is euphamistically described as caution and restraint. But it actually is furnishing to Khrushchev — as happened with Hitler — the feeling that the Western Alliance is not as strong as it is cracked up to be.

Outwardly, some lip service is being paid to the cause of reunification of Germany. But, under the surface, there is fear of such a contingency. Memories of the war have not vanished in Europe, though American policy toward Japan shows how wartime feeling can be superseded by a new sense of friendship for a former enemy.

The Bonn government is a free and democratic government. Like the Weimar Republic of the 1920's, it needs help and encouragement. West Germany needs to be reunited with East Germany. Otherwise, West Germany will be repossessed someday by the same kind of militaristic groups that gave Hitler his chance to rule.

Keeping Germany divided is dangerous to the peace of the world. President Kennedy should speak out in this cause, even if the Western Allies do not dare to do so publicly. They should already know the spirit of revenge that can be built up inside a defeated country. And they should know, too, that some strong voice of leadership must emerge today if the Berlin problem is to be put into its proper perspective.

Mr. Kennedy's plea for a reunified Germany would not be applauded publicly today by the heads of government in Western Europe nor by some of the politicians. Public opinion within their countries isn't ready for it. So American spokesmen must lead in this cause. It takes a rare courage to speak out and lay before the world the bases of an enduring peace and to strive to get world opinion behind such a program.

If the Weimer Republic had been supported in the 1920's by the West, with financial and economic programs, there wouldn't have been a Hitler or a second world war.

The Russian people don't want war, but they don't know that the way is being prepared for it by their own misguided rulers. They are not being told. The true voice of America that can help prevent a world war and insure peace has not yet been heard.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

AIR CONDITIONING — The White House air-conditioning system is being beefed up at a cost of $76,000, but not because White House's office space in the intervening years requires additional equipment to avoid overloading.

For some 35 years, the executive mansion's air-conditioning system, one of the pioneer systems anywhere, has been functioning satisfactorily. In fact, the 35-year-old equipment will continue to be used because, in the words of an official, it has stood up "amazingly well."

In the intervening years, air-conditioning has become a necessity throughout large parts of the country, but nowhere is it more necessary than in Washington's hot, muggy climate. At the time of the 1926 installation, however, the idea was considered a novelty, and was derided in some quarters as a wasteful expenditure.

No one would say that today, particularly if he has any knowledge about Washington's weather.

When the contract for the new air-conditioning system was announced the other day, a wag with his eye on foreign affairs observed that it was a good thing to try to keep the President cool these days. His remark had more reality than humor.

Fact is that in the White House, as well as throughout government offices in Washington, much manpower has been lost each summer when the oppressive heat forced officials to release employes from their jobs early.

In these times of crisis, when responsible officials sometimes have to work around the clock, air - conditioning in the White House and elsewhere has contributed greatly to more efficient work.

Khrushchev Believes United States And Russia Could Live In Peace

By Drew Pearson

GAGRI, Georgia, USSR — My interview with Premier Nikita Khrushchev at his summer vacation spot on the shore of the Black Sea covered almost every subject under the sun from dust storms, to the U-2, to the question of growing beans. But time after time the conversation came back to the question of whether the two most powerful nations in the world, the United States and Russia, could live in peace..

Premier Khrushchev's conclusion was that they could. And many times he expressed this hope. But he used some blunt Nikitaesque language in commenting on his Vienna talks with President Kennedy.

"I told President Kennedy,' he said, "the story of the man who used to boss his son. Then his son grew up, but the father didn't realize it and took him by the ear.

"'Look here, father,' said the son, 'I'm now grown up. I have children of my own. You can't treat me the way you used to.'

"It's the same way in international relations," Khrushchev said he told Kennedy. "We have now grown up."

"Mr. Kennedy told me, 'our forces are now equal. We can destroy each other.'

"'Yes, Mr. President,' I replied, 'I agree, though in my heart I feel that we are stronger. But I agree on the policy of equality. And on the basis of that reasonable policy let's remove what difficulties lie before us — first of all, Germany. That is the big problem. If we remove this, the rest will be easy.

"'There is of course Laos,' I told him. 'But it is not in Laos that there will be a great struggle between Communism and capitalism.

"'We regard the strength of the United States in a very serious light,' I told the president. 'I believe we are stronger. But if you impose on us, that will decide. But it will be a test that will be deplorable.'"

Red Soldiers Want To Serve

Turning from his talks with Kennedy, but still discussing the problem of war, Khrushchev said: "I am now facing a problem. By Fall one age group of our army is scheduled to be demobilized. But I have been receiving letters from many of these soldiers asking to remain in the army. They point out that they are the most experienced, and that if there is to be war, they want to stay in.

"I am having a struggle in my own mind as to what I should decide. I am leaning toward the idea of leaving them in until the Berlin crisis is over."

In his formal statement to me on Berlin, Khrushchev had said that certain leaders were engaging in "military hysteria in order to have a pretext to unleash war against the Soviet." When I asked him what he meant by this "military hysteria," he cited Kennedy's mobilization of military manpower, his increase in the military budget, and his orders for more bombers.

"These bombers are not toys," Khrushchev added.

"Then there is his sending of 1,500 more men to West Berlin," he said. "This is a clear threat. All these fan the military psychosis. We have to judge governments by their actions, and it is quite clear that the United States is now threatening us.

Allies Of U. S. Will Prevent War

"I would understand this if we were encroaching on the United States," Khrushchev continued. "But we are not demanding any territory. We have enough land of our own. We don't want any more. We have no claims upon anyone. We are only proposing that what's already come into being now be codified and that the last vestiges of World War II be removed. The borders of the two Germany's have now taken shape and we demand that they be codified."

Summing up his ideas on war, however, Mr. Khrushchev told me: "In my opinion there will be no war. I am basing this on the ordinary calculations of those who count their lives on adding machines.

"Why do I think that, despite all this, there will be no war?" he asked. "Because Chancellor Adenauer may turn out to be the best disciple of peace — and his defense minister, Strauss. Strauss knows what war would do to West Germany. So do your other allies — Premier Fanfani of Italy, whom I found to be a very reasonable man, and also de Gaulle and Macmillan.

"They will be the first to take the United States by the hand and tell you there must be no war over Berlin."

Khrushchev several times repeated his personal liking of Kennedy.

"He's a man you can disagree with and still like," he said. "But he backslid from the more reasonable position taken by President Eisenhower. He wanted to frighten us and he frightened himself instead."

(Editor's note: Tomorrow Pearson will report on some of the lighter moments in his talk with Khrushchev.)

Palais des Nations

GENEVA

The Palais des Nations, built originally as the seat of the League of Nations, and now the European headquarters of the United Nations, was the outgrowth of a competition among the world's architects. However, as has happened here so often, the nations could not agree on a winner. Consequently, five architects were awarded second place and the five collaborated on the present design, which, as a matter of fact, looks very much like a compromise.

This procedure is fairly typical of everything that has gone inside the palais every since. To this very day, no changes are made in the Palais des Nations without consulting the two surviving architects. Compromise is the spirit of Geneva, which has been called "the city of unsuccessful conferences." Famed as it is as the city of international agreements, it's very difficult to find anything permanent that has ever been accomplished here. Since the Japanese walked out of the League of Nations in 1933, the international failures have been far more spectacular and decisive than the international successes.

Even those conferences which ended happily such as the 1955 summit conference between Eisenhower and Khrushchev, which created "the spirit of Geneva,' have been very temporary blessings. Within a year of "the spirit of Geneva," Hungary exploded and Poland almost exploded. The Vietnam conference successfully partitioned French Indo-China into three nations, one of which, Laos, is now the subject of its own fourteen-nation conference. "These unsuccessful conferences are self-regenerating," one old Geneva hand observed cynically.

There are big conferences going on right now in the Palais des Nations, the nuclear test ban conference, the Laotian conference—both pretty badly bogged down—the Economic Commission for Europe which is getting a lot done, a Committee of Inquiry into the Death of Patrice Lumumba which is trying to decide whether to go to the Congo, and a conference on the economic and social consequences of disarmament which is in another special class. A Russian translator told me with a broad grin that all the conferees to the last one are in complete agreement about the economic and social consequences of disarmament.

"But what chance is there of getting disarmament in the first place?" I asked.

"That," he said, the grin getting broader, "we are not empowered to discuss."

The smaller the issue, the more gets done. On matters of postage stamps, or special committees on European traffic problems, or the international exchange of electricity, the work is done fairly swiftly. Even here the Russians cause trouble. International conferences on postal regulations can —and have— been held up for three days while the Russians complain because the Red Chinese are not included. A conference on women's rights recently agreed that female circumcision was deplorable. Of course, doing something about it is another matter. Female circumcision is deeply imbedded in the cultures of the Arabs and Africans and they're not likely to part with it that easily. Dope and prostitution are other matters on which the nations of the world can unite in deploring but have not yet begun to end.

I had a talk with Charles Baechtold, chief security officer and oldest employee in the Palais. Baechtold went to work for the League of Nations when it opened for business forty-one years ago and he's still here for the United Nations. "People were so nice to each other in those days," he said. "They disagreed — but politely." Still, breaches of decorum are almost non-existent. At the open session of the League, a Hungarian diplomat slapped a Hungarian journalist, Baechtold recalled. Nothing so discourteous, he said, has happened since.

The courtesy, even in the middle of hopeless disagreement, is a little overwhelming. I sat in on the Laotian conference for a while. The Russian delegate, Georgi M. Pushkin, interrupted proceedings to congratulate the British chief delegate, Malcolm MacDonald, who is the son of Ramsay MacDonald, on his sixtieth birthday, complimenting MacDonald on his "great wisdom, extreme courtesy, and extraordinary patience."

In reply, MacDonald declared: "Our proceedings have been a little protracted, but I am so very content to remain in this distinguished company that I'd be very happy to celebrate three or four more birthdays here." An hour later, the delegates were at each other's throats over the question of the withdrawal of military personnel, but for a minute or two the sun of international amity was blinding.

Sometimes the courtesies can be fairly edged. For instance, Semyon Tsarapkin, the chief Russian delegate to the nuclear test ban conference, once commented on a British statement. "You have made an extemporaneous statement. After you have had time to reflect, you will change your mind." The trouble with this Russian comment is that the British delegate had read his "extemporaneous" statement over which he had obviously slaved half the night. It was a very nice coup for the Russian since to be extremely courteous and wickedly cutting all at the same time is almost the pinnacle of diplomatic behavior.

Right now the world of diplomatic manners is being slightly ruffled by the table manners of the Red Chinese.. The Laotian conference has set up a lounge with great quantities of food and drink for delegates. The fourteen nations are dividing up the expense of the food and drink, the big nations paying twelve per cent, the little ones four per cent. However, the hungry Red Chinese are getting 65 per cent of the food and all of the tables. It's driving their Russian pals to drink. You find Russians in there at 10:30 in the morning drinking scotch and soda because they can't get anywhere near the food.

Avoid Eating Raw Or Undercooked Pork

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Most of us are familiar with the possibility of developing trichinosis from eating raw or underdone pork. A safe precaution is to avoid eating pink pork. It takes a temperature of 185 degree F. on the meat thermometer to kill the causative organisms.

Many of the epidemics of trichinosis of the last decade have been traced to eating sausage containing uncooked pork. The 1958 outbreak in Lykens, Pa., for example, was blamed on fresh sausage purchased from an unlicensed meat processor who added raw pork trimmings to his product.

It was impossible to trace the pork beyond this point because the dealer had purchased pork from four wholesale meat packers. Two of these firms maintained full time veterinary meat inspectors while the other two had no inspectors. Most of the packers purchased meat from local sources but all emphasized that no garbage fed hogs were bought.

These details are mentioned for several reasons. There is no way to tell, by looking at pork, whether it contains the pork worm larvas. This even applies to meat inspected by experts and is the main reason why no one should take a chance on eating pork that is not cooked thoroughly.

Freezing kills larvas in the meat fibers but this requires a temperature of 5 degrees F. for 20 days or 0 degrees F. for 24 hours. Smoking or pickling also kills the organisms. Licensed sausage makers know this and take the proper precautions before preparing their meat.

Pigs become infected by eating contaminated pork or the meat of other animals that act as reservoirs of the infection. This is why hogs no longer are fed garbage unless it is properly cooked for 30 minutes at 212 degrees F. This regulation has gone a long way toward eliminating this source of re-infection among pigs.

BELT OR SUSPENDERS

A. O. writes: Does wearing a belt instead of suspenders encourage heart ailments and high blood pressure.

REPLY

No. The closest we came to a disease associated with a tight binder was at the turn of the century when women wore tight corsets. The incidence of peptic ulcer among women was high at that time but nowadays it is unusual for them to develop ulcer.

ARTHRITIC TOES

A. S. writes: Could swollen toes be due to arthritis? I have the disease in my knees and shoulders and now the toes of my left foot have become puffy.

REPLY

Yes. Arthritis of the joints of the toes occurs in much the same way as in the joints of the fingers.

BITES TONGUE

C. R. writes: Once in a while I bite my tongue in my sleep. What is the most likely cause?

REPLY

Your teeth may be at fault; ask your dentist to check for malocclusion. Once in a while tongue biting at night is the only sign of epilepsy. The individual has a convulsion in his sleep and does not know it.

HEAT STRESS

T. B. writes: Is hot weather bad for people with high blood pressure?

REPLY

Yes, because the body has to work harder than usual to dissipate the heat. The strain is greatest on the heart and blood vessels.

ASCENDING PARALYSIS

T. T. writes: What is creeping paralysis?

REPLY

This is an unusual form of paralysis that begins in the legs and spreads rapidly to the trunk, arms, and head. There is no loss of sensation. Ascending paralysis is noted also in some instances of polio and rabies, and when there is too much potassium in the system.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A contributing cause to Hitler's rise in Germany in the early 30's was, of course, the increasing fogginess and senility of the octogenarian President, General Hindenburg. William Shirer reports that the first time he saw Nazi storm troopers parade in Berlin, Hindenburg remarked vaguely, "I didn't know we had taken so many Russian prisoners."

Another story current at the time was that the old general signed any paper that was put before him. An attendant discovered the oily paper in which his sandwich was wrapped in an anteroom of the Chancellery one morning. "Get rid of that paper fast," ordered his superior, "or old Hindenburg is likely to totter in and sign it!"

Ann Mobley bought a pair of expensive imported Italian shoes in a Fifth Avenue bootery recently. She knows they're the genuine article, too. They keep pinching her.

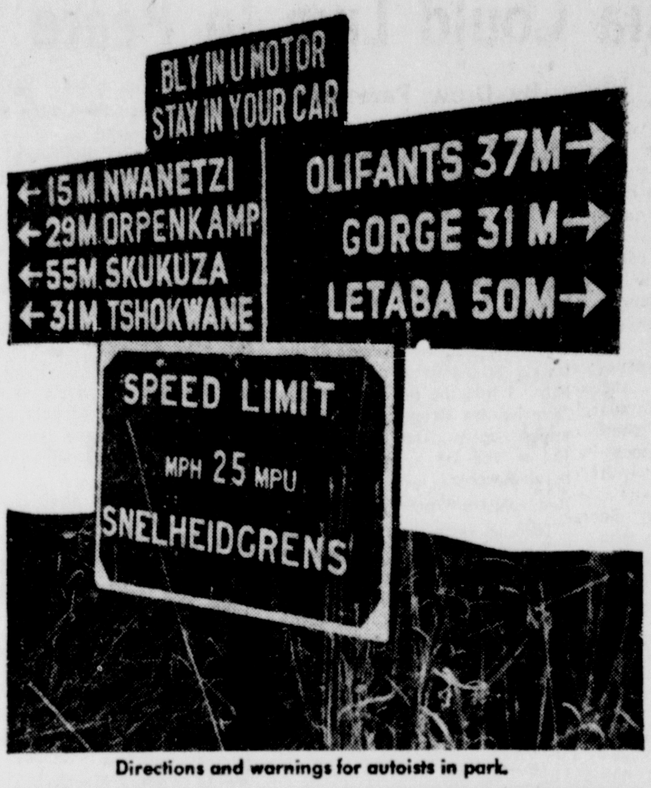
WILD ANIMAL PARK



Directions and warnings for autoists in park.

Monkeys climb car to get close look at visitors.

It's not a bad dream; it's reality. You're driving your car through African bush country. Suddenly, before you, looms an elephant, as big as a house, crossing the road in leisurely fashion. Nearby, the tall neck of a giraffe stretches over the underbrush. A zebra comes dashing up. You stop the car for a moment, and a monkey leaps onto the hood.

All this can happen when you tour South Africa's Kruger National Park, the largest wild game sanctuary in the world, nearly 8,000 square miles of virgin country roamed by thousands of lions, elephants, hippos, giraffes, zebras, monkeys and many different species of deer and antelope.

Wildlife has prospered in the park. During the past 50 years, the elephant herd has doubled, now numbering about 1,200. The ox-like antelope called the eland, near extinction in 1900, now numbers 400. And the same rate of increase holds true for most of the other animals.

To keep animals safely in the park, and poachers out, the park is building the longest fence in the world—600 miles of it. When finished, sometime in the fall, it will completely encircle the park.

Tourists are cautioned to stay in their cars, keep to the roads, and drive slowly. They're not allowed to carry firearms. At night, they retire to the safety of rest camps.

BIG THRILL. Bull elephant crosses road in front of automobile at Letaba, Kruger Park. Tourists travel road during daylight hours.

Two lions saunter down the road completely unconcerned about the cars that are following them.

A bull kudu, large African antelope, lifts his head to pose.

Deep in the bush, workmen erect fence which will completely encircle Kruger Park. When finished, fence will cover distance of 600 miles, making it world's longest.

Giraffes stop to refresh themselves at stream in park.

At rest camp, a couple dine inside a rondival, a furnished thatched roof cabin. This will be their home during stay in park.

CAMP NIGHT. Food sizzles on grill over barbecue pit while tourists wait to get their share. From the darkness beyond come the wild cries of the African night.

W. Va. Bricklayer Is Murder Victim

ST. ALBANS, W. Va. (UPI) — The body of an itinerant bricklayer was found along a road near here Wednesday. Police said the man, Wilmore P. Hamlet, 42, was an apparent murder victim.

Kanawha County Coroner Goff P. Lilly said his examination of the body indicated Hamlet had been beaten on the head and was unconscious when his throat was cut. He said either a knife or a hatchet apparently was used to cut Hamlet's throat.

Lilly also said there appeared "little doubt" the body had been pushed from a moving car. And he said Hamlet probably put up a fight before being killed. Hamlet's jaw was fractured and some of his fingers were broken.

The body was spotted along U. S. 60 by a motorist.

There are more than four million tractors in use on American farms.

A disease which only worms can get is being used by scientists to destroy cabbage loopers, pests which attack cabbage, cauliflower and broccoli. Two to five diseased worms can start an epidemic that will kill all the loopers on an acre of crops. The virus is harmless to man and other warm-blooded animals.

Pair Accused Of Bilking State Funds

Misappropriated $8,000 At Welch

WELCH, W. Va. (UPI) — The former financial secretary of Welch Emergency Hospital and a Welch businessman allegedly admitted Wednesday they bilked the state out of about $8,000 in cash.

State Police Sgt. E. C. Guthrie said the pair also admitted collaborating in a scheme in which plumbing supplies were bought in the name of the hospital for use in the private business of one of the suspects, Milton E. Hawes, 35, Welch.

The value of these supplies, and the amount of additional payments allegedly made to Hawes for work at the hospital but not carried out were not immediately disclosed.

Formally charged along with Hawes with two counts each of forgery was Lucille LaFon Fallin, 38, who had charge of much of the money affairs of the hospital for nine of the past 12 years. She was fired last April after Guthrie said a routine state audit disclosed discrepancies in the institution's books.

Guthrie said he joined the investigation in June with the McDowell County prosecutor's office. He said the alleged scheme of Mrs. Fallin and Dawes dated back to at least May, 1959.

Guthrie said Mrs. Fallin made out checks, ranging in amounts from $80 to $600, in the name of a nephew of Hawes. The nephew, who left the state some time ago, knew nothing about this, the sergeant said.

Guthrie said Hawes forged his nephew's name to the checks and then returned them to Mrs. Fallin for a second endorsement in her name, after which they were cashed.

He said certain supplies were bought from bonafide dealers in the name of the hospital but were used by Hawes in his private business.

Guthrie said the two had admitted 37 instances of check forgeries and five cases of buying supplies for the hospital and diverting them to Hawes' business.

MSP Report On Accidents

Maryland State Police working from the LaVale barracks handled a total of 42 highway accidents during June, according to Lt. W. E. O'Hara, commander.

Twenty of the mishaps occurred in Garrett County, while 22 were recorded in Allegany County.

Both counties were free of highway deaths. However, 18 persons were injured in the crashes, ten being hurt in Garrett County and eight in Allegany.

Lt. O'Hara noted that property damage was caused in 31 other accidents in the two counties.

In Allegany County, accidents were reported on U.S. Route 40, State Route 36 and U.S. Route 220, while Garrett's mishaps were reported on U.S. Route 40, State Route 135 and U.S. Route 219.

Lt. O'Hara listed the causes of mishaps as following too closely, speeding, failing to grant the right of way, improper passing, equipment violations, reckless driving and drunken driving.

AHS To Offer Rocketry Course

Prospective space scientists at Allegany High School will learn the fundamentals of rocketry through new instructional methods during the coming school year.

The new methods will be taught by Robert K. Mason, AHS instructor, who has completed a summer science institute on physics at Marshall University.

The new instruction idea, developed at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, allows the student to learn first by doing, and then discussing what has been discovered in the laboratory. Marshall University spokesmen said the teaching plan is relatively new throughout the country.

County Planner Due Tomorrow

C. Lee Renaud, who was appointed Allegany County planner several weeks ago by the County Planning and Zoning Commission, will arrive here Friday to begin his duties, according to Richard Winer, commission chairman.

Renaud, who has been located at North Madison, Onio, graduated from Iowa State University with a B. S. degree in landscape architecture. He also attended the University of Dayton for several years.

W. Va. Workers Earnings Increase

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — West Virginia's workers earned $181.2 million in July, slightly more than in July, 1960, the state Chamber of Commerce reported.

The chamber's report on business activity said, however, that the number of employed persons dropped by 22,200 from the figure of July a year ago.

Although only four of the chamber's 22 economic indicators improved from June to July this year, 14 of them topped July of a year ago.

Large Group W. Va. Draftees Start Basic

BECKLEY, W. Va. (UPI)—The largest single group of West Virginia draftees in eight years was sworn into the Army here Wednesday and prepared to head for basic training camps.

Forty-five young men from the Charleston area will take their training at Ft. Knox, Ky., or Ft. Jackson, S. C.

They got a sendoff from Gov. W. W. Barron and State Adj. Gen. Gene Hal Williams as they left Charleston. The two recalled how they had been in similar groups entering the service in the past—Barron in World War II and Williams in the Korean War.

Barron said he enjoyed his tour and was sure these new soldiers would, also. And he urged them to become self-appointed goodwill ambassadors for the state.

"Wherever you go, talk about our great state of West Virginia," he told them.

Hardy Co. Schools May Be First In W.Va. To Use TV Teaching In Classroom

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.—Hardy County will be the first in West Virginia to have instruction by television in the grade schools, according to the proposal by Stanley P. Hawse. Mr. Hawse attended a meeting at Madison College, Virginia with representatives from the Richmond Public School System, from 30 school systems in Virginia and representatives of WSVA-TV.

The programs will start Monday, October 2 at 10 a. m. with science for the sixth grade. This class will be conducted again on Thursdays. The second half of the hour will have music for the second grade.

On Tuesday at 10 a. m. science classes for the fifth grade will be held and again on Friday for the first half hour. On Tuesday the second half hour will be Current Events for Grades 6 and 7.

On Wednesday the first half hour will be art classes for Grades 5 and 6 with Music for third graders the second portion. Music for the fourth grade will be held the second portion on Thursday and on the second portion of Friday's classes, literature for second graders.

A staff of eight experienced and well trained teachers will do the instructing and manuals and lesson guides will be made available to teachers well in advance.

The cost for this high level new teaching medium is quite modest and amounts to only $1 per participating pupil for the science classes and 50 cents for music and art for an entire year. These costs will be paid by the parents to the Richmond Public School System. The only other cost will be the TV set to be purchased by the parents of school Parent-Teacher Association.

Mr. Hawse was enthusiastic about this high level program which provides a modern and most effective teaching tool which otherwise would be impossible in a rural county like Hardy. Mr. Hawse is experienced in the TV educational possibilities as he had charge of the highly successful program in Hagerstown, Md., in a closed circuit TV classroom teaching experiment.

Mr. Hawse pointed out that the TV classroom program does not replace the classroom teacher but helps immeasureably, with subjects in which the majority of teachers are not fully trained. The TV classroom programs are taught by the best teachers available, he said.

No funds are available from the Board of Education to assist the graded schools and the costs of the installation and purchase of a TV set will have to be arranged for at each school. Mr. Hawse explained, but the board will give every assistance possible within the budget. Teachers and parents at various schools are requested to try to arrange for the new teaching program as soon as possible and to advise the school board office.

W. Va. Enrolls Over 6,000 On Emergency Work Plan

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Welfare Department said Wednesday that at least 6,200 persons would be certified by Friday for work under the new federal-state program to provide jobs for the unemployed.

A spokesman said this more than ever had been on the payrolls of the former State Temporary Employment Program (STEP) or the Emergency Employment Program (EEP).

Director W. Bernard Smith also said the new cooperative program — under which the federal government foots 70 per cent of the bill — has funds to carry on its work and there is no shortage. There had been reports that the number of persons working under the program was being cut.

However, Smith said this was not necessarily true. He noted that the plan — financed under the new federal aid to Dependent Children (ADC) program — replaced EEP and that this may have accounted for some reductions.

He said many persons formerly working under the EEP have not registered for ADC and thus are not being carried on the payrolls. He also pointed out ADC regulations would eliminate a small number of persons from being transferred from EEP program.

Under the ADC operation, jobless workers with dependent children are given $1 an hour jobs on various state projects and clean-up programs.

Vandals Hit Post Office At Moorefield

MOOREFIELD, W.Va. — Postmaster Glenn Evans reports that the lobby doors to the new post office will be closed at 8:00 o'clock in the evenings, if youngsters continue to scatter sand and trash on the floors at night.

The postmaster said he had no alternative but to close the lobby if the vandalism continued. He requests citizens to report such acts.

Gov. Barron Promises W. Va. No New Taxes

Plans Official Call Of 1962 Legislature

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—No new taxes for West Virginians in 1962: that was the pledge Wednesday by Gov. W. W. Barron, as far as he is concerned.

Barron told a news conference that he will meet with leaders of the Legislature in December to plan his official call for the 1962 session. And he told newsmen, "I do not plan to request any new taxes or increases in present ones."

That goes for the additional penny tacked on to the consumer sales tax this year, Barron said. He said he is against extending the 3-cent on-the-dollar levy beyond its scheduled expiration of next June 30.

The governor also said he favors suspension of West Virginia's participation in the present type of federal-state medical care program for the aged after it expires early next year.

He said it would take $5 million of additional state money to continue the program and he doesn't see where that much money could be raised without difficulty. By the time the present program expires next year, it is possible that President Kennedy's proposed medicare program, tied to social security, may be in force.

Jobs, Industry Emphasized

If it isn't, Barron apparently is still against extending the present program. He said the state must concentrate on programs to put its unemployed to work and to make the state more attractive to new industry.

As for the present federal-state program for providing jobs for the unemployed, the governor said he is "not disturbed" at the low number of men who have signed up so far. "I think the applicants will increase as soon as the program gets more in full swing," he said.

The Welfare Department estimated only about 5,000 men will have been signed up by Friday whereas the original estimate was that 18,000 would be eligible.

The complete switchover from the old EEP program to 70-30 financing by the federal government under the Aid to Dependent Children program is scheduled Friday.

Barron also told newsmen:

—West Virginia had four times the national average in the past fiscal year in putting disabled persons back into gainful employment. Amplifying on this previously reported disclosure, the governor said the state's average of 188 rehabilitations per 100,000 disabled persons was the highest in the national program's 40-year history.

Traffic Committee Set Up

—A coordinating committee for promotion of highway safety on the part of state agencies has been set up with Barron as chairman and Road Commission safety director Roy G. Coen as executive secretary.

—It was "going to be a problem" to split up $1.75 million of federal money made available Tuesday for his distribution to various state, city and county agencies for repairing damage by the July 19 flash floods in the Charleston area. Damage has been estimated at over $3 million.

—He probably will ask the 1962 Legislature to expand West Virginia's civil defense program.

—He is going to take a look at the insurance program for covering Statehouse buildings. Little insurance is now held on the buildings and this was emphasized by the floods that damaged a state office building.

—Banks in various communities have indicated they would cooperate both with the state and local areas regarding possible low-interest loans to be used to bring in new industry to the state.

Picnic Tomorrow

ELLERSLIE — The Ellerslie Charge Brotherhood of the Evangelical United Brethren Church will hold a family picnic Friday evening, at 6 o'clock at the Hyndman Camp Grounds.

Army Recruiter Cites Need For Band Musicians

Keyser Station Is Given Quota

KEYSER — Sgt. Joseph A. Celich, local Army recruiter, revealed that a critical shortage currently exists within the Army for bandsmen, especially for personnel who play the following instruments: Piano, bassoon, trombone, B-flat clarinet, baritone sax, flute or piccolo.

Because of the shortage and a continuing need, the Army has authorized the enlistment of qualified young men for direct assignment to an Army band upon completion of basic training.

Sgt. Celich said the enlistee must meet physical and mental qualifications for enlistment in the regular Army. Then he will be auditioned by a bandmaster at Fort George G. Meade. If the applicant is found to be qualified, the bandmaster will give him a letter which will contain his audition score and a recommendation that he be enlisted in the Regular Army as a bandsman or for assignment to a specific band as appropriate.

Although all travel and expenses from the applicant's home to the Army recruiting main station in Fairmont will be borne by the government, the travel and expenses accrued in connection with the audition at Fort Meade must be paid for by the applicant.

Sgt. Celich may be contacted at 111 Armstrong Street in Keyser or by calling SU 8-5956.

Report From East Germany: Nobody Starves, But It's A Drab Life

EDITOR'S NOTE: Shortly before East-West relations worsened in divided Germany, Carl Hartman, The AP's correspondent in Berlin, made a rare tour of the East German provinces. He spent eight days traveling 1,300 miles through such places as Dresden, Rostock and Weimar, once famed cities which have now all but disappeared from Western eyes. This is his report of conditions in the East German provinces often hidden behind the well-lighted stage of East Berlin.

By CARL HARTMAN

DRESDEN, East Germany (AP)—Within a few hundred yards of each other in this badly bombed provincial capital you can see:

A damaged private mansion, confiscated and rebuilt as headquarters of the Communist youth organization; a bombed-out villa, only half rebuilt, the home and shop of a family still allowed to run a private fur business.

—A town house, once sumptuous, now just a blackened shell on poorly paved, ill-lighted street; a big new school for railway engineers and, ablaze with neon, a new government-owned hotel called the Astoria.

—Next to it, a sign warning military missions—the only Westerners who travel regularly in East Germany — to stay out of the area, presumably because of a Soviet military installation.

There you have in a small space a big slice of Communist East Germany. It's an odd concoction of capitalism and communism, technical progress and plain sloppiness, the German determination to work and build and the reminder of Soviet domination.

Soviet Russia does not rule East Germany directly. It is believed the Soviets have about 24 divisions in the country, but they keep well out of sight in the capital. They are more apparent near Berlin.

Officially, they are no longer occupation troops. The Communists always refer to them as "temporarily stationed" in the county. They build wooden fences around their camps, paint them a dull blue-green and then let them fall into disrepair.

Practically, things are kept in hand by the green-uniformed "Volkspolizei" or "People's Police, commonly called "vopos." You see them all over, often carrying carbines. They do not like to be photographed.

Visitors are strictly regulated. I waited nearly a year for permission to make the trip, and then it had to be done under rules stricter than those in other Communist satellites. The idea of going by myself, using ordinary trains and buses, was vetoed at once. I had to have a private car, furnished by the Foreign Ministry, with its own driver and a tried Communist newspaperman as escorts.

We made only one unscheduled side-trip, to the picturesque southeastern town of Bautzen. It was only after I returned to West Berlin that I learned it was the site of a notorious political prison known as "Gelbe Elend" (Yellow Misery). It is also where deserters from U.S. and British forces are held under considerable restrictions.

The feeling a Westerner gets is one of complete isolation from the outside world. It is hard to turn on the radio or even look around a city street without being hit by a massive dose of propaganda. The main theme is: "The West is on the skids and Communsm is going to win."

What is it like, living in East Germany?

There are no shortages in the sense that anyone has to go hungry or unclothed.

East Germans have to spend a long time shopping, though, if they are fussy about styles or if they want a pork chop bad enough. You can judge the irregularity of the supply from blackboards many shops display, with current special offerings chalked on them—lentils, rice, raisins, sauerkraut, spinach.

One day, driving through the northern part of the country, I wanted something to eat about 2 p.m. We stopped at three villages. For one reason or another, no restaurant was serving.

At the fourth, we found one open. It wasn't too good, but I managed a couple of fried eggs. As we went out, I noticed a little sign on the door:

"All our meat in this restaurant is horse meat."

There is a dinginess to life in the Communist countries that intelligent communists will readily admit. Public places are often not clean, and they are always badly lit. Everything seems to need a coat of paint.

"The Soviets could not have put up the first sputnik," the Communists will tell you, "if they had stopped to fix all the leaky faucets first."

The sloppiness is not only in the repairs, or the lack of them but in the planning. I stayed in a brand new hotel in Rostock. There were 10 rooms, some of them doubles, to a floor. Each floor had only two toilets, with unpainted seats. Paint was beginning to flake off the woodwork.

Some of the television, theater, opera and classical music is quite good, as can be expected in Germany. But as everywhere, the proportion of the people who appreciate these is small. Movies assay high in propaganda and low in entertainment. Newspapers, radio and magazines are designed to edify rather than amuse.

Propaganda pervades the atmosphere, like the reek of soft coal.

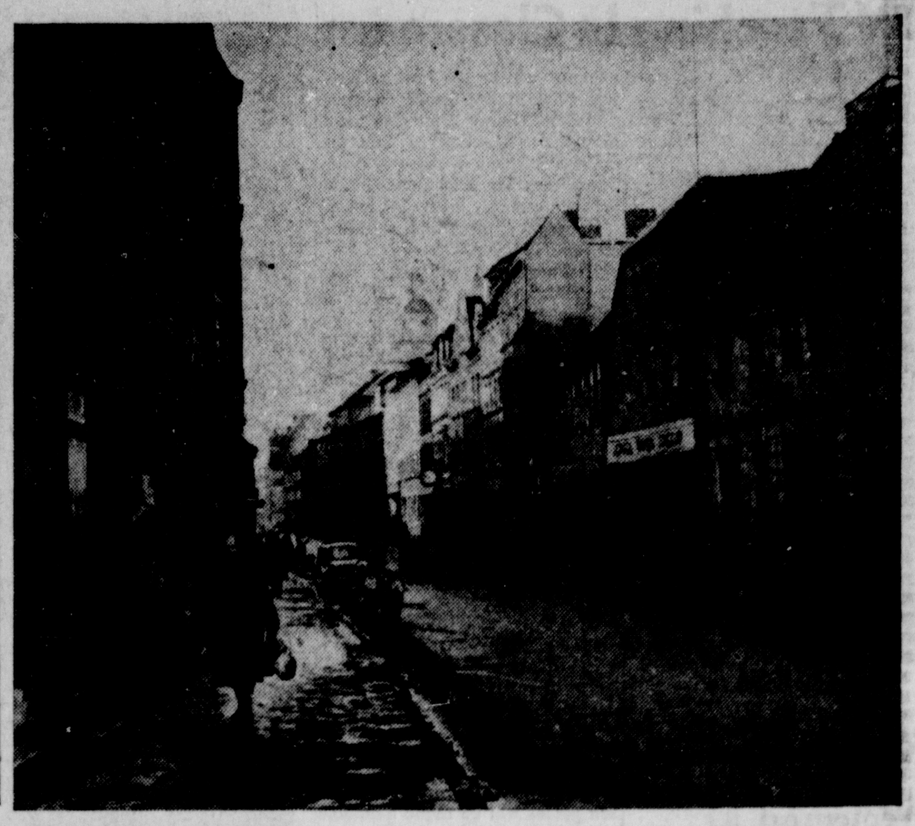
Even in the Dresden art gallery, the first room contains an exhibit to show that in past times —until the arrival of the Communists, presumably — art could be enjoyed only by the privileged classes.

At Buchenwald concentration camp near the old town of Weimar, there is nothing in all the detailed exhibits to indicate that American soldiers freed the prisoners and fed them.

Westerners who have visited East Germany over the years say it used to be even less inviting, before Stalin died. There is more food, more housing, more clothes, less propaganda and less police terror.

Scotland was settled by the Scots, Picts, British and Angles. The Romans called the land Caledonia.

BUTCHER SHOP in Rostock, East Germany, is well supplied with meat. No one has to go hungry in Communist Germany—but you have to shop around quite a while in order to get what you want.



MAIN STREET of Wittenberg, East Germany, illustrates life under the Communists. It's drab and rather lifeless. Automobiles and gasoline are rare and expensive.

Mantle Homers As Yankees Win, 4-0; Pirates Defeat Reds, 3-1

Twins Bow As Stafford Beats Kaat

Mickey One Game Ahead Of Ruth; Howard Homers

MINNEAPOLIS, St. Paul (AP) —Mickey Mantle slashed his 47th home run of the season Wednesday night as the New York Yankees and Bill Stafford defeated the Minnesota Twins 4-0.

Mantle's blast, on a 2-2 pitch to lead off the seventh inning, just cleared the left field fence. The poke put the Yankees slugger one game ahead of Babe Ruth's record 60-homer pace in 1927. Home run twin Roger Maris, who has 51 and is seven games ahead of Ruth, stroked a run-scoring single in three official trips.

Stafford and lefty Jim Kaat were locked in a pitchers duel until the Yankees scored a run in the fourth inning.

Elston Howard capped the Yankee scoring with his 14th home run off reliever Ray Moore in the ninth inning.

Stafford held the Twins hitless until Earl Battey's one-out single in the fifth and gave up only four hits in the game.

The victory brought Stafford's season record to 12-7, while Kaat suffered his 13th setback in 20 decisions.

HOMER HEROICS—The assault on Babe Ruth's record of 60 homers in 1927, which eluded such famed sluggers as Hank Greenberg, Jimmy Foxx and Hack Wilson, continues to make the headlines as the Yankee M-squad, Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris, keep ahead of the Babe's record pace. Ruth, himself, was closest to his own 60, for the Bambino got 59 homers in 1921. Foxx, with 58 in 1932, and Greenberg, with 58 in 1938, came closest. The N.L.'s best assault was by Wilson, who came through with 56 in 1930. Only others to hit 50 or more have been Ralph Kiner, who did it twice with 51 and 54; Mantle, with 52, and Willie Mays and Johnny Mize, with 51. (Central Press)

Sturdivant Stops Losers On Four Hits

Cincinnati Lead Cut To 2½ Games; Purkey Defeated

PITTSBURGH (AP) — American League castoff Tom Sturdivant, pitching his fifth straight complete game, baffled the league-leading Cincinnati Reds on four hits Wednesday night and sparked the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 3-1 victory.

The loss, combined with Los Angeles' 5-2 triumph over Chicago Wednesday afternoon, slashed the Reds' lead over the Dodgers to 2½ games.

Three wild pitches thrown by Cincinnati starter Bob Purkey and two passed balls by catcher Darrell Johnson contributed to the Pirates' victory. One Pittsburgh run scored on a wild pitch, another on a passed ball.

Sturdivant, who once starred for the New York Yankees, retired 20 Reds in a row before Jerry Lynch singled with two out in the ninth. Gordon Coleman followed with a single, but Sturdivant got Gus Bell on an easy grounder.

The veteran right-hander now has a 4-1 record. He has permitted only two earned runs in his last three games.

Podres Wins 17th, Beats Chicago, 5-2

Neal And Sherry Homer For Dodgers

CHICAGO (UPI) —Two-run homers by Charley Neal and Norm Sherry carried the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 5-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs, and helped Johnny Podres to his 17th pitching win of the season.

Podres needed help from Larry Sherry in the seventh inning, but the victory gave the Dodgers' ace southpaw a perfect 4-0 mark against the Cubs, who have not beaten him since Sept. 18, 1960.

The loss was charged to lefty Dick Ellsworth, victim of both home runs. Neal drove a shot into the left field bleachers with Daryl Spencer aboard in the second. Spencer also was on base with a lead-off single in the fourth when Norm Sherry hit his fourth homer of the year.

Neal tripled off the centerfield wall and scored the Dodgers' fifth run on Norm Sherry's sixth inning single off reliever Dick Drott.

Nats Prexy Benches Trio For 'No Hustle'

Long, Green, Tasby Draw Quesada Ire

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. Elwood (Pete) Quesada, president of the slump-ridden Washington Senators, Wednesday night accused three of his players —Dale Long, Willie Tasby and Gene Green — of "lack of hustle," and said they would be "benched indefinitely."

The Senators had an 11-game losing streak going into Wednesday night's game with the Cleveland Indians, and even though Long, Tasby and Green each have hit 16 homers and share the club lead in that department, Quesada charged them with "indifference."

Quesada added that he had told Manager Mickey Vernon:

"The front office backs you 100 per cent in any action you take against those players who are drawing major league salaries and are playing minor league ball."

The public tongue-lashing brought angry retorts from all three players.

"When I was going good and hitting .325, nobody accused me of not hustling," said Tasby. "As soon as I got into a slump, I didn't hustle, according to the club. I've tried just as hard as I ever did."

"This is something new to me," said Long, a 16-year veteran. "I just can't run as fast any more. Everybody knows it. But I run as hard as I can. If they (the Washington executives) don't like it, I said: 'So, see you later'."

Green was equally bitter. "What major league salary?" he asked. "I've got all I can do to keep my wife and kids from starving on the salary I get. I'm no catcher in the first place. I can't run but I swing a good bat. I don't want to catch but I did it to help the club. Why don't they put me in the outfield or at first base where it's easier for me?"

Green is the second leading hitter on the club with a .294 average. He is second in runs batted in with 54.

Tasby was hitting .325 at the end of June but has slumped to .259. He leads the club in runs batted in with 56. Long has driven in 47 runs and is batting .256.

Snead Seeks 10th W. Va. Open Title

Slammer Enters October Event

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)— Sammy Snead will make his 11th appearance in the West Virginia Open golf tournament here in October.

Snead has won the event nine times, including last year when he finished ahead of two other top notch players of the national pro golf circuit, Art Wall and Arnold Palmer.

Snead was so sure last year that he had lost that when he finished his final round, he left for his home at Hot Springs, Va. However, Wall, one of the last finishers, had a relatively poor round and lost the lead he had held.

Riviera Country Club, located along W. Va. 2 just north of Huntington, will be the scene of the tournament Oct. 27-29. Riviera only this year opened a second nine holes to go with its first nine.

The 1961 tourney will be 54 holes and observers already are predicting that the long-hitting Snead will shatter the record for the rather short course.

Hunters To Have Split Season

Demeter's Double Wins Game In 8th

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Don Demeter's second double of the game drove home Charlie Smith with two out in the eighth inning Wednesday night to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 4-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Cardinals, held to one hit for five innings by Frank Sullivan, drove the tall right-hander from the mound in the sixth with three runs, two of which were unearned, but lefty Don Ferrarese stopped the Redbirds the rest of the way to win his third game against nine losses. Ray Sadecki (12-7) was the loser.

Cash Taken III Suddenly, Claims Eyes Affected

DETROIT (UPI) — Slugging first baseman Norm Cash of the Detroit Tigers, leading hitter in the American League, was rushed to a hospital Wednesday night after complaining suddenly during pre-game practice that he could not see.

However, after preliminary examination, doctors said Cash appeared to be suffering from an infection, such as a flu virus, and that it did not appear there was anything wrong with his vision itself.

"We can't tell at this stage," said Dr. B. J. Helan, a Detroit eye specialist, "But his eyes seem okay. It is probably flu or something."

Dr. Russell Wright, team physician, agreed with Helan, saying, "the ailment is outside the eye but is affecting it."

Cash, who is hitting .366, was taken to Detroit Osteopathic Hospital where he was to remain overnight for medication and observation.

Health Officer Visits Centers

Dr. W. Ross Cameron, acting deputy state health officer for Allegany County, after completing a tour of county health centers said that they are a valuable asset to the health department. He also paid tribute to the numbers of interested volunteer workers in the various sections who have worked so hard in many cases to provide these facilities and are still working hard to operate them.

Dr. Cameron said that other small communities should be encouraged to engage in planning health centers, "as there is no question that the people in every community large or small regard these centers as a real asset and necessity."

He said that the centers could also be used for other community projects, such as a meeting hall, for lectures and education programs.

Dr. Cameron complimented County United Fund for the contribution it is making toward maintenance of some of the centers.

School Bus Drivers Get Training

The last of three in-service training meetings for bus contractors and drivers who transport Allegany County public school children to and from school will be held at 7 o'clock tonight at Valley High School in Lonaconing.

First session was held Tuesday night at Flintstone High School and last night the meeting was at West Side School.

Purpose of the meetings has been to remind each contractor and driver of state requirements for bus drivers, state automobile laws, qualifications and responsibilities of drivers, operational regulations and practices.

J. Hubert Radcliffe, county supervisor of transportation, said about 120 persons are attending the three meetings. Trooper John W. McFarland spoke to the drivers at Flintstone on highway safety. State Police Cpl. John F. Browning spoke to the group last night at West Side and will attend tonight's session at Valley.

New Bulletin About Tools Is Available

A new eight-page bulletin entitled "Tools and Materials Needed In The Home" prepared by the University of Maryland Extension Service is now available in limited supply from the office of County Agent Joseph M. Steger at the Court House.

There are illustrations on each of the eight pages of the booklet. Data in the bulletin includes information about hammers, screwdrivers, pliers, wrenches, saws, chisels, putty knife, rule, hatchet, planes, squares, nail set, files, tinner's snips, drills, glass cutters, combination sharpening stone, sandpaper, nails, screws, fasteners, hinges, assorted bolts, nuts and washers, glazier's points, putty, wall hangers, masonry hangers, and tool box.

Tawes Asks Drivers To Be Cautious During Holiday

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes urged Marylanders Wednesday to take extra safety precautions if they plan to drive on Free State highways during Labor Day weekend.

He warned that many people will be taking their "last fling" of the summer, and recalled that nine persons were killed and 355 injured in accidents during the holiday period last year.

In his official proclamation, Tawes pleaded with motorists and pedestrians alike to "make your Labor Day and every day a holiday from accidents."

Harlan Dean Captures Rich Hambletonian In Two Straight Heats

Winner Sets Trot Mark In First Race

Miller Colt Takes $77,364 Of Purse; Arthur Is Driver

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP) — Harlan Dean, who had won only once in eight starts this year and did not race at all until July 21, Wednesday trotted successive mile heats of 1:58 2-5 and 1:59 to capture the Hambletonian with a world-record performance.

The brown son of Harlan, trained by Del Miller and driven by 42-year-old Jimmy Arthur, took a winner's slice of $77,364 out of the total purse $131,573 which was the third highest ever offered in harness racing.

Arthur brought Harlan Dean from fourth at the end of the ¾ pole to third in the stretch during the blistering first heat.

As Duke Rodney, the Yonkers Futurity winner and highly favored in the Hambletonian, broke stride while leading in the middle of the stretch, Harland Dean and Matastar whizzed by and dueled to the finish with Harlan Dean winning by a head.

In the second heat, Harlan Dean beat the unofficial 4-5 favorite, Caleb, by 2½ lengths while Spectator was third and Claire Sampson fourth—all a head apart.

Duke Rodney again broke in the second heat near the quarter pole.

Caleb, owned by Mrs. Charlotte De Van of Hanover, Pa., and piloted by John Simpson, took second money $32,235 with his 3-2 finishes. Matastar was third to earn $12,894 in a 2-7 effort and Spectator $6,447 with 6-3.

First heat of 1:58 2-5 topped the 1:58 3-5 record for 3-year-old trotters set by Elaine Rodney in the Kentucky Futurity in Lexington last fall and matched by Caleb in the recent Review Futurity at Springfield, Ill.

The second heat timing of 1:59 also broke the former Hambletonian record of 1:59 3-5 posted last year by Quick Song and Hoot Frost, the latter driven by Arthur at that time.

VICTORY CUP TO WINNER — Harlan Dean, a colt trained by Del Miller and driven by Jimmy Arthur, looks on as Gov. Otto Derner of Illinois, left, presents the Hambletonian trophy to the winning driver. Harlan Dean bettered the Hambletonian record in both heats and lowered the world record for three-year-old trotters with a time of 1:58 2/5 in the first heat. In the rear is Groom Stuart Ricketts. MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Trial of the government's income tax suit against Ingemar Johansson, former heavyweight boxing champion, was set for Sept. 18, Federal Judge Frank Johnson Jr. will come here from Alabama to hear the case.

Johansson claims that his earnings are not subject to U.S. taxes because he operates as a Swiss corporation.

Pitcher Early Wynn Retires For Season

DETROIT (UPI)—Chicago White Sox general manager Ed Short said Wednesday the club has sent veteran pitcher Early Wynn home for the rest of the season to rest his ailing pitching arm. Short said Wynn did not come here with the team for a three game series that opened Tuesday night. Wynn has an 8-2 record this season and with a career total of 292 victories is only eight short of the charmed 300 circle.

Manager Lonnie Jackson's Rotary Club clinched a playoff spot in the tight Hot Stove League race yesterday by defeating the Lions, 9-2, in the first game of a doubleheader at Penn Avenue field.

The win by Manager Jackson's charges eliminated the B.P.O. Elks who had closed their season on Tuesday with a 16-11 mark.

Rock Cioni led Rotary at the plate with a triple and single and Greg Skidmore belted a double. George Showalter starred at second base for the winners.

300 Youngsters To See Orioles Game Saturday

An estimated 300 youngsters will see the Cleveland Indians play the Orioles at Baltimore on Saturday afternoon, C. Eugene Mason, city recreation director, said last night as final preparations were made to take players in the Dapper Dan Little League and in the High School Rec League to see the major league contest.

The annual trip is sponsored by the Dapper Dan Club and Mason said that six or seven buses will be furnished to transport the young athletes to the game.

Members of eight of the 12 teams in the little league and the six teams in the high school circuit are slated to meet at 5:30 a.m. on Saturday at City Hall. Players on the Giants, Pirates, Cardinals and Yankees will meet at the same time at Penn Avenue field.

Players need not wear their team uniforms, but must wear their uniform caps, Mason stated.

Birds Won't Hurry To Pick Manager

BALTIMORE (AP)—Lee MacPhail, president of the Baltimore Orioles, said Wednesday he doesn't expect to pick a manager quickly to replace Paul Richards.

"We'd like to hire one as soon as possible," MacPhail said, "but I doubt that we'll get one until well after the close of this season."

There is no rush since Richards has agreed to stay on the job until the season ends Sept. 30 if the Orioles want him.

THE BIG EDGE puts B.F.Goodrich Silvertown miles ahead of other tires!

OTHER TIRES have narrow edges, as this diagram shows. Following tradition, the rubber is concentrated in the center ribs. But in today's driving, that's a "dead center," where tire wear is least. Look at your own tires, and you'll see the first signs of wear are on the outside edges.

BFG SILVERTOWN has a radical new tread design—with up to twice as much rubber as other major-brand, first-line tires in the outside edges of the tread. That's where today's tires work most, wear most. It's The Big Edge—and a big edge in safety and mileage for you!

Don Hoak Now Believes Reds Will Win Pennant

Formerly Thought Hurlers Would Fold Pirate Star Says

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Pittsburgh Pirate third baseman Don Hoak made amends to Cincinnati fans Wednesday by predicting the Reds will win the national League pennant and then beat the Yankees in the World Series.

"I said in June the Reds could not win the pennant because I thought we were," Hoak said at a Gus Fan luncheon.

"But anyone who thinks Cincinnati will not win must show me the color of their eyes."

Hoak aroused the ire of Cincinnati fans two months ago when he said the Reds could not win. He added that young Red pitchers would find it harder to pitch in hot weather than in cold temperatures.

His remarks touched off jeers every time he came to the plate at Crosley Field. The fiery Hoak said he played two seasons with the Reds and knew how the extreme hot weather in Cincinnati could affect the pitchers.

"I think it would be great baseball if the Reds would win," Hoak said. "I wish the best of luck to Freddy Hutchinson and his coaching crew."

Hutchinson paid tribute to pitching Coach Jim Turner for the Cincinnati success.

"Jim refuses to take credit but he has handled the young pitchers well and is instrumental in getting the best out of them," the Reds' manager said.

"We still have six games with Pittsburgh. Two with Chicago which is our nemesis and six with Philadelphia, Hutchinson said. "We have a 16-0 record against the Phils this year and I just hope the law of averages doesn't catch up. It might be noted that most of our victories against the Phils came in the late innings."

Signs With Rangers

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Rangers announced Wednesday that Jerry Walker, the highest goal scorer in Denver Universitys' history, has accepted an invitation to report to their training camp at Guelph, Ont., on Sept. 11. General manager Muzz Patrick said Walker "on his record, must be rated a good pro prospect." A left winger, he scored 56 goals in 32 games last year. He is 22, stands 5-11 and weighs 170 pounds.

Spahn Nearing 20 Victories

Lefty Spurts In 2nd Half Of Season

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—When Warren Spahn won only nine of his first 21 decisions this season, skeptics wondered whether the "f" in forty — the Milwaukee pitcher's age—also stood for finished.

Finished, that is, in Spahn's efforts to match Christy Mathewson's National League record of winning 20 or more games for 13 seasons. Very few pitchers of the past could generate winning years, let alone turn in 20 triumphs after age 40.

They reckoned not, however, with Spahn's peculiar pitching behavior ever since he came to Milwaukee with the Braves in 1953. For some strange reason, Spahn's season's with Milwaukee fall into two halves. With two exceptions, his last nine years have resulted in mediocre performances up to the All-Star break in July and spectacular success in the second half.

In the first half of the nine seasons, Spahn has won 77 and lost 67, a good enough record but not anywhere near his 105-36 record in the last half of those nine seasons.

Since this year's first All-Star game on July 11, Spahn has won eight of nine, including the last seven in succession.

Mounties Knot Bi-State Series With 10-9 Win

The Frostburg Mounties outlasted Lonaconing yesterday to deadlock their final series in the Bi-State Pony League with a 10-9 triumph at Frostburg.

The win evened the best-of-three playoffs for the loop championship for Frostburg who lost the opener on Monday, 2-1.

A five-run outburst in the fifth overcame an 8-5 Lonaconing lead and gave the Mounties a lead they didn't relinquish. Bill Bevans was the losing pitcher in relief while Bob Seibert copped the win, also in relief.

Dennis Shockey and Dennis Bartlett hit home runs in a losing cause for Lonaconing while Fred Metz had a triple and three singles and Bevans a double and a pair of singles in the 14-hit attack. Ernie Drew hit for the circuit and added a double while Butch Cutter doubled and singled for Frostburg.

The third game of the series has tentatively been scheduled for 5:30 p.m. at Lonaconing, but efforts are being made to play the game on Saturday. The results:

Lonaconing	042 021 0—	9	1
Mounties	203 050 x—10	9	2

Dennis Shockey, Bill Bevans (3) and Bill Bevans, Fred Metz (5). Wayne Miller, Bob Seifert (3), Nick Edwards (6) and Ernie Drew.

Winner—Seibert. Loser—Bevans.

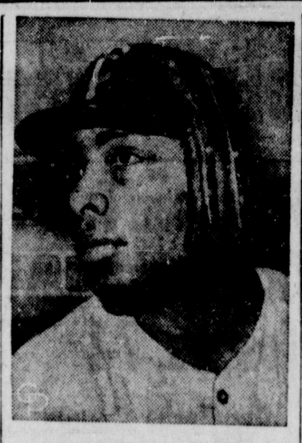
HR—Shockey and Bartlett (Lonaconing); Drew (Frostburg).

Three Moslems Slain In New Oran Rioting

ORAN, Algiera (UPI) — Mobs of European youths swarmed through the streets of Oran Wednesday, killing and wounding Moslems in the second riot here this week.

As night fell and police forced an uneasy calm on this port city, at least three Moslems were reported killed and 25 other persons — mostly Moslems — injured.

The two-hour riot began after the Secret Army Organization (OAS), an outlawed rightwing extremist group sworn to keep Algeria French, called for a European general strike.



TUNING IN?—Looks like it, at that, but actually Earl Battey, Minnesota Twins' catcher, is wearing a special padding on his helmet to protect a jaw recently broken.

Today Is Last For Discount On County Taxes

Allegany County Tax Collector William B. Orndorff yesterday issued a final reminder to county taxpayers that today is the last in which they may obtain a three per cent discount on county and special taxing area taxes.

So far during August some $110,042.19 in county, state and special taxing area taxes has been collected. The office in the Court House will be open from 8:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. today. However, mailed returns postmarked before midnight tonight also will be entitled to the three per cent discount on county and special area taxes.

During September, for the first time, taxpayers will simply pay the gross amount. They will get neither discount no penalty. In previous years, a penalty of one-half per cent was charged on county and special taxing area taxes. Under legislation approved last winter, the pattern was changed to coincide with state real estate taxes. Interest is not charged on them until October and from then on the rate is one-half per cent per month.

Most county taxes are paid in June when a five per cent discount is allowed. In July the discount is four per cent and then drops to three per cent in August.

4-H Project Record Books Are Needed

Assistant County Agent James B. Arnold yesterday issued a reminder that all boys 4-H Club members must turn in their project record books on or before next Tuesday, September 5.

Giants Defeat Milwaukee, 2-1; Regain Third

Snap Losing Skein Behind McCormick

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The San Francisco Giants snapped a five-game losing streak and regained third place from Milwaukee by defeating the Braves 2-1 Wednesday as southpaw Mike McCormick, with help from Stu Miller, edged Carl Willey in a pitching duel.

The victory moved the Giants to within seven games of league-leading Cincinnati pending the outcome of the Reds' night game with Pittsburgh. The Braves dropped a half game behind San Francisco.

The Giants collected only four hits but put together two of them for all the runs McCormick needed in earning his 1.th victory against 13 losses. The 22-year-old left-hander struck out six and walked four before being relieved by Miller in the ninth.

With Hank Aaron on first as the result of a walk by McCormick, Miller got Joe Adcock to hit back to the mound for the start of a double play. Frank Thomas and Joe Torre followed with singles but Miller bore down and retired pinch-hitter Neil Chrisley for the final out.

Vets Even Rocking Chair Series With Caseys, 7-2

Play Third Game At Stitcher Field Today At 6 P.M.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars exploded for half their 12 hits and four runs in the first inning against Al Sheetz and went on to defeat the Knights of Calumbus, 7-2, at Stitcher Field yesterday to even their championship series at a game apiece in the Rocking Chair Softball League.

Jack Eckard and Charley Day combined to hold the Caseys, who won the opener yesterday, 1-0, to six hits with Eckard picking up his 10th win of the campaign. Sheetz suffered his sixth setback in 18 decisions.

With one out in the first Pete Elliott started the ball rolling for the Vets with a double. Jimmy Eckard singled Elliott home with the first run and one-base knocks by Vern Penner and Ronnie Cage plated another tally. George McGregor then singled to load the bases and George Stevenson worked Sheetz for a walk to force in a run. Sam Brady's single then scored the fourth run of the inning.

Elliott collected a single in addtion to his two-bagger and Stevenson belted a triple. Brady and Jim Eckard each had two singles for the winners.

Bink King's double was the only extra base hit for K. of C. which had six scattered blows, no more than one in an inning. The results:

K. of C.	010 000 1—	2	6	2

Wiley Ford Cops Rec Loop Playoff, 10-5

Opens Finals With Old Gees On Friday

Wiley Ford's American Division champions advanced into the finals in the Rec Softball League playoffs yesterday by downing Bennett's Transfer, 10-5, in the third and deciding game of their semi-final series at Post field.

Bill Kenney chalked up his 19th pitching triumph of the season with a six-hitter and was in trouble only in the sixth inning when Bennett's scored four of their five runs.

Wiley Ford hopped on Gene Hess, who shut them out in the second game of the series, for 12 hits and scored in all but two frames to move into the best-of-three finals with the Old Germans.

The championship series will get underway on Friday at 6 o'clock at Naval Reserve field. The second and third games also are slated at Naval Reserve on Tuesday and Thursday of next week.

Kenney struck out seven in going the route for Wiley Ford. He was touched for a pair of doubles by Jake Frost who was the only Bennett's batter to get more than one hit.

The winners' assault at the plate included a triple and double by Kenney, a double and single by Ellsworth Lambert and three singles by Jim Leamon. The results:

Wiley Ford	112 033 0—	10	12	4
Bennett's Transfer	100 004 0—	5	6	2

Market Rises After Auto Strike Deadline Extended

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market responded with a broad advance Wednesday to news that the auto strike deadline had been postponed until after Labor Day.

The feeling was that the postponement has increased heavily the chance of a settlement, and investors bid up prices steadily from mid-morning to a peak in the last half hour. Activity, however, failed to rise substantially with prices, amounting to 3,220,000 shares against 3,160,000 on Tuesday.

Rails were especially strong on news that the Interstate Commerce Commission recommended federal subsidies to keep passenger service alive. Motors, drugs and a wide variety of popular favorites also had strong gains. Aircrafts and national defense issues continued easy as work proceeded on negotiations to settle the Berlin problem.

Steel shares failed to set a conclusive trend as the Kennedy administration was reported to be mounting pressure on the companies to avoid a metal price hike this fall when new wage increases go into effect.

The Dow-Jones industrial average gained 2.75 to 716.90, rails rose a large 1.78 to 144.40 for one of their best days of the year and utilities added 0.71 to 120.71. Standard & Poor's index of 500 stocks rose 26 cents.

The market also expanded to include 1,256 issues of which 599 advanced and 465 declined. New highs amounted to 36, or three times the number of new lows.

Cards of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved daughter and sister, Mrs. Virginia Grimes. We especially thank the pallbearers, those who sent floral tributes, those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral and all others who in any manner rendered assistance. To all, we are indeed grateful.

MRS. ELEANOR BOYLAND AND FAMILY

Md. Teachers May Be Hired For 12 Months

Survey Is Ordered To Develop Idea

By MARTY SUTPHIN

BALTIMORE (AP)—Should public school teachers be hired for 12 months instead of 9?

How much would it cost? What summer assignments could they perform?

The State Board of Education Wednesday named a Washington County educator to spend a year answering these and other questions about "more complete utilization" of teacher talent.

The assignment went to T. Wilson Cahall, an administrative assistant who coordinated the pioneer educational TV setup in Washington County.

Project Under Study

Cahall will start on the project Sept. 1 under a $15,000 grant from the Ford Foundation. The money comes from the foundation's Fund for the advancement of Education.

Cahall already has started a similar project on the county level. On the basis of his statewide study, Maryland educators may ask the foundation for more money next year for pilot projects to test the ideas Cahall develops.

The $15,000 will pay Chall's salary and expenses for one year. He will be on a leave of absence from his county duties.

Summer assignments for teachers might include instructing driver education classes or conducting special studies.

Cahall will also investigate the development of instructional materials and teacher improvement programs.

Other Board Action

In other action, the board approved part of its budget requests for next year and set Sept. 22 for hearings on behalf of two Negro children denied admission to public schools in Howard and Prince Georges counties.

Both appeals for hearings came from an attorney for the National Association for Advancement of Colored People. One claims 12-year-old Conchita M. King of Simpsonville was not allowed to transfer to Ellicott City Junior High School. The other said Gregory Lomax, 7, of College Park was denied admission to the Seat Pleasant School.

The NAACP claims the county school superintendent's action in each case was "based solely on race and color."

The budget requests approved were for headquarters expenses, vocational rehabilitation and the five State teacher colleges.

The educators want $9,784,247 in those three categories, a $2,495,642 increase over the current allotment.

This is less than one-tenth the department's total budget. The big portion is in aid to local school systems, and that can't be figured until schools open and the students and teachers are counted.

Budget Requests Approved

The budget requests approved Wednesday are about the same as were submitted last year and were chopped by Gov. Tawes and his budget advisors.

The new request for operation of headquarters is $1,179,221, a total of $182,391 more than the current figure. This request includes a boost in salary for the superintendent of schools, Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, from $20,000 to $25,000 a year. Similar requests have been turned down for eight years.

A total of $6,450,226 is being asked for operation of the teacher colleges. This is an increase of $1,560,936.

Part of the additional money would provide 69 new instructors and raise the salary scale at the colleges to the level at the University of Maryland.

Dr. William Sartorius, assistant schools superintendent, estimated it would cost about $110,000 a year to raise the college teachers scale ($3,850-$8,470) to the university level ($5,000-$12,500).

The new instructors would provide a ratio of one faculty member to 16.5 students.

An additional 52 non-professional personnel were requested. The board said they are needed because of new buildings and for unmet needs not allowed in previous budgets.

The breakdown in requests for professional staffers was 32 for Towson, 22 for Frostburg, 6 each for Salisbury and Coppin and 3 for Bowie.

Fence Barriers Might Prevent Truck Tragedy

Arresting gear similar to that used to stop planes after they land on aircraft carriers might be the answer to the runaway truck problem on hilly Western Maryland highways, two development engineers said here yesterday.

William D. Van Zelm and Gordon R. Sinclair of Van Zelm Associates, Inc., of Baltimore, said barriers now in the development stage might be able to stop out-of-control trucks before they can pile up at the bottom of slopes, perhaps with fatal results.

The engineers spoke and showed a film to a group of State Police officials and newsmen yesterday afternoon at the LaVale State Police barracks.

The film showed cars ramming into an experimental barrier at speeds up to 83 mph, dragging the barrier a hundred feet or so and then stopping without serious damage.

Mr. Van Zelm said the films were made at the company's testing grounds at Harbor Field, Baltimore.

He explained that the barrier, made of inexpensive chain link fencing, is held at either end by tapes of ordinary strap iron, also inexpensive. The strap iron is coiled inside two fixed elements at the ends of the movable barrier.

When a vehicle rams into the barrier, it carries the fence forward, unwinding the tapes through a series of simple steel rollers which force them to bend out of shape.

The work done in bending the iron tapes uses up the energy of the car's forward motion and brings it quickly to a halt.

No such equipment has been developed for trucks, but Mr. Van Zelm said he saw no reason why it couldn't be built — except that it's expensive to do such experiments with big trucks.

Mr. Van Zelm and Mr. Sinclair visited Backbone and Big Savage mountains later to look at spots where several accidents, some of them fatal, have occurred after big trucks lost their brakes and ran out of control.

They felt that series of barriers using their principle could be built on runaway lanes at the edge of the road. The driver of a runaway would wheel his rig onto the runaway lane and into the barriers. The truck would slam through the first barrier, slowing somewhat in the process, then drift for a distance before striking a second barrier, and so on until it stopped.

Amcelle Worker Suffers Burns In Accident

A 50-year-old Lonaconing man was admitted to Memorial Hospital with first and second degree burns received in a flash fire last night at the Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company.

Lawrence McKenzie was reported in "satisfactory" condition last night by hospital attendants who said the injured worker sustained burns about the head, face, neck and arms.

A company spokesman said Mr. McKenzie was burned when a spark apparently ignited some waste yarn on a part of a machine he was cleaning.

Mr. McKenzie was working in the Extrusion Department when the accident occurred. No other damage was caused when the waste yarn caught fire, the company said.

Law Requires 'Tree Experts' Have Licenses

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—An official of the Department of Forests and Parks said Wednesday a law passed by the last session of the General Assembly requires all persons engaged in tree trimming or cutting to be registered with the state agency.

David Prince, tree supervisor for the department, said the agency is currently accepting applications and will schedule an examination at a later date.

Prince said persons engaged in "tree expert" activity could obtain a certification from the forestry department, but were not required to do so under the old law.

Prince said there are currently some 30 certified "tree experts" in Maryland.

The new law, Prince said, requires licenses of all persons engaged in the "tree expert" trade. The law provides for an initial fee of $15 and a $5 fee for re-examination.

The new law also gives the Forests and Parks Commission the right to specify the proper amounts of liability and property damage insurance that should be carried by each licensee.

Golden Gifts Kicks Off With $50,000 Pledged

CUF Goal This Year Set At $122,000

The Fifth Birthday Campaign of County United Fund is headed for success, Walter E. Dyck and William H. Oburn, co-chairmen of the CUF Golden Gifts Division said last night following the division kickoff meeting at the Cumberland Country Club, where GG team captains and workers pledged more than $50,000 toward their goal of $122,000.

The Golden Gifts kickoff is always a tipoff to the success of a CUF campaign, the co-chairmen stated, and last night's response, representing more than a third of the GG total goal, as well as a large piece of the 1961 total goal of $361,231, indicates that the big givers' organization will repeat its successes of the last four years.

Duard H. Little, general chairman of the 1961 campaign, told the assembled workers: "CUF has always been successful—due to the support of the general public. But we cannot be complacent now. There's no question that we will be successful with the same dedication to our purpose that we have had in the past."

Mr. Dyck introduced key cases — gifts to all GG contributors from the Hercules Powder Company, which Mr. Little represents here as plant manager of Allegany Ballistics Laboratory. The practice of presenting such gifts was started two years ago by George B. Newman, president of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, when he was general campaign chairman, and was continued last year by William E. Crooks, manager of the Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company when he held the top campaign post.

Winfield H. Adam, executive director of CUF, gave a short training session for the GG workers and showed a film featuring the top fund-raiser of the Detroit area, where the United Fund idea of "giving the giver a break" originated. Adam also paid tribute to Oburn and Dyck as dedicated leaders in past United Fund campaigns.

Rev. Maurice D. Robertson, pastor of First Presbyterian Church here, gave an inspirational talk on the value of United giving. He pointed up the need for every man's being his brother's keeper, and thus avoiding, through private charities, the threat of higher taxes for welfare purposes.

"Americans believe that they are their brothers' keepers," he said, "and that is why United Funds have been so successful.

"Put your neighbor first," he urged, "ahead of business and personal considerations; that is the way to successful living. Remember, the only thing you take with you out of this life is what you have given away to others."

Golden Gifts team captains and their workers, not all of whom were able to be present last night, include R. J. Cannon: Garland Johnston, W. Eric Gibbs, H. Lee Silcox; Dyck: John J. Coyle, Robert Little Ebert, John F. Workmeister; Robert C. Perry: Kenton B. Farrell, Robert Garner, Arthur German, Joseph Gratton, Wally Hankins; Charles E. Stutzman: William M. Craze, Joseph E. Discuss Parking

William G. Barr, center, a Washington parking specialist, talks with Harry Kauffman, left, chairman of the parking committee of the Retail Merchants Association, and Police Commissioner Philmore F. Fleming at a meeting last night at Central YMCA. Mr. Barr made several suggestions about improving downtown parking and traffic conditions.

Traffic First, Then Parking, Says Expert

Before Cumberland's parking problem is solved, traffic must be taken care of, said William G. Barr, parking expert, addressing a meeting cosponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and its Retail Merchants Association last evening at YMCA.

Mr. Barr, executive director of the National Parking Association, said no one can make any estimate of what the city can do for parking until it uses economically what is already has.

He suggested that all meters on North Mechanic and Liberty streets be removed to open up traffic, and advanced a parking validation plan in which downtown stores would validate tickets to give free parking to their customers.

Mr. Barr said that while planning is fine, people can be "planned to death" if plans are not carried out.

Another suggestion he made was to take immediate steps to open George Street from Frederick to Bedford Street.

He also reiterated the idea suggested by another planner for downtown stores to fix up and open rear doors of their stores to parking lots in areas behind the stores.

C. M. Sanner, president of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, presided at the meeting.

Potomac River Board Meets At Colonial Beach

The area served by the Potomac River and its tributaries covers some 60 counties in four states and the District of Columbia.

That wide area is emphasized by the widely divergent points where meetings of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin are held. For instance, the fall meeting will be held at the New Atlanta Hotel in Colonial Beach, Va., September 21 and 22. That's some 185 miles southeast of Cumberland.

The spring meeting in May was at Moorefield, W. Va., just 47 miles south of Cumberland.

"Water Management in the Potomac Estuary" will be the theme and the meeting will concern itself with the development and conservation of the resources of the tidewater Potomac region.

A highlight of the opening day program will be a banquet at 7:15 p. m. September 21 at which the principal speakers will be Monroe Bush of the Old Dominion Foundation and James L. Kunen of the Meyer Foundation.

Program Listed

The meeting will open at 9 a. m. with remarks from David V. Auld of Washington, chairman of the Potomac River commission. A welcome to Colonial Beach will be extended by Walther Fidler, a member of the Virginia House of Delegates.

William Colony of the U. S. Public Health Service will discuss the Wolman Report and the Upper Estuary in a talk scheduled for 9:30 a. m.

Welfare Aide Course Set By Red Cross

Allegany Chapter, American Red Cross is planning a social welfare aide course for volunteers according to Mrs. Sara Lindsay, executive secretary. It will be the first in a series of training courses to be offered by the local unit.

A five-day course, it will be held September 26, 27, 28 and October 5, 6. Classes will be conducted from 9:30 a. m. until noon and from 1 until 3:30 p. m. This will be the first time a class of this type has been conducted by the Allegany Chapter.

Miss Violet A. Babcock, home service representative from the Red Cross area office in Alexandria, will be instructor. She is well qualified, having served in this capacity for a number of years in the States and overseas, Mrs. Lindsay said.

Mrs. Marian Barkman, home service secretary of Allegany Chapter, working on a part-time basis since November, is organizing a home service department here. It will consist of a committee who will assist in determining procedures and policies under the board of directors. The training program for social welfare aides is a phase in developing this program.

These aides, when trained may assist with the home service program, which provides service to men of the armed forces, veterans and their dependants.

This is one of the mandatory services of Red Cross and it must be performed in accordance with a policy established between National Red Cross and the government. Preparation of the program is in response to the recent order of President Kennedy, calling for an increase in armed forces which will bring an increase in the work of Red Cross chapters.

Duties of the social welfare aides vary greatly according to the need. They may include interviewing, counseling, obtaining necessary records and information, assistance in keeping records and compiling reports in relation to their work.

Prior training or experience in social welfare work is helpful but not essential. Interested persons may contact the Red Cross office, Post Office building, for an application. Deadline for applications will be September 18.

Kennedy Sees Peril In Berlin Situation

Military Would Accept Goulart As 'Figurehead'

ON WAY HOME — Brazilian Vice President Joao Goulart settles in his car on way to an airport hotel yesterday after his arrival at New York's Idlewild Airport. He flew in from Paris on his way to Brazil where he hopes to assume post of president. He was on Far East trip when Brazilian President Janio Quadros resigned.

Prime Minister Would Be Named To Rule Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — The military high command has backed down and agreed to accept Joao Goulart as president but with establishment of a prime minister who would actually rule the country, a government source said Wednesday.

The proposal by the nation's three top military chiefs was reported to differ from a similar plan submitted by a commission of Congress. The military chiefs want Congress, rather than the president, to name the prime minister. Brazil now has no prime minister; its government has been like that of the United States where the president holds the main executive office.

The new plan raised hopes for a solution to the crisis which has shaken Brazil since Janio Quadros resigned as president Friday.

There was no immediate indication whether Congress or Goulart, the leader of Brazil's Labor party, would accept the idea of a limited presidency. Goulart, as Quadros' vice president, is in line to succeed him. The military chiefs oppose Goulart because of his leftist views. He flew from Paris to New York Wednesday and was reported to have reservations to continue to neighboring Argentina.

Goulart In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Brazilian Vice President Joao Goulart, center of a political upheaval in his homeland, arrived here from Paris Wednesday and said he was going to Brazil as soon as possible.

Goulart said that while he felt he was in fact the president of Brazil his main concern is to maintain "legality and order."

"I do not desire that a civil war occur in my country," he said.

He said that if he is actually established as president he will conduct the government "accord-

Rescue Of 81 From Alpine Lift Completed

CHAMONIX, France (UPI) — One of the great dramas in the history of mountain rescues ended Wednesday when the last of 81 shivering tourists were removed from tiny cable cars dangling in the French Alps.

Mountaineers who worked all night pulled the remaining tourists to safety 18 hours after a French air force jet sliced through an 11,000-foot high cable that moves the cars from the Aiguille du Midi peak near Mont Blanc to Helbronner Point on the Italian side.

The jet returned safely to a field at Luxeuil, France 140 miles to the north, but three of the cars plunged 329 feet and crashed on a glacier below.

Four Germans and two Italians died on the ice and rocks.

The freak accident left the passengers, including two American students, suspended precariously from the aerial railway's main cable over the three mile wide valley. But the jet had cut the operating line.

One hundred rescue workers converged on the cableway's anchoring points. Helicopters dispatched to the scene found the high mountain air too thin to operate in and some of the workers risked their lives to reach the cars hand by hand over the cable.

The accident occurred shortly after noon Tuesday (8:45 a.m. EDT). Seven hours later the first group of frightened, cold and hungry passengers stepped out of their car and were bundled up.

After 15 hours, the two Americans reached safety. "I was awfully glad to get down," said Katherine Blodgett, 19, of Grand Rapids., Mich., when reporters asked her about the ordeal. "I sure wasn't dressed for it."

She attends Radcliffe College. With her was her cousin, Hugh Putnam, 20, of Milton, Mass., a student at Harvard University. Both were uninjured.

Kennedy School Aid Measure Killed By House

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy suffered one of the most stunning defeats of this session of Congress Wednesday when the House voted against considering his aid-to-education bill, even though it was a whittled-down compromise.

Republicans and Southern Democrats formed the bulk of the group that overwhelmed the bill's supporters, 242 to 169. Only six Republicans voted to consider the bill, while 82 Democrats voted against.

The vote came quickly after the House met at noon, and it apparently ended all chances at this session for the administration to establish the principle of federal aid for public school construction. This was the key proposal remaining in the bill, and the one that stuck in the throats of the conservatives.

The other parts of the compromise, extension of federal aid to school districts crowded with children of federal employes, and extension of a college student loan program, are likely to be brought up next week as a new bill.

There is little opposition to these programs. The impacted areas aid benefits districts of more than 300 congressmen. That and the student loans are all that the administration is likely to salvage of the ambitious program it originally submitted.

The original program called for $2.5 billion for public schools, both for construction and salaries. All that remained in the final compromise was a $325-million one-year construction program for the most needy school districts.

Also proposed was a $1.8-billion college aid bill for building college facilities and federal scholarships to students. In the final skirmishing in House committees, the scholarship provisions were dropped. But construction funds are still included in a separate bill which has a chance of passage in the House later.

Discoverer Fired Into Polar Orbit

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) —The United States halted a two-shot "losing streak" Wednesday by firing the 29th Discoverer satellite into orbit.

The 81-foot Discoverer hurtled aloft in a heavy fog with a gold-plated capsule filled with instruments the Air Force hopes to recover from space.

The Air Force announced two hours after the 4 p.m. EDT launch that the 25-foot satellite had entered a polar orbit. Tracking stations in Alaska and Hawaii confirmed the orbit.

Officers said the recovery — near Hawaii by ships and planes —could be tried from one to four days after launching.

Charles Coburn, Veteran Actor, Dies At Age Of 84

NEW YORK (UPI) — Veteran character actor Charles Coburn, 84, died Wednesday at Lenox Hill Hospital, bringing to an end one of the longest active careers in show business.

The actor, one of Hollywood's most loved and most renowned oldtimers, succumbed at 3:50 p.m. EDT after undergoing throat surgery Wednesday morning.

The actor was married only a year ago last June to a 41-year-old widow.

The sprightly, octogenarian Coburn — whose professional acting covered 68 of his years — had expressed his hope only recently of living "another 10 years before departing this world." He kept busy almost to the last, enjoying in his jovial, hearty manner everything and everybody within range of his personality.

Coburn, who wore a monocle nearly half a century because—as few people knew — of an astigmatism in his right eye, revisited his hometown at Savannah, Ga., early this year. As outspoken as ever he proposed in an interview that the stirring strains of "Dixie" ought to replace that "frightful piece of music" called the Star Spangled Banner.

He described his own attitude. "I would stand on my head in the middle of the street — if it would sell tickets."

It was thus with his entire personal outlook; he liked people but he liked to shock them, too. He once said he would be "miserable" if he retired.

His versatility, however, was chief asset. He did everything from the classics in opera to the "bumps" in the film, "The More The Merrier." He liked any sport "that's well done," and at the age of 70 took up harness racing actively by driving his own horses in workouts with a sulky.

West's Big 4 Ministers Will Meet Sept. 14

President Appoints Gen. Lucius D. Clay As Envoy In Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy Wednesday described the situation in Berlin as "fraught with peril." He said the United States is determined to convince Russia that the West means to defend its rights there.

Kennedy, at a news conference, announced these measures for dealing with the crisis in Berlin:

1. A meeting of the Western Big Four foreign ministers to begin in Washington Sept. 14. He said this would represent a further step in the process of continuing consultation among the Big Four "in light of the Soviet challenge."

2. The appointment of retired Gen. Lucius Clay as his personal representative in Berlin. He called Clay, who masterminded the 1948-49 airlift which thwarted the Communists' ground blockade of Berlin, a man of outstanding ability and experience. Kennedy said he and Secretary of State Dean Rusk have unusual confidence in Clay.

Kennedy reiterated that the United States would use all available channels to ascertain if a peaceful settlement can be reached on the problems of Europe and in particular Germany.

"I do not see that there could be any solution, which would serve the world, on Berlin by force," Kennedy said.

Peaceful Solution Required

In these days of massive forces and weapons, the President declared, the future of the human race requires that a peaceful solution be sought.

"Neither side should attempt to impose its will by brute force because in that case it would be unsuccessful and disaster would be the common result," Kennedy said.

In response to a question, Kennedy declined to spell out what areas of negotiation he saw on the Berlin question.

Such a discussion, he said, would not be useful at this time.

A newsman told him that former Vice President Richard M. Nixon had termed Kennedy's dispatch of 1,500 additional troops to West Berlin a useless gesture. And, the newsman said, Rep. William Miller of New York, the Republican national chairman, had charged the Kennedy administration with an attitude of appeasement.

Kennedy replied he would not comment on those particular remarks. He said the situation in Germany is fraught with peril and suggested that anyone aware of the destructive power available to both sides in the dispute should "be careful in attempting to take any political advantage out of our present difficulty."

Troops 'Hostage' To U. S. Intent

Kennedy, in apparent relation to Nixon's remarks, then went on to say he was well aware that from a military point of view Berlin could not be held at this time if it were subjected to a direct Soviet attack.

"What we hope will prevent that direct attack is the awareness of the Soviet Union that we mean to defend our position in West Berlin and that American troops who are not numerous there are our hostage to that intent."

He said he believed that West Berliners would benefit from a reminder — in the form of fresh troops — of the West's commitment.

After a pause, he added: "I don't see really how that weakens our commitment. If troops were

Minuteman Rocket Blows Up In Silo

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—An Air Force Minuteman "instant ICBM" blew up in a concrete-lined hole in the ground Wednesday in its first flight attempt from a silo.

The 60-foot rocket, pride and joy of the Air Force's new generation of missiles, exploded in a mass of smoke and flame that boiled over the Cape.

This marked the first attempt to send the Minuteman on a full test flight from an underground silo, although the rocket ran up a string of eight perfect tests in "tethered" launchings from similar holes at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., early in its development.

There was no indication immediately on how much damage was caused by the mishap.

Rights Agency Voted 2-Year Lease On Life

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate voted 70 to 19 Wednesday night for a two-year extension of the controversial federal Civil Rights Commission.

The action came at the end of a day which saw the Senate vote down attempts to give the commission a longer lease on life. Also rejected was an attempt to link civil rights legislation to the extension plan.

Voting against the extension 18 Southern Democrats and GOP Sen. Milton R. Young, N. D.

The extension was hitched as a legislature rider to a money bill for the State and Justice Departments, the Civil Rights Commission and other agencies. The Senate previously voted 72 to 21 to suspend its rules to attach the rider.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., joined his Republican counterpart Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., in heading the drive for the two-year extension.

He disposed of the other proposals by moving to table them — on the grounds that a longer extension or a more elaborate civil rights amendment might provoke a Southern filibuster.

Technically, the Senate's action on the extension was subject to final approval later of the appropriations bill. This appeared all but certain.

The 72-21 margin by which the Senate suspended its rules to clear the way for the showdown votes was 10 votes more than the required two thirds majority.

Injunction Bars Pennsy Strike

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A federal judge issued an injunction Wednesday barring a threatened strike by 11,000 maintenance workers of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

U. S. District Court Judge Harold K. Wood granted the railroad's request for the injunction and said the strike set for midnight Thursday would do "irreparable injury" to the carrier.

The Transport Workers Union last Sunday threatened to "resume" a strike last September which shut down the system for 12 days. The union said the men would walk out Thursday midnight unless an arbitrator's decision on work rule disputes was not handed down by then.

Wood, who heard arguments Tuesday by both sides on the railroad's petition for the injunction, urged that both the union and the PRR "use all reasonable means" to assist in having the arbitrator's report filed "at the earliest possible date."

Show Of U.S. Force Shakes Loose Army Sedan Held By Reds

BERLIN (AP)—The U.S. Army rushed a small armored task force to the border Wednesday when an American military sedan was held up by armed guards inside the sealed-off Soviet sector.

A captain and three enlisted men in a U.S. Army staff car crossed into East Berlin in mid-afternoon and found themselves walled in by two automobiles full of East German police.

Word reached the West that the American military's right to be in East Berlin had been challenged. The U.S. Army raced two extra tanks and five armored cars to the Friedrichstrasse crossing point where all foreign traffic now passes to and from the blockaded East.

From the sidelines, where they have been keeping a constant watch, U.S. troops trundled up still another tank. The three big machines, their gun muzzles lowered on East German border guards, raced their engines. Five personnel carriers bristling with armor, also took up positions.

The four Americans in the sedan, all in uniform, stood their ground and refused to have anything to do with the East German police. They demanded to see a Soviet officer.

A Soviet major arrived and "protested," but it was unclear what he was protesting about. He took action, however, and after 2¼ hours the Army sedan returned over the Friedrichstrasse crossing point to West Berlin.

The Army immediately pulled its tanks and armored cars back, but as Col. Wayne Winder of Sheridan, Ill., said on the scene: "Not too far."

Asked if he would have charged into the Soviet sector to rescue the Americans, the colonel in full battle gear said: "I'd have been happy to do that if I had got the order."

As soon as the problem was solved, the American forces reduced their visible front on the border to a jeep. The East Germans also withdrew a personnel carrier that had suddenly turned up, loaded with about a dozen riflemen. They turned the job back to pistol-packing border guards.

Conferees Give Foreign Aid Bill Final Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate-House conferees voted final approval late Wednesday of a compromise $4.25 billion foreign aid bill authorizing a five-year program of economic development loans abroad.

The measure, signed by all five of the House conferees and six of the eight-member Senate group, is scheduled for passage in the Senate and House Thursday.

President Kennedy told his news conference the compromise bill would give his administration "a very valuable tool." He said he hoped Congress would not cut the funds authorized by the measure, "because any cut would diminish by that much our ability to do the job."

Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate conferees, said the signatures of Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, who was out of town, and Sen. Homer E. Capehart, R-Ind., who hasn't made up his mind on the report, were the only ones missing from the document.

The compromise rejects Kennedy's request for authority to borrow money from the Treasury to finance the loan program, and requires annual appropriations from Congress to fund it. However, the White House called the measure "wholly acceptable" to the President.

Traditional Segregation Barrier Falls In Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A century-old tradition was shattered Wednesday when nine Negroes quietly entered four previously white high schools in this Deep South metropolitan area of more than a million people.

Elaborate security measures nipped any possible trouble. Five persons, including one who said he was a member of the Nazi party, quickly were sentenced to 30 to 60 days on charges of disorderly conduct by interfering with the schools. Three others were questioned and released.

The Atlanta compliance with a federal court order left traditional segregation barriers in force only in Alabama, Mississippi and South Carolina.

Police kept persons moving and prevented crowds from forming at the four widely separated schools in areas representing a cross-section of the city's social and economic levels.

School officials reported attendance was normal or above normal at the four schools despite last minute efforts by a few race extremists to promote a boycott. Total attendance for the four was 4,336 or 150 above the enrollment expected.

One of the eight persons taken into custody at the schools told police he was Bill Cody of Arlington, Va., a member of the Nazi party. He said he came to picket and was hauled off to police headquarters.

Cody was given a 30-day sentence in Municipal Court on a charge of disorderly conduct. When the sentence was pronounced he raised his arm in a Nazi salute and said, "Sieg heil."

Soviet Claims It Pressured Into Renewal

Russ Say Projects For Superpowerful Bombs Worked Out

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced Thursday it will resume experimental explosions of nuclear weapons because of pressure from "imperialistcountries."

The Soviet announcement warned that Soviet scientists have "worked out projects of creating a series of superpowerful nuclear bombs" with a yield equivalent of up to 100 million tons of TNT.

And, the announcement added, rockets similar to those used to boost the Soviet Union's two astronauts into orbit around the earth are capable of delivering the new bombs to any point on earth.

(The first foreign governmental reaction came from Britain. A Foreign Office spokesman in London said early Thursday morning Britain had no official notice of the Soviet intentions and added: "We shall be astonished at such a retrograde step." He noted there was no mention of it at the Geneva nuclear test ban talks Wednesday).

The announcement — certain to force the United States to restudy its suspension of nuclear tests since Aug. 22, 1958—was transmitted by the Soviet news agency Tass.

Soviet scientists have taken every measure to minimize the harmful consequences of nuclear fallout on living organisms, Tass said.

The Soviet announcement charged: "It is an open secret that the United States is standing on the threshold of carrying out underground nuclear tests.

"It is obvious that such tests, even if it asserted that they were conducted for peaceful purposes, are nothing else but a concealed form of perfecting the available nuclear weapons or working on its new types."

The Soviet Union announced suspension of nuclear weapons tests March 31, 1958. The then President Dwight D. Eisenhower announced the following Aug. 22 that U.S. tests had been suspended.

The United States, the Soviet Union and Britain have been negotiating a permanent test ban in Geneva since Oct. 31, 1958, Both the United States and the Soviet Union threatened to resume nuclear testing if the negotiations were unsuccessful.

JFK Condemns Russ Action; U.S. Course Undecided

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy Wednesday night accused the Soviet Union of posing a hazard to every human being throughout the world by resuming atomic tests. He ordered Ambassador Arthur Dean recalled from the Geneva test ban talks to see what the United States should do.

In a White House statement issued at 9:50 p.m., Kennedy left open the question of what decision the United States will make about resuming nuclear test explosions, now that the Soviet Union has begun again.

Kennedy declared the Soviet announcement of plans for testing nuclear superbombs equivalent to the size of 100 million tons of TNT are threats which the Soviet Union "must know cannot intimidate the rest of the world."

"The United States, however, continues to believe in the importance of an agreement to end nuclear weapons test," the President said.

He then declared that the Soviet decision to go ahead with testing now "leaves the United States under the necessity of deciding what its own national interests require."

Holiday Auto Traffic May Take 420 Lives

CHICAGO (UPI) — The National Safety Council estimated Wednesday that 420 persons may die in traffic accidents over the Labor Day weekend.

It said 17,000 persons may emerge from the 78-hour holiday weekend with disabling injuries received in highway mishaps.

The council predicted a heavy surge of traffic on the nation's highways. It said most of the 74 million motor vehicles in the country will be on the road sometime between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight next Monday.

Witnesses Clam Up At Gambling Probe

Post Office Dept. Crackdown Requested

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators investigating an intricate network of gambling services ran into another string of balky witnesses Wednesday. Obviously miffed, they asked the Post Office Department to crack down on racing news publishers who plead the Fifth Amendment.

Two witnesses, Stanley Schoemaker of Highland Heights, Ky., and Richard Busker of Cincinnati —identified as gambling partners —refused even to sign their name on pads. Another, Robert C. Cullen of Cincinnati, refused to acknowledge that he knew his own son.

Sens. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., and Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D. —only members of the Senate Investigations subcommittee present—were so nettled by the witnesses that time after time they referred to them as "Fifth Amendment artists."

Mundt spoke of possible contempt of Congress proceedings. He said courts should test whether a witness may make "frivolous or capricious" use of the Fifth Amendment protection against self-incrimination.

McClellan accused the witnesses of "challenging your government" and he declared: "Maybe you folks are bigger than your government. I rather doubt it.'

In turning to the post office for help, Mundt and McClellan voted to ask that the postmaster general revoke the second-class mailing privileges of any racing news publishers who plead the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer questions the subcommittee asks about his business.

This would not bar his publication from the mails—a step McClellan suggested might be taken. But the publisher would have to pay higher first class mailing rates.

Specifically McClellan, the subcommittee chairman, asked the postmaster general to crack down on two witnesses who had refused to answer any questions.

One, who testified Tuesday, was Thomas Kelly Sr., head of a big Illinois sports service that publishes the Green Sheet and other racing publications. The other, who testified Wednesday, was Louis Efkeman, chief of Kelly's Louisville, Ky., subsidiary and editor of Daily Sports in Louisville.

Sewer Gas Kills Meter Reader

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — A meter reader for the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission died Wednesday and two others were hospitalized after being overcome by sewer gas.

Montgomery County Police said Roy Walter, 30, of Silver Spring, Md., was pronounced dead on arrival at Suburban Hospital in this Washington suburb.

Frank B. Smith, 25, of Washington was admitted to the same hospital, and a third man, James D. Welch, 27, of Silver Spring was taken to Sibley Hospital.

The three men were trying to read a water meter inside a manhole when the mishap occurred.

ing to democracy and the traditions of the hemisphere."

A Brazilian crisis was precipitated by the resignation of President Janio Quadros on Friday. Some military leaders objected to Goulart's moving into the presidency on the ground he held leftist views.

However, while Goulart was crossing the Atlantic aboard a jet airliner, the military leaders agreed to have Goulart serve as a figurehead president, with Congress appointing a prime minister to serve until elections in 1963.

Newsmen asked Goulart if he would submit to being a "figurehead president."

"The Parliament must decide that by themselves," he said.

Some Railroad Subsidization Favored By ICC

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission, traditional foe of transportation subsidies, came out Wednesday in favor of direct federal aid to keep essential—but the money-losing—passenger trains running.

The commission stressed that it still opposes general subsidization of transportation.

The proposals immediately ran into trouble when outlined by ICC Chairman Everett Hutchinson before a Senate Surface Transportation subcommittee.

Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, accused the ICC of taking the easy way out of difficulties besetting the railroads. "You're trying to buy your way by using the taxpayers' money," Lausche told Hutchinson.

Lausche and Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., spoke of complaints by rail management of labor featherbedding practices, "payments for work not done," Lausche called them.

Along this same tack, Thurmond contended that . "if the shackles were removed, the railroads could survive on their own." He said he hoped the ICC would have "the courage to make recommendations along that line."

The ICC, in a report geared mainly to the financial plight of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, said it and other carriers must have federal grants to maintain needed passenger services.

It estimated its proposals would not cost more than $52 million annually even if all the railroads applied for and received the assistance.

The commission said its recommendations would be sent to Congress.

Under the commission's proposals, federal aid would be geared in part at least to the amount of assistance provided by states and municipalities for passenger service.

Soviet Claims

But until now, neither had been willing to risk offending world opinion, particularly among nonaligned nations where opposition to testing has been strong.

"In order to discourage the aggressors from criminal playing with fire it is necessary to make sure that he knows and sees that there is a power in the world which is ready to give an armed rebuff to any encroachment on the independence and security of peace-loving states and that the hand of retribution will reach the aggressor in his own den," the statement said.

The Russians swept away the prospects of the Geneva conference in a blast of scorn for the West—and particularly France.

The Kremlin statement said "the entire course of negotiations in Geneva proves that the Western powers pursue the aim of actually legalizing those types of nuclear tests in which they are interested, and of establishing an international control body which would be an obedient tool in their hands.

"Hypocritical statements of representatives of the U.S.A. and Great Britain about the termination of tests and international control have proved to be nothing more than camouflage.

"France, encouraged by the United States and Britain, has been carrying out nuclear tests already for a long time in spite of warnings by the U.S.S.R. that it would be forced to resume tests if France did not stop its experiments with nuclear weapons.

"The blast wave of French nuclear tests has reached Geneva, actually sweeping away from the tale of negotiations the proposals aimed at putting an end to the nuclear weapons tests once and for all."

Priest's Church Beer Sale Plan Falls Through

EDINBURG, Tex. (UPI)—A 26-year-old city ordinance Wednesday dried up the plans of a Roman Catholic priest to sell beer at his church in nearby McCook, Tex.

The Rev. V. Herbert Howley had planned to sell beer to his parishioners on church property on the theory it would be better for them to get it there than at taverns.

He applied for a church beer permit. He withdrew the application Tuesday when Hidalgo, Tex., County Judge Milton Richardson said a 1935 order passed by the Hidalgo County Commissioners Court prohibits the sale of beer within 300 feet of the door of a church or a school.

GOP Leaders Urge Nixon Run

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Republican national leaders Wednesday overwhelmingly urged former Vice President Richard M. Nixon to run for governor of California next year.

President Kennedy also said he would give Nixon his views on the California race "as a fellow . . .follower of the political profession" if his presidential opponent sought his opinion.

Kennedy told his news conference, "I would be glad to give him my opinion, as I have an opinion on the matter." He did not disclose the opinion to newsmen.

Nixon and GOP leaders from in and outside Congress agreed at a private breakfast that the party must build strength in the 1962 elections "to put a brake on potentially dangerous" Kennedy administration policies.

But the main topic of their session, legislators said, was the possibility of Nixon running against Democratic Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown in next year's California election.

withdrawn, would that strengthen it?"

Kennedy said that he was sure Soviet Premier Khrushchev is as aware as he of the terrible devastation that would be wrought throughout the world if countries possessing nuclear weapons tried to fling them at each other.

Kennedy discussed a wide range of topics at his first news conference since Aug. 10. For the occasion, he wore his usual news conference outfit of dark blue suit and purple tie.

At the outset he congratulated Gov. Ernest Vandiver of Georgia, Mayor William B. Hartsfield of Atlanta, other officials, parents and students for the "responsible, law-abiding manner" in which Atlanta desegregated four high schools Wednesday.

Kennedy also got into these other matters:

STEEL AND AUTO—Kennedy said his economic advisers believe steel companies can absorb a wage increase due Oct. 1 without increasing prices and still insure themselves of a good profit.

He expressed hope that these companies would "concern themselves with the public interest" and said a steel price hike would set off another inflationary spiral.

SCHOOLS — Kennedy acknowledged as "quite clear" the defeat of his public school aid proposals in the House earlier Wednesday. He promised to try again next year to get through legislation providing federal funds for school construction. The administration was not the loser now, he said—the losers were the "school children who need this assistance."

NIXON—In response to a question, Kennedy said he has an opinion, as a fellow practitioner of the political profession, as to whether Nixon should run for governor of California. The President didn't say what that opinion is, but drew a laugh when he said he would be glad to give Nixon his opinion, if Nixon asked.

The former vice president had said he will announce his own decision late next month.

Matter Of Extremes

BARRIE, Ont. (AP)—Workers at the Universal Cooler Co. complained that the plant's burglar alarm was so sensitive that it went off if someone just walked through a room. The company adjusted it. Several nights later a thief forced open a window and escaped with $250. The alarm did not go off.

Cholesterol And Heart Trouble Mass Test Set

HONOLULU (AP) — The National Heart Institute this fall will start a mass experiment involving as many as 400,000 Americans to determine whether and to what extent cholesterol causes heart trouble.

The program will last for five years. Thousands of families will receive nearly all their food free. Some will have controlled diets.

Dr. Frederick Stare, chairman of Harvard University's Department of Nutrition, said pilot studies of six to 12 months will begin this fall in Boston, Baltimore, Chicago, Minneapolis and Oakland, Calif.

Stare, attending the 10th Pacific Science Congress, said 250 males will be chosen in each city. Their diets will naturally affect their families, he said, which multiplies the number by three to four times.

The men will be examined every three months, with special emphasis on heart condition, amount of animal fat consumed, exercise and amount of cholesterol in their blood, Stare said.

The experiment grew out of a congressional request for more specific information on cardio-vascular ailments and their causes. It is sponsored by the U.S. Public Health Service.

After the pilot studies are completed, Stare said, 100,000 men in the 45-54 age group will be selected for a five-year study.

Mathias Votes "No" On School Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The roll call vote by which the House Wednesday voted 242-169 to refuse to consider the administration's aid to education bill included:

Democrats for: Bailey of W. Va., Brewster of Md., Friedel of Md., Garmatz of Md., Hechler of W. Va., Kee of W. Va., Lankford of Md., McDowell of Del., Slack of W. Va. and Staggers of W. Va.

Democrats against: Fallon of Md. and Johnson of Md.

Republicans against: Mathias of Md. and Moore of W. Va.

AMC And UAW Clear Barrier

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers Union Wednesday removed the only barrier to a labor contract settlement based on the auto industry's first profit-sharing plan.

AMC president George Romney and UAW President Walter P. Reuther announced agreement on rules governing working conditions in the plants. They said the technical language was being completed.

Reuther joined Romney in a news conference for the announcement during a luncheon recess in intensified bargaining at General Motors Corp.

Reuther personally took command of the UAW's bargaining with GM after the union and the company agreed on extension of a strike deadline from Friday midnight to 10 a.m., Sept. 6.

Pravda Implies E. German Pact Insures Peace

MOSCOW (AP) —The whole front page of Pravda, the Communist party paper, was devoted Wednesday to telling the Russian people the German situation is becoming serious, but that the Soviet government will assure peace by a treaty with East Germany and by separating Berlin from the West.

The paper gave full play to a declaration of the party and government ordering extension of the terms of servicemen due for discharge this year.

"Interests of security of the Soviet Union demand that the best-trained Soviet soldiers continue their service in the armed forces of the Soviet Union until a peace treaty with Germany is concluded," the declaration said.

This assumption that the signing of a Soviet-East German peace treaty would end global tensions was further implied:

"The treaty is called upon to improve relations between the states, to improve the situation in Europe and to strengthen world peace. The Central Committee of the Communist party of the Soviet Union and the Soviet government express hope that this will also be understood by leading quarters in the United States, the United Kingdom and France and other Western powers, so that common sense will prevail there and the Western powers will not contradict the will of the peoples, who are vitally interested in the maintenance and consolidation of peace."

So far, extremely little publicity has been given within the Soviet Union to Western claims, including a statement by President Kennedy, that interference with the present situation in Germany is more likely to create than prevent trouble.

A Western diplomat wondered aloud: "Just why are the Russian people being told just the opposite of what is likely to happen?"

But Russians in the street don't seem to see it that way. There is such a genuine dislike and distrust of Germans here that almost any program designed to weaken them is bound to be popular.

William Seward, secretary of State under President Johnson, bought Alaska for $7,200,000. Opponents called it "Seward's Folly."

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Say you're sick — but not acutely ill.

You're conscious and able to navigate.

But the doctor decides you need some diagnostic work. And he elects to have you admitted to a hospital.

So there you are, Jane Doe, being charged from $26 to $35 or more a day — even though you don't need all the intensive and costly care the hospital's serving up to the acutely ill patient in the next room.

By the time the pain in the pocketbook starts to give you mental anguish, you're thinking that maybe the hospital ought not to be charging you so much.

Now hospital administrators in one hospital got to thinking along these lines some months ago. And they did something about it.

The effect: A 50 per cent or greater reduction in the per day charge for selected patients.

Now this isn't happening in Utopia hospital. It's happening in the North Carolina Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem, N. C.

How the hospital managed to slice costs for some patients while hospital costs generally continue to spiral is told by Robert Walker, administrative assistant to the North Carolina Baptist Hospitals.

Walker, reporting in "Hospitals," the journal of the American Hospital Association, credits the financial miracle to a new minimal care unit the hospital opened in March.

It has 80 beds. The cost per patient per day ranges between $7 and $12.

"The decision to build the new unit came after the trustees of the hospital, anxious to reduce patient cost and still increase bed capacity, studied a patient survey that showed that on almost any day at least one patient in five, or sometimes one in four or even one in three, did not require full professional hospital care," he said.

To be eligible for admittance to the less costly quarters, patients must meet the following requirements:

—They must be transferred from Baptist Hospital for convalescence.

—Or they must be admitted for diagnostic studies or a therapeutic regimen not requiring intravenous drugs.

—And they must be able to walk to meals. Patients with fever or infection are not eligible for admission.

"The main factor in the difference in cost is in the saving made possible in payroll," Walker said. "Although the hospital has 2.71 employees for each patient, the ratio in the center is three patients to one employee."

This savings in personnel — and money — is possible for these reasons:

In the center the patient takes his own medication, has his meals in the hospital's cafeteria and is not generally subjected to hospital routine.

Rates for rooms in the hospital range from $13.50 to $26. In the minimal care unit, rates range from $7 to $12, with most being $9.

Labor Day Hailed As Symbol By JFK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy Tuesday hailed the forthcoming Labor Day holiday as a symbol of the vital distinction between the economic and social progress of the American way of life and the tyranny of communism.

But, in a special Labor Day statement, the President called for even greater American economic growth.

"In setting the goal of our society at the realization of human dignity, we reach for the highest of stars and seek the outer limits of human capability," Kennedy said.

He said Labor Day will mark "achievement in human welfare—the economic and social protections our working people enjoy, the wide distribution of our wealth."

He said it also will commemorate "the access to advancement and education, the strength of our labor organizations, the exercise of individual decisions in guiding our institutions."

Finnish Priest To Be Ordained

HELSINKI (UPI)—The first Finnish Roman Catholic priest to be ordained in his homeland in about 400 years will take his vows Sunday in Helsinki's Church of St. Mary.

The blond, 35-year-old Dominican, Brother Martti Voutilainen, was converted to the Roman Catholic faith in 1953 when he was studying history at the University of Helsinki.

There have been only two Finnish Catholic priests during the 400 years since the Reformation, according to church records, But both of them were ordained elsewhere.

His ordination will be a big event for the 2,300 Finnish Roman Catholics. The ceremony will be performed by Bishop Guillauime Cbben of the Finnish Roman Catholic Diocese. Also present will be all the 20 Roman Catholic priests of Finland.

Four Additional Rangers Ordered For Moon Shots

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—Four more Ranger spacecraft have been ordered in the moon exploration program, the latest ones to carry television cameras for closeup pictures in preparation for a manned lunar landing, it was announced Tuesday.

Dr. Robert C. Seamans Jr., associate administrator of the National Space Agency, and Dr. William H. Pickering, director of the California Institute of Technology Jet Propulsion Laboratory, announced the increase from five to nine Ranger shots.

"The assignment of four additional Rangers is part of the general acceleration of the program to land an American on the moon by 1970," said Dr. Seamans.

Cost of the additional four Rangers has not been determined, but Pickering said it would be comparable to the $20 million apiece for the first five.

Announcement of the stepped-up program came at a news conference to explain what happened on Ranger I fired last week from Cape Canaveral. It was aimed for deep space but stayed in a close earth orbit. Scientists at the laboratory said despite this failure, the shot was highly important in proving sub-systems aboard Ranger would work.

The spidery craft, which they hoped would stay in orbit 100 days, probably will burn up this week because of friction at the lower altitude.

Dr. Pickering said the four new Rangers would send back to earth high resolution television pictures of the lunar surface up to the moment the space craft crashes into the moon. Three of the earlier planned Rangers will carry crude TV cameras but they will not be able to photograph the moon any lower than 20 miles away.

India Prefers Soviet 'Copter

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon said Monday the Indian Air Force prefers a Russian-built helicopter to an American-made model for Himalayan border defense operations.

Krishna Menon told parliament the Soviet MI-4 has a better operational capacity than its American counterpart, the Sikorsky S-62. Both types were purchased by Indian specifically for the border work.

"The absolute ceiling of the MI-4 is about 1,300 feet higher than that of the S-62," he said. "At the altitude at which these aircraft are required to operate most frequently, the MI-4 has a substantially greater passenger carrying capacity."

Napoleon's disastrous march on Moscow cost him some 575,000 men. His army was 600,000 strong when he marched into Russia and he came out with just 25,000.

TV Profits And Costs Increase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Television industry profits, revenues and costs all increased in 1960, the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) reported Tuesday.

Broadcast revenues totaled $1,268,600,000 for the year 1960—a 9 per cent increase above 1959, the FCC said. Profits before taxes rose 9.8 per cent to $244,100,000, while expenses were $1,024,500,000, an increase of 8.8 per cent over the year before.

According to the FCC's annual report on TV broadcast finances, the three TV networks accounted for 50.5 per cent of total industry revenues in 1960 compared with 49.5 per cent in 1959. They received 39 per cent of total industry profits, approximately the same previous year.

Handyman Held For Grand Jury Action In Strangulation-Slaying Of Widow, 86

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — George I. Green Wednesday was ordered held for grand jury action in the strangulation-slaying of Mrs. Margarita B. LeSueur on Aug. 18.

Green, a 31-year-old Negro handyman who can neither read nor write, was charged with murder and attempted rape four days after the body of the 86-year-old widow was found in a tool room at the historic Chase House here.

Magistrate Robert S. Heise ordered Green held without bond after a preliminary hearing. Green's attorney, Tucker Dearing, entered pleas of innocent to both charges against the defendant.

Green appeared in the courtroom in an over-sized tan suit, a white shirt and tie. He spoke only a few words, most of them to his other attorney, Nicholas J. Fotos of Annapolis. He kept turning about and looking at the crowd which filled every seat and lined the center aisle and both sides of the small courtroom. Many other people remained outside the door in the hallway.

Capt. J. Walter Musterman, one of four local police officers to testify, related how Green, better known locally by his nickname of "Socks," re-enacted the crime for police.

Musterman said Green admitted under questioning that he had seen "a lady" at the scene and grabbed her "around the neck." Musterman said Green then demonstrated with his hands how he had grabbed the woman.

"I thought I didn't hurt her," Musterman said Green told him.

Musterman said Green also identified a picture of the woman and described for officers the alleged attempted rape.

The police captain, who handled the local investigation, said Green also admitted losing his comb at the scene of the crime.

Other witnesses at the preliminary hearing included Mrs. Lola S. Faust, manager of the Chase Home, who discovered Mrs. LeSueur's body.

BALTIMORE (AP) — George P. Mahoney, a Democratic primary candidate for governor, announced Wednesday that his campaign will be run by Joseph L. Manning.

Manning, an unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination for comptroller in 1958, is managing director of the Independent Retail Grocers Association of Maryland.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore city officials are considering a proposal that would bar spectators from the field during Colt football games at Memorial Stadium. The move is backed by the Colts, the police department and the park department, who want to keep fans from streaming onto the field during dramatic plays.

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Anne Arundel County's semi-monthly payroll of $90,000 was distributed on schedule Wednesday to some 900 county employes.

J. J. Salovaara, county business manager, directed the payment in an order to the Anne Arundel fiscal officer, George Smith. "The effect of my memorandum to Mr. Smith is to put this whole thing on my shoulders," Salovaara said.

Left unresolved by the action was refusal of four members of the county's Board of Commissioners to sign the payroll voucher with Salovaara's name on it. The four previously voted to suspend Salovaara without pay for 60 days. The business manager has remained on the job on advice of other commissioners.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Bernard J. Schmidt, who rose from the ranks, will be sworn in Friday as Baltimore's new police commissioner. Schmidt, now an inspector, was appointed commissioner by Gov. Tawes to succeed James M. Hepbron.

SALISBURY (AP) — Officials here were informed Wednesday that a survey of procedures at the Poplar Hill prison labor camp now is under way by James Curran, state superintendent of prisons.

The survey was ordered by Gov. Tawes, acting on a request by State's Atty. Alfred T. Truitt Jr. of Wicomico County. Truitt asked for the study after a series of recent escape incidents at the camp, a rehabilitation center without armed guards, bars or fences.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Thomas D'Alesandro, former mayor of Baltimore and now a member of the Federal Renegotiation Board, Wednesday was named Maryland chairman of the Leukemia Society's 1961 fund appeal. The campaign is scheduled Sept. 5- Oct. 5.

Fisheries Dept. Chief's Duties Are Spelled Out

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Tidewater Fisheries Commission Wednesday turned over to Director Joseph H. Manning control of all administrative affairs of the Fisheries Department.

As director, he will be responsible to the commission for department operations. The commission, however, will continue to set fisheries policies.

The "clarification" of Manning's duties was spelled out at a special meeting of the five-member commission. The group met for two hours behind closed doors discussing department affairs before issuing its statement.

Manning, a former biologist at the Chesapeake Biological Laboratory at Solomons, was hired as fisheries director June 1.

Prior to that, for two years, Dr. H. C. Byrd had served as both chairman of the TFC and as department director. He continues to serve as chairman but will not be directly concerned with any administrative affairs.

The resolution adopted by the commission expressed appreciation to Byrd "for his services as acting director for two years, in which acting capacity he served without pay."

"Inasmuch as a director has been appointed, it is recognized that all the affairs of the department will be administered by him under supervision of the commission," the resolution added.

In addition to clarifying Manning's duties, the commission agreed to name several committees which would be concerned with various work of the fisheries department, such as law enforcement oyster planting and other matters.

A member of the commission would be chairman of each committee, and Manning would serve as a member along with the particular division head concerned.

"This will provide good liaison of what has been done in the past and what may come up in the future," Byrd said.

The appointees will act as liaison men between the ARA and local communities seeking federal aid under the new program to promote the economic development for depressed areas.

The positions have Civil Service status and pay about $10,500 a year.

The new coordinators include:

MARYLAND—Charles E. Leete of Alexandria, Va., manager of product assurance for RCA Inc., Burlington, Mass., for the past two years.

Referendum Petition Perjury Trial Set

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The trial of a Glen Burnie man charged with falsely certifying a petition to force a referendum on savings and loan legislation has been set for next Tuesday in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court.

The defendant, William Charles Langston Sr., was indicted Aug. 3 on two counts of perjury. He was accused of falsely swearing that all the signatures on the petition were genuine and that they had been signed in his presence.

The petition has been declared invalid by Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan. It was one of a number of petitions that Finan's office threw out. At the end of the screening process he held that there were not enough valid petitions to force a referendum.

University's Pre-College Course Hailed

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — More than half of the 320 students who successfully completed a pre-college course at the University of Maryland this summer will be admitted to the university for the coming semester, an official said Wednesday.

R. Lee Hornbake, the university's vice president for academic affairs, described the new course as "highly successful". Hornbake said the session was geared to high school graduates with border line academic records.

A total of 359 students enrolled in the course, Hornbake said, but 39 dropped out. Of the 320 who finished, 176 will be admitted to the college of their choice this fall.

Hornbake said the purpose of the course, started this summer, was to provide students who do not meet university qualifications with "... direct experiences in attending college so they may obtain an appraisal of their capabilities."

At the same time, Hornbake said, the university can determine the student's eligibility to continue to attend the university.

All students in the new program were required to take freshman English and either sociology or government and politics. Prospective engineering students were required to attend a basic course in mathematics.

Only residents of Maryland are eligible for the program, Hornbake said. Out-of-state students fulfill requirements for regular admission.

Eight Jailed, Fined For Sit-In

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP)—Municipal Court Judges James N. Colasanto sentenced eight sit-in demonstrators to a six-month jail sentence and a $250 fine each.

The eight demonstrators were accused of trespassing at a local restaurant.

Judge Colasanto, after dismissing defense motions to throw out the charges on constitutional grounds, found all the defendants guilty of "deliberately violating the trespass statute." The demonstrators were charged specifically with trespassing after being forbidden to do so, a state law aimed at preventing sit-ins.

Maximum penalties are a year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Each demonstrator was given a six-month jail sentence, with five months of the term suspended on their good behavior. They were arrested Tuesday.

No wonder the English keep so cool!

(mix Gordon's Gin in a tall, iced drink–and you will, too!)

The English are not easily fazed, even by summer heat. This national talent was given a cheerful accompaniment in 1769, when Alexander Gordon introduced his remarkable gin. The Gordon's you drink today harks back to his original formula, because one does not tamper with gin of such distinctive dryness and flavour. Try it soon in a tangy Gin & Tonic or Tom Collins. You'll see why, summer and winter, Gordon's Gin is the biggest seller in England, America, and indeed – the world!

NEW YORK (AP)—Many influences are tugging and hauling at the stock market.

On the adverse side are the Berlin crisis and the possibility of an automobile strike. Favorable are the many indications of business improvement.

As a result, the market isn't doing much sensational one way or another and investment analysts are groping to put their fingers on the factors that are going to exert the strongest pressures.

"The difficulties involved in generalizing about a market like this are obvious, partly because some of the things which seem obvious are not true at all," says L. O. Hooper of W. E. Hutton & Co.

"One can generalize, however," he adds, "that neither the New York stock market nor the stock markets of other Western countries act like they are expecting a war. It may be generalized, too, that there is a general expectation of better business after Labor Day, and there seems to be a tendency for profit margins to improve."

W. I. La Tourette of Shearson, Hammill & Co. is of the opinion that profit-taking, rather than international crisis or the auto-labor situation, accounted for the recent market setback.

This would be logical, he says, following the advance of nearly 40 points in the Dow Jones industrial average since mid-July.

"In view of the strong business outlook, it would seem reasonable to expect that the same sort of selective strength evident in the market before last week's decline will reappear," says La Tourette.

Harvard University libraries contain nearly six million volumes.

China Said To Lack Atom Bomb Potential

TAIPEI (UPI) — Communist China will be capable of testing a nuclear device by the end of the year but still is "about 25 years" away from being able to manufacture nuclear weapons, Nationalist Chinese intelligence sources said Tuesday.

Arthur H. Dean, head of the American team trying to negotiate a nuclear test ban at Geneva, recently said that Communist China "probably could" produce an atom bomb by 1962 or 1963.

But the Nationalist sources said there was "no reason" for alarm. "It is one thing to hold a nuclear weapons and have the means to deliver a nuclear punch."

The sources reported China lacks the steel, iron ore and equipment to produce atomic bombs and said it is "unbelievable" that the Soviet Union would give its Asian ally even a small stockpile of atomic weapons.

ETV Coming To Tiny Island Off Miami

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A tiny schoolhouse on the island of Bimini in the British West Indies goes modern Sept. 8 when courses in science, Spanish, typing and sewing will be beamed to it from Miami's educational television station WTHS-TV.

About a fifth of the school's 300 students, all but 15 of whom are Negroes, will discover for the first time how education can be transmitted, via three 23-inch TV sets. In the evenings, island adults will gather at the school for televised typing and sewing classes.

This first experiment in international ETV in the Western hemisphere is made possible by a $4,500 grant from the Ford Foundation.

The foundation will supply guides and textbooks for the courses. The ETV instruction will be coordinated with classroom teaching by the school's young headmaster, Jack Donnelly, and Cliff Mitchell, director of radio and TV education for the Dade County (Miami) public schools.

The Bimini experiment began eight months ago when Dr. Alvin C. Eurich of New York, the Ford Foundation's education director, flew to Bimini, an island of 1,500 residents, for the New Year's holiday. He visited the island's only public school. There he found Donnelly, his wife and two local teacher aides teaching 300 boys and girls ranging from the first through the 10th grade.

Because of the limited school enrollment and the low drop-out and transfer rate, Eurich reasoned that it would be relatively easy to measure any added scholastic growth which the pupils at Bimini might achieve from the use of ETV.

Dean Of Washington Diplomatic Corps Rates High On Capital's List Of VIPs

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President talks with his secretary of state as he waits at the airport for a foreign dignitary to arrive.

Everyone stands back respectfully while they chat.

Suddenly an impeccably attired man bustles up and engages them in animated conversation. They seem glad to talk to him; he is obviously pleased to talk to them.

Who is he to rush in where even Secret Service men are loathe to tread?

In most of the United States the question would produce a blank.

Wherever world politicians meet, to greet or eat, there is the vigorous, 52-year-old Sevilla-Sacasa. He has been in Washington for 17 years. As ambassador with the most seniority, he's dean of the diplomatic corps.

In Washington protocol, the order begins: President, vice president, chief justice, former president and speaker.

Then comes Sevilla-Sacasa, before governors, senators, representatives and, of course, other ambassadors.

"Washington," says Sevilla-Sacasa, as proudly as if he were president of this city's Board of Trade, "is indeed the capital of the world."

Here are 100 embassies and legations, now so think they almost crowd into each other.

Over this vast, unorganized, polyglot and often squabbling community presides the cheerful, industrious Sevilla-Sacasa.

Suppose an envoy thinks he has been mistreated simply because he's a Negro. Sevilla-Sacasa is appealed to. He takes the delicate problem to State Department officials.

But he finds his greatest glory as representative of the other ambassadors at the many official functions this town produces daily.

In 1958, his first year as dean, he attended 507. In 1959 it was 532. Last year it came to 541.

His official jobs are three.

He's ambassador to the United States, he represents Nicaragua at the Organization of American States and at the United Nations.

Sevilla-Sacada's day is long but never tedious.

Hes' up at seven to read the newspapers. Breakfast and work on correspondence follow. Then it is off to the embassy downtown or maybe a meeting in the Pan-American Union.

An official luncheon could be next followed by a reception and then maybe an official dinner. He hopes to be home for the 11 o'clock news, and after this tries to catch up on his reading.

Sleep?

"I get six hours and a half. That's enough, uh?"

Hot Dog Shortcake

4 slices bacon, cut into ½-inch pieces
⅔ chopped onion
1 cup milk
2 cups prepared biscuit mix
8 frankfurters
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 can (10½ oz.) cream of celery soup
1½ teaspoons prepared mustard
¼ cup sliced pitted black olives
½ cup shredded pasteurized process American cheese (2 oz.)

Fry bacon; drain and save drippings. Add ⅓ cup onions to drippings, cook slowly until tender. Cool. Add ½ cup milk. Add bacon and milk-onion mixture to biscuit mix; stir just until ingredients are moistened. Knead on lightly floured board 8 to 10 strokes. Pat to 1-inch thickness. Cut into 3 to 3½-inch rounds with floured cutter. Place on baking sheet, bake in hot oven (400°F.) until done, 20 to 25 minutes. While shortcakes are baking prepare sauce and heat hot dogs. Slice 4 frankfurters ¼ inch thick. Make slashes in remaining frankfurters ¼ inch apart not cutting frank quite through. Cook remaining onions slowly in butter or margarine until tender. Blend in soup. Heat slowly, stirring frequently. Add sliced franks and olives; heat. Add cheese to sauce; stir until melted. Broil slashed hot dogs 3 to 4 inches from heat source while shortcakes finish baking. Split shortcakes in half. Put halves together shortcake-fashion with sauce. Top with additional sauce and a frankfurter crown made with a round frank. Yield: 4 servings.

Alligators live a maximum of about 43 years, while pigs and sheep may live as long as 20 years.

Midsummer Dream Dish

Turkey-Potato Pie with Cornbread Topping is a delectable leftover dish. Melt 3 tablespoons butter, add 4 tablespoons flour, and stir over low heat until blended. Add 1½ cups cold turkey broth, ½ cup cream, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 1 teaspoon finely grated onion and ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Stir in 2 cups sliced or diced cooked turkey and 1 cup cooked diced potatoes. Pour into a 2-quart casserole or 6 individual baking dishes, put on a cookie sheet or piece of aluminum foil, and place in a 425 degree F. oven. Allow the pie filling to heat 10 minutes before adding a cornbread topping. For variety, substitute the 1 cup of potatoes with 1 cup cooked carrots, peas, onions, celery or gree beans. Or use 1 cup mixture of any of these vegetables. Or omit the vegetables entirely, add an extra cup of turkey, and use a potato topping instead of cornbread topping.

CORNBREAD TOPPING for a turkey pie . . . sift together ½ cup sifted flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1½ teaspoons baking powder and 2 teaspoons sugar. Stir in ½ cup cornmeal. Cut in 2 tablespoons shortening until the texture looks like coarse cornmeal. Combine 1 well beaten egg and ½ cup milk, add to the dry ingredients and stir until moistened. Pour the topping over the heated turkey pie filling, and continue baking until the topping is brown, 20 to 25 minutes.

POTATO TOPPING for a turkey pie . . . combine ½ cup well seasoned, warmed, mashed potatoes, 1 well beaten egg and ¼ teaspoon poultry seasoning. Spread the topping over the heated turkey pie filling. Brush it with 1 tablespoon melted butter and ⅛ teaspoon paprika. Continue baking the pie until the sauce is bubbly and the topping brown, about 30 minutes.

Eggs In Pleasing Ways

Dried egg may be used in either of two ways. You can either reconstitute with water or combine it with dry ingredients. When reconstituting with water, mix only the amount needed for the recipe being prepared. Sift and measure the dried egg, using level measurements. Sift the dried egg again and sprinkle over the required amount of water. Blend by using a rotary beater, wire whip or shaker.

When combining with dry ingredients, sift and measure the dried egg before combining with the other ingredients, using level measurements. The water needed to reconstitute the dried egg should be added to the other liquid in the recipe.

Be sure to promptly wash the sifter and other utensils used.
